Another Rush At Berlin Gate Expected Today

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — A new rush of West Berliners crossing the wall is expected with only four more days remaining on the agreement allowing visits to East Berlin.

A total of 172,740 West Berliners greeted the New Year with relatives behind the wall, pushing past 600,000 the number of visitors to the Red sector since the visits began Dec. 19.

The huge flow of West Berliners placed new pressure on Mayor Willy Brandt's West Berlin government to discuss an extension of the visiting arrangement with the Communist East German regime.

The agreement expires at midnight Sunday.

Brandt has said he will try to renew the agreement, which has given West Berliners their first chance to see relatives in

Three Monks Are Killed in New Cyprus Disorders

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Archbishop Makarios, Greek Cypriot president of Cyprus, has begun a campaign to end Turkey's special role in Cyprus, granted by the island's 1960 independence treaties.

Charging Turkey with "aggressive actions" in the communal strife between Greek and Turkish Cypriots, Makarios announced Wednesday night he would seek to dissolve agreements under which Britain, Greece and Turkey guarantee Cyprus' sovereignty.

Earlier, Makarios said he would tear up the agreements. But later Britain challenged his right to act alone, he said he would "secure the termination of these treaties by appropriate means," meaning by negotiation.

The diplomatic exchanges came amid fresh violence. Three monks were killed and another three wounded in a raid Wednesday on the Greek Orthodox monastery of Galactoforousa, 25 miles southwest of Nicosia. Survivors said five or six Turkish Cypriots made the raid.

Britain, now acting as peacemaker and policeman for its former colony, feared new reprisals by Turkish Cypriots if Ma-

LITTLE MISTER '64 — The time was 6:25 a.m., the date, Jan. 1, 1964, when young Mr. John David Reinhard, weighing in at 7 pounds, 4¼ ounces, put in his appearance at Penrose Hospital in Colorado Springs. By arriving so early, John David became the first baby of 1964 and the winner of a number of gifts presented by Colorado Springs businessmen and merchants. John David poses here with his mother, Mrs. John L. Reinhard, of 19 N. Meade Ave.

John David Reinhard First Baby Of 1964 Born in Colorado Springs

The first baby born here in 1964 was John David Reinhard, who weighed 7 pounds, 4¼ ounces when he came into the world at 6:25 a.m. New Year's Day. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Reinhard, 19 N. Meade Ave.

John David was born at Penrose Hospital and was attended by James M. Myers, M. D.

Little Mister 1964 won the contest hands down. His next nearest rival was a little 5-pound, 1-ounce girl born at 11:16 a.m. Jan. 1 at the Air Force Academy Hospital to T. Sgt. and Mrs. Chung Y. Chin, 169 Grinnell St. Running a slow third was the son of Airman 1.C. and Mrs. Rusell L. Inman of 3100 Wood Ave. This youngster was born at the AFA Hospital also and came into the world at 5 pounds, 5 ounces.

John David is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard, who were married in 1963. Mrs. Reinhard came to Colorado Springs from Green Bay, Wis., and was a teacher at Midland School. Reinhard was born at Pueblo and moved with his family to Colorado Springs while quite young. For the past six years he has worked for Weicker Transfer and Storage Co. as a truck driver.

Young John David Reinhard will begin his life with a vast array of gifts from Colorado Springs merchants. For example, he'll start out with $30 in savings, $10 each from Don Esch Heating and Sheet Metal, Pikes Peak National Bank and Northern National Bank.

Gift certificates range from $10 to $50. The larger sum comes from Furniture Center, with $10 certificates each from Kaufman's, King Soopers, Cooper-Lidke Drug Co., and Bargain Barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard will receive gifts, too. These include a steak dinner given by Palmer House and a special dinner at the Moors. When she takes advantage of those dinners, Mrs. Reinhard will have a necklace and earring set from Mar Ru Distinctive Fashions which she may want to wear.

And when the mother of the first '64 baby gets up at night for a regular feeding, she'll keep her feet warm in a pair of slippers from Sally's Shoes.

Announcements of John David Reinhard's birth will be furnished by Ru-Jan Party Shop. He'll spend his first night at home, and other nights to follow, in a baby crib from Ajax Furniture and Appliances, and his food will be kept at the desirable temperature with a General Electric automatic baby food warmer from Hatch's.

Little John's feet will be kept nice and warm with shoes from Ralph's Shoes and from the Junior Bootery.

The baby will be one of the most photographed of the year in his hometown, and his par-

K-Mart Hailed as Great Merchandising Innovation

The K-Mart Discount Department store that Kresge and Company is building here is the most successful innovation in retail merchandising to hit the market in years.

Officials of the company credit the K-Mart for making 1963 the most successful year in the 64-year history of Kresge.

Harry B. Cunningham, president of the firm, said that this past year would give the company the highest increase in percentage of sales than any other national retailer.

The K-Mart is unique, because it is a shopping center in itself. Everything that can be found in a variety of stores in a shopping center will be available in the K-Mart which is being constructed at the corner of Airport Road and Circle Drive.

A total of 38 different departments will be included in the 100,000 square foot building and Kresge will place some 35,000 separate types of merchandise on the counters.

The $1 million mart will include a grocery department in addition to an auto-parts department; radio and TV; clothing, sporting goods etc.

Kresge has some 53 similar marts thruout the United States. The first went up a little less than two years ago and the mart has proved so successful that the company is planning to build 32 more including the local one which is the first of its type in Colorado.

Cunningham pointed out that each store is unique in that it stocks its shelves to suit the needs of the consumers in the area it serves.

Each store manager has the final word on which merchandise his particular store will feature. The stores are tailored to meet the needs of the area it serves.

"We have just completed the most successful year in our history," Cunningham said, "and indications are that consumer interests will continue at higher levels in 1964.

"More Americans are working now than at any time in the past. Wages are higher and consumers want to spend their money. Our size permits us to offer them luxuries and high quality necessities at prices not otherwise possible."

The local mart, which will be similar in design to other K-Marts across the country, will be constructed on a 12-acre site which will include a parking lot to accommodate 1,000 cars.

Ranch Man Held In Investigation Of Wife's Death

John Orisostimo Montino, 50, of the Janitell Ranch, is being held in county jail for investigation of the murder of his wife, the sheriff's department said this morning.

District Attorney Pat Hinton announced that it was probable that homicide charges would be filed Friday against Montino.

According to Deputy Sheriff Harry Orvis, a call was received at the sheriff's office Wednesday from George Chavez of Fountain who said Montino came to his home saying his wife was dead.

The deputy went to the scene and found the woman, Maria Laquidia Nunez, about 67 years old, lying in the back yard of a tenant house on the ranch, her head in a pool of blood. She showed no sign of life and Dr. R. Urich, county coroner, pronounced her dead.

Sheriff Earl L. Sullivan said this morning that Montino had made a statement to Deputy Sheriff Woodrow Littrell admitting beating his wife and dragging her out of the house.

Woman Struck By Gunman In Motel Robbery

A gunman held up the Evening Star Motel, 3414 W. Colorado Ave., this morning and got away with $387 in cash after hitting the young wife of the motel manager in the head and knocking her down.

Mrs. Hal C. Cron, 28, said the man pulled up to the motel in a 1959 Chevrolet at about 9 a.m. and asked for a room while a red haired woman and two children waited in the car.

Mrs. Cron, who lives at the motel, went into the office and the man followed her. Once they were inside, the man pulled a .38 caliber snub nosed revolver and said he needed

Subways Run After Strike Is Averted

By RICHARD F. WHALEN

NEW YORK (AP) — It was touch-and-go, but New Yorkers weathered another threatened strike against the city's subways and buses on New Year's Day.

The biennial New Year's Eve question, "Will they run or won't they?" wasn't answered until 9:32 a.m.—4½ hours after the original strike deadline. They ran.

It was the third time since 1957 that Michael J. Quill, president of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union, and Transit Authority negotiators pulled a cliffhanger.

The settlement also brought an agreement between two political foes, Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The added cost of the new two-year contract, estimated at $38.6 million to $42 million, will be absorbed by the city. Rockefeller will support legislation to authorize the transfer of some city assets to the Transit Author-

Scent of Roses Still Lingers Over Pasadena

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The scent of roses lingered over Pasadena today from the millions of blossoms that gilded floats in the annual New Year's Day Tournament of Roses Parade.

The flower-bedecked floats, marching bands and horses in gleaming trappings drew more than 1.5 million persons to the city.

Former President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower were in the lead in a gleaming white convertible. He was grand marshal and a special guest at the Rose Bowl football game afterward.

Temperatures soared into the 80's under sunny skies.

'Louie the Dip' Found Dead, Broke at Age 68

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Louis Finkelstein—"Louie the Dip" to police officers throughout the country—is dead at 68. He died broke.

His body was found in an automobile Wednesday on Cleveland's East Side. Doctors said he died of a heart attack.

For 50 years, Finkelstein pursued his career. He slowed down about 10 years ago when arthritis stiffened his nimble fingers. In 1959, he applied for relief.

Police Inspector Michael J. Blackwell said Finkelstein must have "stolen thousands of dollars in his lifetime, but he died penniless."

Finkelstein was arrested 120 times and served more than 10 years in prisons as the result of 20 sentences.

In 1933, he picked the pocket of the police chief of suburban Parma. Another time he dipped into the pocket of a bail bondsman, and once he stole the wallet of a reporter covering one of his trials.

The U.S. government tried to deport him to his native Odessa, but there was no deportation agreement with the Soviet Union at the time.

He escaped from the Cleveland workhouse once and officers found him at a revival meeting in New York State. Five wallets, including the sexton's, were in his pockets.

13 Deaths Are Attributed To Severe Dixie Storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warmer weather was expected to provide some relief today from the ice and heavy snow that stunned the Deep South, where severe winters are rare.

Thirteen deaths were directly attributed to the storm, which swept across Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, the Carolinas, Tennessee and Virginia, then moved up the eastern seaboard New Year's Day.

Schools were closed in many sections and some colleges postponed registration for the new term.

About 300 persons were fed at an emergency kitchen set up in a school at Warner Robins in middle Georgia. High winds wrecked a fishing pier at Savannah Beach on the Georgia coast.

Huntsville, Ala., recorded one of the heaviest snowfalls in Dixie—16 inches. Eight inches at Birmingham, Ala., was the heaviest snowfall on records there dating back to 1895.

Snowmen appeared in the French Quarter of New Orleans, site of the Sugar Bowl football game, which had more than three inches of snow—again the most since 1895. A warming trend over Louisiana and Mississippi left deep slush that was expected to turn to ice during the night.

In Tennessee, Nashville's 10-inch snowfall — deepest since 1929—resulted in closing of the city's airport until noon today. Lawrenceburg recorded 16 inches and Columbia had 15. Many parts of Tennessee were just beginning to dig out from a storm last week which covered the state with 4 to 16 inches of snow.

High winds and ice in South Carolina toppled a 300-foot tower of radio station WESC in Greenville. A 60-foot section atop a 90-foot tower for an educational television station was broken off near Greenville.

Eight to ten inches of new sno - was reported in the North Carolina mountains. Central portions of the state got sleet and freezing rain. Two men were killed near Lexington, N.C., when their car skidded on ice and hit a utility pole.

Western Virginia had six inches of snow and schools were closed in 20 counties because of icy conditions.

Goldwater Plans To Announce His Decision Friday

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)— Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona will announce Friday his decision on entering the race for the Republican presidential nomination. Many political observers are convinced he will enter the contest.

Goldwater is to make his announcement at an 11 a.m. news conference at his Phoenix home. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is the only announced candidate.

Goldwater, foremost spokesman for the Republican party's conservative wing, has given no hint of his decision.

Fred Chestnut of New York, director of Goldwater for president headquarters here, said on Wednesday the senator is certain to seek the nomination.

Goldwater already has been entered in the Oregon presidential preferential primary. He's expected to enter his name on the New Hampshire primary ballot next week.

Rocky Resumes GOP Nomination Campaign Friday

Rockefeller flies to New Hampshire, where he has entered the state's presidential primary March 10. He speaks Friday night to a Young Republicans meeting at Portsmouth, and will visit Concord, the capital, Saturday.

Three other trips to New Hampshire are on Rockefeller's schedule this month. On Jan. 27, he'll fly to California for appearances in Marin County and Los Angeles. California's presidential primary is in June.

Rockefeller is the only announced candidate for the nomination. However, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona says he'll announce Friday whether he will seek it.

Military Cargo Plane Ditched In Pacific Area

HONOLULU (AP) — The Air Force said a C124 military cargo plane went down in the Pacific today about 450 miles west of Honolulu and there were survivors among the eight aboard.

The big cargo plane, flying 2,300 miles from Wake to Hawaii, also carried the body of a Navy man.

Unrelenting Peace Drive Is Favored by President

By FRANK CORMIER

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson is said to favor an unrelenting peace offensive in 1964.

A White House source reported that Johnson is determined to seek new breakthroughs on peace and does not think the United States can or should wait until after the November presidential balloting before pressing ahead in this area.

The source made available to newsmen Wednesday a summary of what were described as Johnson's views on a broad range of topics. Some of the material was provided on condition it not be made public until today.

Among key attitudes attributed to Johnson were these:

The President plans to propose a comprehensive housing program and will discuss this today at his ranch home with Robert C. Weaver, administrator of the House and Home Finance Agency.

Johnson expects Congress to pass a civil rights bill this year, as well as an $11-billion tax cut. He also would like to see passage of a program to provide medical insurance for the elderly.

Government officials will be expected to work hard and avoid the cocktail party circuit.

Johnson is pleased with the results of his economy-in-government drive and believes the stage is set for further savings in the budget that will go to Congress in January 1965. He believes fiscal prudence is, in the informant's words, "No longer a rich man's issue."

The President has profound respect for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and, as it was phrased, "he has found the myth of McNamara to be true." Johnson also is greatly impressed by Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Earlier Wednesday Johnson told Soviet Premier Khrushchev in a message that the time for talking peace has passed and "1964 should be a year in which we take further steps toward that goal."

"In this spirit I shall strive for the further improvement of relations between our two countries," Johnson said in a reply to a New Year's message from Khrushchev and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

The two Soviet leaders had said in their personal message to Johnson that the old year saw "a significant improvement in the approach to the solutions of urgent international problems and in the development of Soviet-American relations."

And they voiced hope that 1964 "will be marked by further significant success."

Later the White House source made available the summary of Johnson's reported views including the following statements on peace and other major topics:

Peace: The President is determined to seek new breakthroughs on peace. He does not think the United States should or can drag its feet for a year until after election before pressing for peace or before pressing for the breakthroughs.

The President is confident that we as a nation are fully alert to Red tactics after 15 years of

Two British Sisters Battle To Stay in Chicken Coop

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

LONDON (UPI)—Two elderly sisters in nearby Hemel Hempstead fought today to stay in the unlighted, unheated chicken coop they have called home for 30 years.

"Nobody will take us from here," Miss Marcella Finnigan said defiantly as the winter wind whipped through gaping cracks in the shed's board walls.

"It would kill us to go into a stuffy home."

But local officials, who called conditions in the old henhouse horrible, have applied for a removal order under national welfare laws. The sisters — Marcella, 85, and Ella, 78 — are expected to be in an old peoples home within a week.

"A place like that shed, without the remotest kind of comfort, could not possibly be a home for anybody," local health officer Dr. R. S. Hynd said.

But Marcella, a native of Ireland, said she and her sister have been "the happiest people on earth" since the day 30 years ago when they took up squatters' rights on the shack.

Rags and brown paper only partially block holes in the walls. The sisters sleep in a double bed made of boxes nailed together. The mattresses and pillows are old burlap sacks stuffed with leaves.

A candle provides the only lighting. The floor is made of broken red bricks coated with mud. There is no sanitation, no water and no heater. When the wind blows, the chicken coop quakes and rocks.

The sisters said they lived in the shed out of choice. They have nearly $2,240 in savings and don't even draw their old age pensions.

The light of publicity shone on them today at an embarrassing time. Both sisters were in bed with colds — their first, they said, in the 30 years they have been in the shack.

A recent cold snap drew authorities' attention to the case. The manager of the farm on which the shack stands, Gian Bisceglia, went to the shed to check up on the women and found them both ill.

Bisceglia, who often brings food to the Misses Finnigan, telephoned police, who called a doctor. The doctor said both sisters were in good health for their age and appeared well fed. But public health officials also came to see them and ordered that they be moved.

"Now that we know about the sisters," Dr. Hynd said, "we'll have to do something about them. They can't go on living as they are."

GI on Rampage Kills Three in Smallwood, N. Y.

He heard his victims return home late from New Year's Eve parties, waited for them to finish coffee and go to bed.

At dawn he crept into a bedroom and chopped Joseph McAdams to death as he slept.

Next he went upstairs, where McAdams, daughter and a girl friend, Judith Meddough, 19, were sleeping in twin beds. He killed Miss Meddough with his ax and strangled Florence McAdams, 20, into unconsciousness leaving her for dead.

Then he called police.

State Police say that's the account they pieced together after an anonymous telephone call and then one from Miss McAdams, who told them in a panic-stricken voice that the killer was standing on the front lawn.

As police sped to the scene, they spotted a man on a road near the McAdams house. They said he was Frank S. Scaramuzzo, 24, an Army private from nearby Monticello, N.Y. He was arrested and held on a charge of first-degree murder.

State Police Sgt. Leslie Vincent said Miss McAdams had broken her engagement to Scaramuzzo several months ago.

McAdams, 49, a clerk in the State Motor Vehicle Department, was also a part-time musician. He played at a hotel in Hurleyville, N.Y. on New Year's Eve. His ailing wife entered a hospital several days ago.

LITTLE MISTER '64 — The time was 6:25 a.m., the date, Jan. 1, 1964, when young Mr. John David Reinhard, weighing in at 7 pounds, 4¼ ounces, put in his appearance at Penrose Hospital in Colorado Springs. By arriving so early, John David became the first baby of 1964 and the winner of a number of gifts presented by Colorado Springs businessmen and merchants. John David poses here with his mother, Mrs. John L. Reinhard, of 19 N. Meade Ave.

John David Reinhard First Baby Of 1964 Born in Colorado Springs

The first baby born here in 1964 was John David Reinhard, who weighed 7 pounds, 4¼ ounces when he came into the world at 6:25 a.m. New Year's Day. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Reinhard, 19 N. Meade Ave.

John David was born at Penrose Hospital and was attended by James M. Myers, M. D.

Little Mister 1964 won the contest hands down. His next nearest rival was a little 5-pound, 1-ounce girl born at 11:16 a.m. Jan. 1 at the Air Force Academy Hospital to T. Sgt. and Mrs. Chung Y. Chin, 169 Grinnell St. Running a slow third was the son of Airman 1.C. and Mrs. Rusell L. Inman of 3100 Wood Ave. This youngster was born at the AFA Hospital also and came into the world at 5 pounds, 5 ounces.

John David is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard, who were married in 1963. Mrs. Reinhard came to Colorado Springs from Green Bay, Wis., and was a teacher at Midland School. Reinhard was born at Pueblo and moved with his family to Colorado Springs while quite young. For the past six years he has worked for Weicker Transfer and Storage Co. as a truck driver.

Young John David Reinhard will begin his life with a vast array of gifts from Colorado Springs merchants. For example, he'll start out with $30 in savings, $10 each from Don Esch Heating and Sheet Metal, Pikes Peak National Bank and Northern National Bank.

Gift certificates range from $10 to $50. The larger sum comes from Furniture Center, with $10 certificates each from Kaufman's, King Soopers, Cooper-Lidke Drug Co., and Bargain Barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard will receive gifts, too. These include a steak dinner given by Palmer House and a special dinner at the Moors. When she takes advantage of those dinners, Mrs. Reinhard will have a necklace and earring set from Mar Ru Distinctive Fashions which she may want to wear.

And when the mother of the first '64 baby gets up at night for a regular feeding, she'll keep her feet warm in a pair of slippers from Sally's Shoes.

Announcements of John David Reinhard's birth will be furnished by Ru-Jan Party Shop. He'll spend his first night at home, and other nights to follow, in a baby crib from Ajax Furniture and Appliances, and his food will be kept at the desirable temperature with a General Electric automatic baby food warmer from Hatch's.

Little John's feet will be kept nice and warm with shoes from Ralph's Shoes and from the Junior Bootery.

The baby will be one of the most photographed of the year in his hometown, and his par-

K-Mart Hailed as Great Merchandising Innovation

The K-Mart Discount Department store that Kresge and Company is building here is the most successful innovation in retail merchandising to hit the market in years.

Officials of the company credit the K-Mart for making 1963 the most successful year in the 64-year history of Kresge.

Harry B. Cunningham, president of the firm, said that this past year would give the company the highest increase in percentage of sales than any other national retailer.

The K-Mart is unique, because it is a shopping center in itself. Everything that can be found in a variety of stores in a shopping center will be available in the K-Mart which is being constructed at the corner of Airport Road and Circle Drive.

A total of 38 different departments will be included in the 100,000 square foot building and Kresge will place some 35,000 separate types of merchandise on the counters.

The $1 million mart will include a grocery department in addition to an auto-parts department; radio and TV; clothing, sporting goods etc.

Kresge has some 53 similar marts thruout the United States.

The first went up a little less than two years ago and the mart has proved so successful that the company is planning to build 32 more including the local one which is the first of its type in Colorado.

Cunningham pointed out that each store is unique in that it stocks its shelves to suit the needs of the consumers in the area it serves.

Each store manager has the final word on which merchandise his particular store will feature. The stores are tailored to meet the needs of the area it serves.

"We have just completed the most successful year in our history," Cunningham said, "and indications are that consumer interests will continue at higher levels in 1964.

"More Americans are working now than at any time in the past. Wages are higher and consumers want to spend their money. Our size permits us to offer them luxuries and high quality necessities at prices not otherwise possible."

The local mart, which will be similar in design to other K-Marts across the country, will be constructed on a 12-acre site which will include a parking lot to accommodate 1,000 cars.

Ranch Man Held In Investigation Of Wife's Death

John Orisostimo Montino, 50, of the Janitell Ranch, is being held in county jail for investigation of the murder of his wife, the sheriff's department said this morning.

District Attorney Pat Hinton announced that it was probable that homicide charges would be filed Friday against Montino.

According to Deputy Sheriff Harry Orvis, a call was received at the sheriff's office Wednesday from George Chavez of Fountain who said Montino came to his home saying his wife was dead.

The deputy went to the scene and found the woman, Maria Laquidia Nunez, about 67 years old, lying in the back yard of a tenant house on the ranch, her head in a pool of blood. She showed no sign of life and Dr. R. Urich, county coroner, pronounced her dead.

Sheriff Earl L. Sullivan said this morning that Montino had made a statement to Deputy Sheriff Woodrow Littrell admitting beating his wife and dragging her out of the house.

Woman Struck By Gunman In Motel Robbery

A gunman held up the Evening Star Motel, 3414 W. Colorado Ave., this morning and got away with $387 in cash after hitting the young wife of the motel manager in the head and knocking her down.

Mrs. Hal C. Cron, 28, said the man pulled up to the motel in a 1959 Chevrolet at about 9 a.m. and asked for a room while a red haired woman and two children waited in the car.

Mrs. Cron, who lives at the motel, went into the office and the man followed her. Once they were inside, the man pulled a .38 caliber snub nosed revolver and said he needed

Subways Run After Strike Is Averted

By RICHARD F. WHALEN

NEW YORK (AP) — It was touch-and-go, but New Yorkers weathered another threatened strike against the city's subways and buses on New Year's Day.

The biennial New Year's Eve question, "Will they run or won't they?" wasn't answered until 9:32 a.m.—4½ hours after the original strike deadline. They ran.

It was the third time since 1957 that Michael J. Quill, president of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union, and Transit Authority negotiators pulled a cliff-hanger.

The settlement also brought an agreement between two political foes, Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The added cost of the new two-year contract, estimated at $38.6 million to $42 million, will be absorbed by the city. Rockefeller will support legislation to authorize the transfer of some city assets to the Transit Author-

Scent of Roses Still Lingers Over Pasadena

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The scent of roses lingered over Pasadena today from the millions of blossoms that gilded floats in the annual New Year's Day Tournament of Roses Parade.

The flower-bedecked floats, marching bands and horses in gleaming trappings drew more than 1.5 million persons to the city.

Former President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower were in the lead in a gleaming white convertible. He was grand marshal and a special guest at the Rose Bowl football game afterward.

Temperatures soared into the 80's under sunny skies.

LONDON (UPI) — An assassin attempted unsuccessfully to kill President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana today as he was leaving his official residence in the capital city of Accra, the Ghana high commission in London reported.

'Louie the Dip' Found Dead, Broke at Age 68

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Louis Finkelstein—"Louie the Dip" to police officers throughout the country—is dead at 68. He died broke.

His body was found in an automobile Wednesday on Cleveland's East Side. Doctors said he died of a heart attack.

For 50 years, Finkelstein pursued his career. He slowed down about 10 years ago when arthritis stiffened his nimble fingers. In 1959, he applied for relief.

Police Inspector Michael J. Blackwell said Finkelstein must have "stolen thousands of dollars in his lifetime, but he died penniless."

Finkelstein was arrested 120 times and served more than 10 years in prisons as the result of 20 sentences.

In 1933, he picked the pocket of the police chief of suburban Parma. Another time he dipped into the pocket of a bail bondsman, and once he stole the wallet of a reporter covering one of his trials.

The U.S. government tried to deport him to his native Odessa, but there was no deportation agreement with the Soviet Union at the time.

He escaped from the Cleveland workhouse once and officers found him at a revival meeting in New York State. Five wallets, including the sexton's, were in his pockets.

13 Deaths Are Attributed To Severe Dixie Storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warmer weather was expected to provide some relief today from the ice and heavy snow that stunned the Deep South, where severe winters are rare.

Thirteen deaths were directly attributed to the storm, which swept across Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, the Carolinas, Tennessee and Virginia, then moved up the eastern seaboard New Year's Day.

Schools were closed in many sections and some colleges postponed registration for the new term.

About 300 persons were fed at an emergency kitchen set up in a school at Warner Robins in middle Georgia. High winds wrecked a fishing pier at Savannah Beach on the Georgia coast.

Huntsville, Ala., recorded one of the heaviest snowfalls in Dixie—16 inches. Eight inches at Birmingham, Ala., was the heaviest snowfall on records there dating back to 1895.

Snowmen appeared in the French Quarter of New Orleans, site of the Sugar Bowl football game, which had more than three inches of snow—again the most since 1895. A warming trend over Louisiana and Mississippi left deep slush that was expected to turn to ice during the night.

In Tennessee, Nashville's 10-inch snowfall — deepest since 1929—resulted in closing of the city's airport until noon today. Lawrenceburg recorded 16 inches and Columbia had 15. Many parts of Tennessee were just beginning to dig out from a storm last week which covered the state with 4 to 16 inches of snow.

High winds and ice in South Carolina toppled a 300-foot tower of radio station WESC in Greenville. A 60-foot section atop a 90-foot tower for an educational television station was broken off near Greenville.

Eight to ten inches of new snow was reported in the North Carolina mountains. Central portions of the state got sleet and freezing rain. Two men were killed near Lexington, N.C., when their car skidded on ice and hit a utility pole.

Western Virginia had six inches of snow and schools were closed in 20 counties because of icy conditions.

Goldwater Plans To Announce His Decision Friday

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)— Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona will announce Friday his decision on entering the race for the Republican presidential nomination. Many political observers are convinced he will enter the contest.

Goldwater is to make his announcement at an 11 a.m. news conference at his Phoenix home. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is the only announced candidate.

Goldwater, foremost spokesman for the Republican party's conservative wing, has given no hint of his decision.

Fred Chestnut of New York, director of Goldwater for president headquarters here, said on Wednesday the senator is certain to seek the nomination.

Goldwater already has been entered in the Oregon presidential preferential primary. He's expected to enter his name on the New Hampshire primary ballot next week.

Rocky Resumes GOP Nomination Campaign Friday

Rockefeller flies to New Hampshire, where he has entered the state's presidential primary March 10. He speaks Friday night to a Young Republicans meeting at Portsmouth, and will visit Concord, the capital, Saturday.

Three other trips to New Hampshire are on Rockefeller's schedule this month. On Jan. 27, he'll fly to California for appearances in Marin County and Los Angeles. California's presidential primary is in June.

Rockefeller is the only announced candidate for the nomination. However, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona says he'll announce Friday whether he will seek it.

HONOLULU (AP) — The Air Force said a C124 military cargo plane went down in the Pacific today about 450 miles west of Honolulu and there were survivors among the eight aboard.

The big cargo plane, flying 2,300 miles from Wake to Hawaii, also carried the body of a Navy man.

Unrelenting Peace Drive Is Favored by President

By FRANK CORMIER

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson is said to favor an unrelenting peace offensive in 1964.

A White House source reported that Johnson is determined to seek new breakthroughs on peace and does not think the United States can or should wait until after the November presidential balloting before pressing ahead in this area.

The source made available to newsmen Wednesday a summary of what were described as Johnson's views on a broad range of topics. Some of the material was provided on condition it not be made public until today.

Among key attitudes attributed to Johnson were these:

The President plans to propose a comprehensive housing program and will discuss this today at his ranch home with Robert C. Weaver, administrator of the House and Home Finance Agency.

Johnson expects Congress to pass a civil rights bill this year, as well as an $11-billion tax cut. He also would like to see passage of a program to provide medical insurance for the elderly.

Government officials will be expected to work hard and avoid the cocktail party circuit.

Johnson is pleased with the results of his economy-in-government drive and believes the stage is set for further savings in the budget that will go to Congress in January 1965. He believes fiscal prudence is, in the informant's words, "No longer a rich man's issue."

The President has profound respect for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and, as it was phrased, "he has found the myth of McNamara to be true." Johnson also is greatly impressed by Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Earlier Wednesday Johnson told Soviet Premier Khrushchev in a message that the time for talking peace has passed and "1964 should be a year in which we take further steps toward that goal."

"In this spirit I shall strive for the further improvement of relations between our two countries," Johnson said in a reply to a New Year's message from Khrushchev and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

The two Soviet leaders had said in their personal message to Johnson that the old year saw "a significant improvement in the approach to the solutions of urgent international problems and in the development of Soviet-American relations."

And they voiced hope that 1964 "will be marked by further significant success."

Later the White House source made available the summary of Johnson's reported views including the following statements on peace and other major topics:

Peace: The President is determined to seek new breakthroughs on peace. He does not think the United States should or can drag its feet for a year until after election before pressing for peace or before pressing for the breakthroughs.

The President is confident that we as a nation are fully alert to Red tactics after 15 years of

Two British Sisters Battle To Stay in Chicken Coop

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

LONDON (UPI)—Two elderly sisters in nearby Hemel Hempstead fought today to stay in the unlighted, unheated chicken coop they have called home for 30 years.

"Nobody will take us from here," Miss Marcella Finnigan said defiantly as the winter wind whipped through gaping cracks in the shed's board walls.

"It would kill us to go into a stuffy home."

But local officials, who called conditions in the old henhouse horrible, have applied for a removal order under national welfare laws. The sisters — Marcella, 85, and Ella, 78 — are expected to be in an old peoples home within a week.

"A place like that shed, without the remotest kind of comfort, could not possibly be a home for anybody," local health officer Dr. R. S. Hynd said.

But Marcella, a native of Ireland, said she and her sister have been "the happiest people on earth" since the day 30 years ago when they took up squatters' rights on the shack.

Rags and brown paper only partially block holes in the walls. The sisters sleep in a double bed made of boxes nailed together. The mattresses and pillows are old burlap sacks stuffed with leaves.

A candle provides the only lighting. The floor is made of broken red bricks coated with mud. There is no sanitation, no water and no heater. When the wind blows, the chicken coop quakes and rocks.

The sisters said they lived in the shed out of choice. They have nearly $2,240 in savings and don't even draw their old age pensions.

The light of publicity shone on them today at an embarrassing time. Both sisters were in bed with colds — their first, they said, in the 30 years they have been in the shack.

A recent cold snap drew authorities' attention to the case. The manager of the farm on which the shack stands, Gian Bisceglia, went to the shed to check up on the women and found them both ill.

Bisceglia, who often brings food to the Misses Finnigan, telephoned police, who called a doctor. The doctor said both sisters were in good health for their age and appeared well fed. But public health officials also came to see them and ordered that they be moved.

"Now that we know about the sisters," Dr. Hynd said, "we'll have to do something about them. They can't go on living as they are."

GI on Rampage Kills Three in Smallwood, N. Y.

At dawn he crept into a bedroom and chopped Joseph McAdams to death as he slept.

Next he went upstairs, where McAdams, daughter and a girl friend, Judith Meddough, 19, were sleeping in twin beds. He killed Miss Meddough with his ax and strangled Florence McAdams, 20, into unconsciousness leaving her for dead.

Then he called police.

State Police say that's the account they pieced together after an anonymous telephone call and then one from Miss McAdams, who told them in a panic-stricken voice that the killer was standing on the front lawn.

As police sped to the scene, they spotted a man on a road near the McAdams house. They said he was Frank S. Scaramuzzo, 24, an Army private from nearby Monticello, N.Y. He was arrested and held on a charge of first-degree murder.

State Police Sgt. Leslie Vincent said Miss McAdams had broken her engagement to Scaramuzzo several months ago.

McAdams, 49, a clerk in the State Motor Vehicle Department, was also a part-time musician. He played at a hotel in Hurleyville, N.Y. on New Year's Eve. His ailing wife entered a hospital several days ago.

Experts' Advice for Young Adults: Get Thin by 30's, Not Fat in 40's

EDITOR'S NOTE: Through fad diets and crash diets, liquid diets and solid diets, NEA's Gaynor Maddox has steadfastly stuck to the simple but inescapable facts of nutrition. His accuracy as a reporter has won him the confidence of leading scientists whose research he interprets in dinner-table terms. The expert advice on food and exercise which Maddox reports in this series of six articles is aimed particularly at young people from the teens through the thirties, but readers of all ages can profit from it.

MEMO FROM THE DESK OF LEE VIATHAN
I eat the same amount I used to at college=yet I am getting fat.

Why do so many young men and women recently out of school begin to put on weight? The lament of one young man is typical: "Look, I eat the same amount I used to eat at college yet I am getting fat. How come?"

Dr. Ruth L. Huenemann, associate professor of public health nutrition at the University of California (Berkeley), explains. "With any increase in age, people actually require fewer basal calories. Young people therefore begin to need fewer calories immediately after graduation.

"Second, once out of college and in business or the professions, few are as active as they used to be. But they continue to eat just as much—not necessarily more—than they did. The result is extra weight," Dr. Huenemann says.

Less calorie-packed meals and more physical exercise within bounds of feasibility is the solution to youthful overweight. "People need to make a distinction between being 'busy' and being active. All of us are busy, but we tend to be very inactive in our busyness. I think we should deliberately look for opportunities to be physically active even if only for short periods."

Dr. Huenemann cautions that it is not possible to make everyone "an outdoor type." You may not have the time or skill for tennis, swimming, golf, etc. But there are many forms of exercise that can be fitted into your way of living.

"Walk the children to school instead of piling everyone into the car for a two- or three-block ride. Look for the stairway instead of the elevator when you are going up one floor. Make yourself walk downstairs more often. Stand occasionally for a job instead of sitting. Walk the dog a little farther and sometimes give the both of you a workout by running. Place items most frequently used on lower shelves in the kitchen so you have to bend down for them."

The scientist recommends daily calisthenics if you can't get exercise otherwise. Make it a daily habit, not just a now-and-then thing. "Although ten minutes of good calisthenics may not cause large colorie expenditure, they will do much for muscle tone, litheness and stepped-up circulation," she says.

Sophisticated young moderns know that "good cooking" has a new meaning. "Good cooking today means wise use of herbs, seasonings and wine, etc., rather than quantities of butter, cream, sugar and other concentrated foods."

"The very pleasant custom among young mothers of meeting with friends for coffee after the children are in school is another threat to desirable weight. That coffee always means 'with Pastry.' Better stick to just coffee. Young husbands are notoriously allergic to overpadded mates," she warns.

"Sociable young adults also seem to forget that alcohol contributes calories at the rate of 7 per gram, as compared to 4 calories per gram for sugar, starch or protein and 9 calories per gram for fat."

Dr. Huenemann warns young mothers against becoming the "family garbage pail," eating up everything the children leave. These little bits of leftover food might better go to waste than to mother's waist.

The doctor concludes, "If you are not yet overweight, decide to choose only part of the things you want, not all. Decide between cocktails and sweets, between butter and gravy, bread and potatoes, midmorning 'coffee snack' and dessert for dinner. Also between relaxing in a comfortable chair after a big dinner and taking a brisk mile walk.

"Whether you become a fat young man or woman only a few years out of college is largely a matter of choice. And the choice is yours."

The next installment tomorrow.

Food for Fitness Means Daily Nutritional Meals

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

No matter how old or young, how heavy or slight, you need some food every day from each of four basic food groups. They are all supermarket foods, familiar and pleasant to eat. Plan your meals around them daily, eating more or less of them according to your calorie limitations. But eat some food from each group every day. That is the basic nutritional rule for physical fitness.

MILK GROUP

Children, 3 to 4 cups
Teen-agers, 4 or more cups
Adults, 2 or more cups

MEAT GROUP

2 or more servings of beef, veal, pork, lamb, poultry, fish, eggs.

As alternates — dry beans, dry peas, nuts.

VEGETABLE GROUP

4 or more servings. Include a citrus fruit or other fruit or vegetable important for vitamin C; a dark-green or deep yellow vetetable for vitamin A (at least every other day); other vegetables and fruits, including potatoes.

BREAD CEREAL GROUP

4 or more servings of whole grain, enriched or restored. This group includes cornmeal, crackers, grits, macaroni and spaghetti, noodles, rice, etc. Also quick breads and other baked goods made with whole grain or enriched flour.

To round out meals and satisfy the appetite, use some foods not specified — butter, margarine, other fats, oils, sugars or unenriched refined grain products. These are often ingredients in baked goods and mixed dishes. Fats, oils and sugars are also added to foods during preparation and at table.

These "other" foods supply calories and can add to total nutrients in meals.

Use this 1,500-calorie menu pattern as base for easy planning of balanced and calorie-limited menus according to your particular tastes and requirements. For the average woman about 1,500 calories a day is about right, for the average moderately active man, about 2,200 calories is enough.

Those sample menus for breakfast, luncheon and dinner demonstrate how the foods from the four basic food groups — Foods for Fitness — can be incorporated in normal supermarket meals. Add or subtract foods according to your weight range.

BREAKFAST

Citrus fruit or tomato
Egg, 1
Whole-wheat or enriched requirements, sex and activity
bread, 1 slice
Butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon
Cereal, ½ cup with milk
(part of total 1 pint for day)
Coffee or tea

LUNCH

Lean meat or meat substitute, 2 ounces
Vegetable or salad

BREAKFAST

Whole-wheat or enriched bread, 1 slice
Butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon
Fruit
Whole milk (part of total allowed for day)
Coffe eor tea

DINNER

Lean meat or meat substitute 3 ounces
Vegetable
Potato, 1 small
Salad

Rocky Gets New Plane For Campaign Travel

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has a new airplane that is geared to keep pace with his expanded political activity.

The Fairchild 27 turboprop was purchased jointly about two weeks ago by the millionaire governor and his brothers, Laurance and Davis, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The spokesman said the plane has a range of about 2,000 miles—twice the range of the Convair owned by the brothers. The new aircraft has a top speed of about 300 miles an hour and can carry 22 passengers.

Rockefeller, who is seeking the Republican presidential nomination, is expected to use the plane extensively this month when his schedule will take him to Washington, D.C., New Hampshire and California.

MODEL MAKER GETS PALM

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—To create his fleet of model ships, Carl Rahn never visits a hobby shop for materials—he takes a ladder and saw and heads for the nearest palm tree.

The palm spathe (bud) makes the hull, calcutta bamboo fishing poles form the masts, and the sails come from burlap-like matting or fiber of the coconut palm.

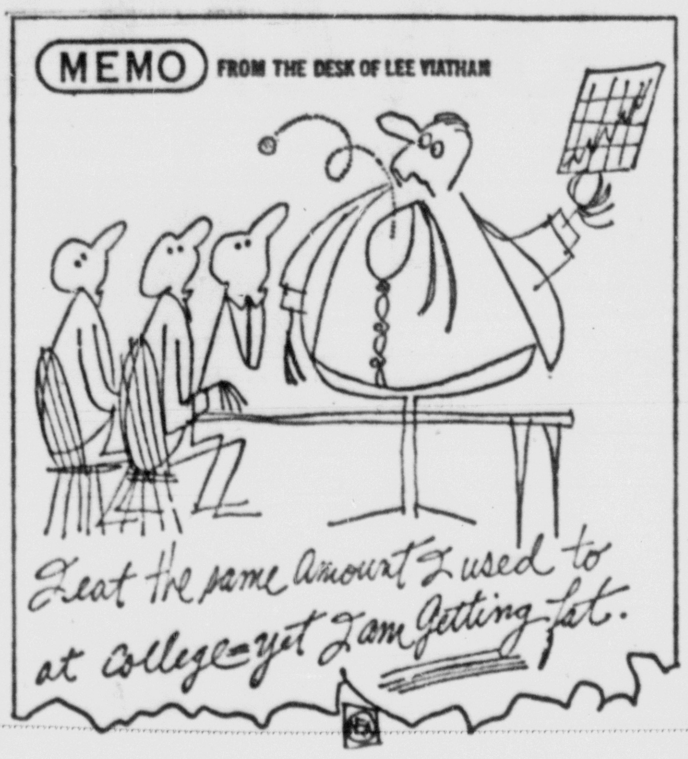
Experts' Advice for Young Adults: Get Thin by 30's, Not Fat in 40's

EDITOR'S NOTE: Through fad diets and crash diets, liquid diets and solid diets, NEA's Gaynor Maddox has steadfastly stuck to the simple but inescapable facts of nutrition. His accuracy as a reporter has won him the confidence of leading scientists whose research he interprets in dinner-table terms. The expert advice on food and exercise which Maddox reports in this series of six articles is aimed particularly at young people from the teens through the thirties, but readers of all ages can profit from it.

(First of Six Articles)
By GAYNOR MADDOX
Food Nutrition Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.



MEMO FROM THE DESK OF LEE VIATHAN
I eat the same amount I used to at college—yet I am getting fat.

Why do so many young men and women recently out of school begin to put on weight? The lament of one young man is typical: "Look, I eat the same amount I used to eat at college yet I am getting fat. How come?"

Dr. Ruth L. Huenemann, associate professor of public health nutrition at the University of California (Berkeley), explains: "With any increase in age, people actually require fewer basal calories. Young people therefore begin to need fewer calories immediately after graduation.

"Second, once out of college and in business or the professions, few are as active as they used to be. But they continue to eat just as much—not necessarily more—than they did. The result is extra weight," Dr. Huenemann says.

Less calorie-packed meals and more physical exercise within bounds of feasibility is the solution to youthful overweight. "People need to make a distinction between being 'busy' and being active. All of us are busy, but we tend to be very inactive in our busyness. I think we should deliberately look for opportunities to be physically active even if only for short periods."

Dr. Huenemann cautions that it is not possible to make everyone "an outdoor type." You may not have the time or skill for tennis, swimming, golf, etc. But there are many forms of exercise that can be fitted into your way of living.

"Walk the children to school instead of piling everyone into the car for a two- or three-block ride. Look for the stairway instead of the elevator when you are going up one floor. Make yourself walk downstairs more often. Stand occasionally for a job instead of sitting. Walk the dog a little farther and sometimes give the both of you a workout by running. Place items most frequently used on lower shelves in the kitchen so you have to bend down for them."

The scientist recommends daily calisthenics if you can't get exercise otherwise. Make it a daily habit, not just a now-and-then thing. "Although ten minutes of good calisthenics may not cause large colorie expenditure, they will do much for muscle tone, litheness and stepped-up circulation," she says.

Sophisticated young moderns know that "good cooking" has a new meaning. "Good cooking today means wise use of herbs, seasonings and wine, etc., rather than quantities of butter, cream, sugar and other concentrated foods."

"The very pleasant custom among young mothers of meeting with friends for coffee after the children are in school is another threat to desirable weight. That coffee always means 'with Pastry.' Better stick to just coffee. Young husbands are notoriously allergic to overpadded mates," she warns.

"Sociable young adults also seem to forget that alcohol contributes calories at the rate of 7 per gram, as compared to 4 calories per gram for sugar, starch or protein and 9 calories per gram for fat."

Dr. Huenemann warns young mothers against becoming the "family garbage pail," eating up everything the children leave. These little bits of leftover food might better go to waste than to mother's waist.

The doctor concludes, "If you are not yet overweight, decide to choose only part of the things you want, not all. Decide between cocktails and sweets, between butter and gravy, bread and potatoes, midmorning 'coffee snack' and dessert for dinner. Also between relaxing in a comfortable chair after a big dinner and taking a brisk mile walk.

"Whether you become a fat young man or woman only a few years out of college is largely a matter of choice. And the choice is yours."

POEN FIG COOKING

FRIENDSWOOD, Tex. (AP) — "I am the cook," smiles J. Roger May, fig preserver here whose plant will preserve 600,000 to 700,000 pounds of figs this year. His method is open cooking in copper or aluminum kettles that hold 800 pounds of figs, plus eight gallons of water and the sugar.

Food for Fitness Means Daily Nutritional Meals

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

No matter how old or young, how heavy or slight, you need some food every day from each of four basic food groups. They are all supermarket foods, familiar and pleasant to eat. Plan your meals around them daily, eating more or less of them according to your calorie limitations. But eat some food from each group every day. That is the basic nutritional rule for physical fitness.

MILK GROUP

Children, 3 to 4 cups
Teen-agers, 4 or more cups
Adults, 2 or more cups

MEAT GROUP

2 or more servings of beef, veal, pork, lamb, poultry, fish, eggs.

As alternates — dry beans, dry peas, nuts.

VEGETABLE GROUP

4 or more servings. Include a citrus fruit or other fruit or vegetable important for vitamin C; a dark-green or deep yellow vetetable for vitamin A (at least every other day); other vegetables and fruits, including potatoes.

BREAD CEREAL GROUP

4 or more servings of whole grain, enriched or restored. This group includes cornmeal, crackers, grits, macaroni and spaghetti, noodles, rice, etc. Also quick breads and other baked goods made with whole grain or enriched flour.

To round out meals and satisfy the appetite, use some foods not specified — butter, margarine, other fats, oils, sugars or unenriched refined grain products. These are often ingredients in baked goods and mixed dishes. Fats, oils and sugars are also added to foods during preparation and at table.

These "other" foods supply calories and can add to total nutrients in meals.

Use this 1,500-calorie menu pattern as base for easy planning of balanced and calorie-limited menus according to your particular tastes and requirements. For the average woman about 1,500 calories a day is about right, for the average moderately active man, about 2,200 calories is enough.

Those sample menus for breakfast, luncheon and dinner demonstrate how the foods from the four basic food groups — Foods for Fitness — can be incorporated in normal supermarket meals. Add or subtract foods according to your weight range.

BREAKFAST

Citrus fruit or tomato
Egg, 1
Whole-wheat or enriched requirements, sex and activity
bread, 1 slice
Butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon
Cereal, ½ cup with milk
(part of total 1 pint for day)

LUNCH

Lean meat or meat substitute, 2 ounces
Vegetable or salad

BREAKFAST

Whole-wheat or enriched bread, 1 slice
Butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon
Fruit
Whole milk (part of total allowed for day)
Coffe eor tea

DINNER

Lean meat or meat substitute 3 ounces
Vegetable
Potato, 1 small
Salad
Whole-wheat or enriched bread, 1 slice
Butter or enriched margarine, 2 teaspoons
Fruit
Whole milk (part of total allowed for the day)
Coffee or tea

Rocky Gets New Plane For Campaign Travel

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has a new airplane that is geared to keep pace with his expanded political activity.

The Fairchild 27 turboprop was purchased jointly about two weeks ago by the millionaire governor and his brothers, Laurance and Davis, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The spokesman said the plane has a range of about 2,000 miles—twice the range of the Convair owned by the brothers. The new aircraft has a top speed of about 300 miles an hour and can carry 22 passengers.

Rockefeller, who is seeking the Republican presidential nomination, is expected to use the plane extensively this month when his schedule will take him to Washington, D.C., New Hampshire and California.

Rocky Resumes GOP Nomination Campaign Friday

The Rockefellers, who announced Tuesday that Mrs Rockefeller is expecting a baby in June, stood more than two hours in the receiving line, greeting visitors who had lined up in snow and a mixture of sleet and freezing rain.

Mrs Rockefeller laughed delightedly when 6-year-old Richard Sher of Albany told her.

"Happy New Years and I hope you have a nice baby."

Mrs. Rockefeller, slim in a gray beige suit, beamed as her husband held 2-year-old Michael Labanowski, who had been carried through the line by his father, Sylvester Labanowski of Troy.

"It feels good to hold a baby." Rockefeller said.

The expected baby will be the fifth child for Mrs. Rockefeller. She has four by her first husband, Dr. James Murphy, whom she divorced last April. The oldest is 12 and the youngest 3. She and the governor were married last May 4.

Rockefeller and his first wife, Mary Todhunter Clark, were divorced in March 1962. They had five children, four of whom survive. All are married.

Rockefeller said Wednesday he had no intention of making a nationwide television and radio appearance to discuss his divorce and remarriage.

Replying to a reporter's question, he denied a Washington Post story that he would make such an appearance later this month. The newspaper quoted Rockefeller supporters as saying the governor felt he had "nothing to lose and everything to gain" by taking the matter directly to the people.

karios upsets the delicately arranged treaties without consultation with all sides.

In Turkey's capital, Ankara, a foreign ministry spokesman said his government stood by the treaties and promised. "We will take every measure for their literal application."

Under the 1960 treaties Britain, Greece and Turkey promised to act together or singly to prevent partition or annexation of the eastern Mediterranean island. This pledge was designed to block both the campaign of Greek Cypriots, who make up 80 per cent of the population of 577,000, for union with Greece and counter demands by the Turkish Cypriot minority for partition of the island.

Greece and Turkey also were allowed to station garrisons on the island and Britain was permitted to keep two large bases.

Dr. Fazil Kutchik, the Turkish Cypriot vice president, called Makarios' first decision to tear up the treaties illegal because he had not concurred in it.

In Athens, the new Greek caretaker government reserved comment on Makarios' statements.

British troops continued to patrol the streets of Nicosia, and for the fourth day there was no shooting in the city. There were unconfirmed reports of an exchange of fire in the suburb of [illegible]. Turkish Cypriots said they found the bodies of a Turkish priest and his 16-year-old son in their home.

About 700 British troops arrived in Cyprus to bolster Britain's reinforced garrison.

The current flareup in the old communal rivalry results from Makarios' plan to amend the 1960 constitution and end Turkish Cypriot veto rights on legislation. Makarios contends the move is necessary to pass needed laws. The Turkish Cypriots say their rights guaranteed by the 1960 constitution are being weakened.

Unrelenting Peace Drive Is Favored by President

cold war, and thinks it would be muddleheaded if we fail to take these steps to seek peace because we are afraid of being taken in by Red tactics.

He believes that today's hard line on communism should be an unrelenting peace offensive.

Economy: The President is pleased with his budget accomplishments. He is not only proud of the savings yielded so far in the current budget under preparation, but he feels that these efforts will lead to a pattern which will show fruit on fiscal 1966 budgeting.

The President firmly believes that fiscal prudence is no longer a rich man's issue. Fiscal prudence, he believes, is important to middle income families, both to keep down the federal tax burden, and to give the country room to meet opportunities in the realm of human needs, such as education. He believes that the massive federal budget burden is stagnating traditional liberalism in the United States.

Military Bases: He is moving toward the conclusion that obsolesence kept in the military budget for political reasons—for example, old bases and installations—is a serious drag on U.S. readiness. He thinks it is wrong to have military bases of the past supporting an economy of the present.

Business Relations: He feels strongly that there is a need for reevaluation of government-business relations. In addition, he wants the government to be able to draw more heavily on the reservoir of business talent.

Labor: The President wants to make greater use of talent in labor unions. He feels that Latin America especially should have more U.S. labor leaders in the field working with their counterparts there.

Federal Workers: The President has on occasion been somewhat disappointed in the pedestrian caliber of ideas emerging from some agencies, and in the unwillingness of government people to use declarative sentences or to say what they mean. But he is very proud of the federal service as a whole.

Unemployment: Johnson is deeply concerned about chronic unemployment. He is dissatisfied with the cures that have been suggested. He believes we may be underestimating what lies ahead. And he is calling for new solutions and is demanding new thinking on this entire problem.

As stragglers met the extended 5 a.m. deadline for returning on New Year's morn, new visitors lined up for visits during the day. Several thousand persons had passes for both days and were allowed to spend the night in East Berlin.

Some West Berliners collapsed under the combination of hard drinking, late hours and emotional tension of reunions. They had to be carried home by ambulance. However, no major disturbances were reported.

Traffic Death Total Reported Below Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic deaths for the midweek New Year's holiday, totaling more than 200, exceeded estimates of safety experts, but was far below last week's Christmas toll.

The number of persons killed in traffic accidents during the 48-hour holiday period which ended at midnight Wednesday was 209. Belated reports were expected to boost the total.

However, the toll appeared no larger than the daily average of 117 traffic fatalities reported during the first 11 months of 1963.

The National Safety Council had estimated in advance of the holiday that between 140 and 180 persons might be killed in traffic mishaps from 6 p.m. New Year's Eve to midnight Wednesday—a 30-hour period.

Council President Howard Pyle said Wednesday night that the final figures "definitely will go beyond this estimate." The Associated Press count showed that nearly 200 traffic fatalities were reported during the 30-hour period defined by the council.

The last time New Year's fell on a Wednesday was in 1957, and there were 180 traffic fatalities during the 30-hour period from 6 p.m. New Year's Eve to midnight of the holiday.

There were 310 highway deaths during last week's 48-hour Christmas holiday while 382 persons died in traffic accidents during the 1962-63 New Year's weekend holiday of four days.

The heavy snow and ice which covered wide areas in the South and East made highway travel dangerous but reports indicated extra caution held down both traffic volume and accidents in many parts of the storm belt. Biggest state totals were in other sections of the country—California, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The holiday traffic death toll compared to a total of 170 fatalities reported in an Associated Press survey for a nonholiday period of 48 hours, from 12:01 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 10 to 12:01 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 12.

Yetter Named Heart Fund Chairman

Paul A. Yetter, vice president in charge of public relations for the Public Service Company of Colorado, has been reappointed Colorado Heart Fund Chairman for the February, 1963 campaign, according to Dr. John Lichty, Colorado Heart Association president.

Serving his second year as chairman for the Heart Fund, Yetter announced the 1964 goal of $341,000 which will be used to support the association's extensive program of research, education and community service.

Heart and circulatory diseases, including heart attack, stroke, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries, rheumatic fever and inborn birth defects, now account for more than 54 per cent of all deaths in the United States.

"Proceeds from this campaign will provide the continuing research necessary to maintain steady progress toward reduction in the number of deaths due to these diseases. The fund also provides for local community programs," Yetter said.

George Astarita To Head 1964 Heart Fund Drive

George Astarita, 34 Penrose Blvd., has been named to head the 1964 Heart Fund Campaign.

Along with Dr. John Hays, Astarita headed the most successful advanced gifts division of the '63 drive.

"The average family," according to Astarita, "will lose one half its members due to heart disease unless something is done about this number one killer."

"For this reason, those of us who expend our energies on research, educational activities and practical applications of the heart program feel that our efforts are well directed."

This year Astarita, a former employe of Boettcher and Co., will draw on his previous experience in the Heart Fund Campaign to coordinate the work of all divisions including advanced gifts, business solicitation, heart benefits and the door-to-door canvass culminating in "Heart Sunday."

Announcement of Astarita appointment to head this year's campaign was made today by Edward Opfer, chairman of the El Paso County Heart Unit.

Proceeds from the campaign will be used to fight the heart and blood vessel diseases, now responsible for more than 54 per cent of all deaths in the United States, Opfer said.

These diseases include heart attack, stroke and other complications of hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, rheumatic fever and inborn heart defects, among other heart disorders.

The Nation's Weather

Mostly fair skies prevailed across the southern two thirds of the country this morning. Some cloudiness was found over the Great Lakes, upper Ohio Valley, and eastward, as well as parts of the far west.

Snow depths have diminished considerably in Mississippi and Alabama. However, some areas are reporting up to 11 inches on the ground as of 5 this morning.

Precipitation has been generally light in the northwest and northeast sections during the past six hours ending at 5 this morning.

Temperatures in the teens and low 20s were found over the snow cover area of the Southland and northeastern section of the country, while readings in the 30s were found along the Atlantic coast and Mississippi Valley regions.

Thomas Charles Lutz Died Here Wednesday

Thomas Charles Lutz, an employe of Herman Plumbing Co., died Wednesday at a local hospital at the age of 51. He lived at 356 Yucca Circle.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Our Chapel of Memories. The Rev. Dr. Ben Lehmberg will officiate. Burial will take place in Memorial Gardens.

Pallbearers will be Ernest Blair, Charles Brenner, Buddy Cobb, Edwin Berry, Dale Roberts and Norval Coons.

Mr. Lutz was born June 25, 1912, in Eldon, Iowa, and had lived here since 1946.

He attended the First Methodist Church and was a member of Plumbers and Fitters Local 58.

Mr. Lutz is survived by his widow Mrs. Veta Lutz; four daughters, Mrs. Marilyn Lawlor and Mrs. Patricia Bahnsen of Clinton, Iowa, and Mrs. Carol Humphrey, Colorado Springs, and Mrs. Barbara Costa of Long Island, N. Y.; a son Terry McGuire of Colorado Springs; a sister Mrs. Marjorie Findlay of Eldon, and 12 grandchildren.

ITALIAN COSTS HIGHER

ROME (AP)—The cost of living in Italy during 1963 increased 9.4 per cent over 1962.

AFA Marks Important '63 Milestone

Dedication of the magnificent 17-spired, tri-faith chapel marked completion of all major structures, but officials stressed continued growth is essential to the Academy.

Plans for construction of a cadet field house, airfield, and an aerospace education center were announced in October.

A site for the center has already been chosen near Falcon Stadium by a group of Air Force generals acting for the Air Force Academy Foundation. Construction of the unique structure will involve no appropriated funds. All costs will be met thru a foundation conducted drive.

The field house has top priority in academy construction requests for 1964 as does the flying field which would permit a 20 to 30-hour indoctrination program.

In retrospect, two events stand out on the crowded academy 1963 calendar. The first, of course, the visit and commencemencement address of the late President John F. Kennedy, June 5; the second, dedication of the Chapel Sept. 22.

President Kennedy presented diplomas to the top 24 graduates and to "tail end Charlie" — last man in the scholastic order of merit.

More than 8,500 attended the chapel dedication ceremonies and thousands more streamed thru the uniquely beautiful interior during an open house which followed.

The tri-faith concept of the chapel was emphasized by the attendance of representatives from all major faiths at the dedication.

Also dedicated during the year were the Eisenhower Golf Course (financed entirely by private contributions) and the Frank J. Seiler Research Laboratory.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, long an ardent linkster, drove two balls from the first tee to officially dedicate the course which bears his name.

Dedicated in October to the memory of Air Force aerospace research pioneer, Col. Frank J. Seiler, the new lab — a joint operation with the Office of Aerospace Research — will provide the academy with a facility for pure research projects by both cadets and faculty members.

Continuing efforts to refine the academic program was reflected in the award of the Hoyt Vandenberg Trophy to the Dean of the Faculty, Brig. Gen Robert F. McDermott. The award, sponsored by the Air Force Association, is indicative of excellence in aerospace education.

The academy also collected several other significant awards: the Procurement Directorate rated number one among more than 200 bases in the U. S.; the civilian suggestion award program with a participation rate of 62.76 per cent and estimated first year savings of $229,612, was tops among major commands; and the conservation program earned the coveted Thomas D. White Conservation Award for installations of more than 10,000 acres.

A major command change saw Brig. Gen. William T. Seawell retire after more than 20 years active service and be replaced as Commandant of Cadets by Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong, Jr.

The academy continued in its roll as number one tourist attraction in the Rocky Mountain area as more than two million visitors from every state in the union and many foreign countries swarmed thru its gates.

Altho the financial impact of Academy visitors on the local area is hard to calculate, impact of installation payrolls and purchases is more immediate and recognizable.

With civilian and military raises, the combined academy pay roll jumped to over $20 million. Cadet pay adds another $4,650,000. Operating expenses such as utilities, local purchases, transportation, communication, supplies etc., up the ante another $5,300,000. Total local contribution, therefore, reaches $30,400,000!

The year of 1963 was one of solid accomplishment for the Academy but these accomplishments served primarily to build a solid foundation for further physical and academic growth in the new year.

Cascade News

Now for the particulars of where, when, how and how come? After the holidays bring your Christmas tree to the newly graded area north of the Ben Gralapp residence on the Pikes Peak road. The time for the annual "Twelfth Night" observance will be 7 p.m., Jan. 6, 1964. You and your families are cordially invited to attend and participate in a community observance on the twelfth night after Christmas, for an evening of good fellowship, burning of the Christmas trees and group singing around the fire. Refreshments consisting of coffee, hot chocolate and doughnuts will be served at the location, unless an extreme spell of cold weather will make it necessary to serve the treats at the fire house hall. The observance of "Twelfth Night" is a tradition as old as the very hills in Ute Pass. Briefly it is a celebration consisting of a feast on the evening of the twelfth night after Christmas, commemorating the coming of the Magi, as being the first manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles, and is the concluding period of the Christmas festivities. Officers of the Cascade Volunteer Fire department, sponsoring the affair, hope this will be a good time, while the spirit of Christmas is still upon us, to make new acquaintances, renew old acquaintances and friends, and that the community spirit of togetherness will benefit by this occasion.

The Church in the Wildwood, observed a Christmas Eve service at 7:30 p.m., with carols and candles. Directors were Harold Stumbough, Adult choir; Monte Brown, Children's choir; organist, Nancy Kimbrough; pianist Polly Lamb, reader Jean Anderson and ushers Clarence Bucher and Roy Jones. Prelude by Bach was, "Jesus, Joy Of Man's Desiring"; processional carol, "O Come, All Ye Faithful"; "I Wonder As I Wander" (John Jacob Niles), a duet by Marcia Denton flute with Rhoda Denton, piano; "Hasten Swiftly, Hasten Softly" (Kountz) by choir and Trulie Elder, soloist, "Christmas Hymn" (Junst), Barbara Gooder, Lanette and David Brown, "The Infant Babe Is Resting" (Bower, Shipper, Tanner) vocal duet, Mary Linda Mills and Wini Pyle; Jubilate" (Russian Melody, words by Moore) "The Advent Of Our God" (Coffin and Price); "Noel! Christ Is Born" (Strickland) Childrens Choir; "Silent Night! Holy Night), Congregational carol with guitar accompaniment by Jock Bartley (The words of this beautiful carol were written over 100 years ago in the village of Arnsdorf, Austria, the night before Christmas by Father Josef Mohr. The old organ in the little village church was broken, thus the first music to this immortal song was on a guitar, played by Franz Gruber); "Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light (Bach) adult choir; "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel" (Ancient Plain Song) vocal solo by David Meuer; "Greensleeves" (Traditional) by Monte Brown violinist; Lighting of the Candles, starting with the Altar Candle, "The Light of the World, Jesus". The reader, Jean Anderson, lighted the candles of the ushers who in turn gave each worshipper in each row a light, until all held a lighted taper in the darkened church. "Glory To God In The Highest" (Porgolosi) adult choir; "Joy To The World" recessional carol; "Yuletide Echoes" (Hodson) Postlude. Following the service a coffee hour was held in Fellowship Hall, served by Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Martin.

A group of 38 attended the get-acquainted party Saturday, Dec. 28, sponsored by the Holy Rosary Chapel of Cascade, at the Firehouse Hall. Mrs. Teddy Carey furnished organ music for carol singing. Father Joseph Laux O.M.I. of San Antonio, Tex., who recently arrived to assume the duties of the Cascade and Manitou Springs Catholic churches, greeted the parishioners and guests. A 10 a.m. mass was held Christmas Day, and one again on New Years Day. A 7 p.m. Mass is held on the first Friday each month at the Cascade Church. The combined meeting of the men's Holy Name Society and the women's Altar and Rosary Society, held on the first Wednesday each month, will be moved up to Jan. 8, because of New Years Day.

Several residents of Ute Pass, also members of the Color Slide Club, were given awards for colored pictures taken, at the final meeting of the year, held Friday, Dec. 27, at the West Side Library. In open category, for second place, Elmer Tesker's "Marble Doorway" and "Spider Rock", Irma Tesker's "Aspen Lane" and Hal Brown's "Mountain Mahogany" were tied. For third place among seven ties were Irma Tesker's "Gateway" and Elmer Tesker's "Ivy Pillars." The annual Salon meeting will be held Jan. 24, at the Trinity Methodist Church, Colorado Springs.

Kathy Malone, of Pamona, Calif., is a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. David Cowen, and their daughter Kay for the week's holiday.

Cub Scouts, Den No. 3, met Monday Dec. 23, at the Fire House for its last meeting of the year. Mrs. Polly Bartley and Mrs. Sharaon Ernst co-den mothers, were in charge of the Christmas party and gift exchange. All members were present, but Bobby Pickett, who had the mumps. Jock Bartley performed his many tricks of magic for his buddies. The next meeting will be January 6.

Colorado Ends Bloodiest Year in Traffic Accidents

By United Press International

The bloodiest year on Colorado highways ended at midnight Wednesday with the death count at 505; 53 higher than the 1962 toll and 13 more than the previous record number killed in one year 492 in 1961.

And the 1964 slaughter got off to a fast start with two deaths soon after the new year began.

The first fatalities of the new year were Gordon Brawner, 74, of Denver, father of University of Denver Athletic Director Hoyt Brawner, and Larry Leroy Ross, 27, Akron, Colo.

The last two victims of 1963 were Walter F. Caughman, 23, Buena Vista, Colo., and Kenneth Leroy Short, 42, Uravan, Colo.

Brawner, manager of communications at Denver for the Union Pacific Railroad, was killed about 1:50 a.m. when he was hit by a car driven by William Patton Lee, 16, the son of Dist. Judge Robert Lee of Arapahoe County in east Denver.

Police said Lee was taken into custody about eight blocks from the scene of the accident and jailed for questioning.

Ross was killed when his car and one driven by Frank Gonzales, 33, of Evans, Colo., collided eight miles east of Akron on U.S. 34 about an hour later. Gonzales was not hurt.

Short was killed when the car in which he was riding swerved off Colorado 141 three miles east of Uravan and tore out 10 guard posts. The driver, Leland A. Crawford, 29, Silt, Colo., suffered head injuries and was hospitalized in Grand Junction.

Caughman was the victim of a one car accident at the junction of U.S. 24 and U.S. 285, two miles south of Buena Vista. Caughman lost control while turning onto an overpass and the car crashed 200 feet down an embankment, overturning three times. Two passengers—Donald J. Burrus, 22, and Virgil Howeth, 16, of Buena Vista—escaped injury.

Four persons were killed in Colorado traffic last New Year's Day.

Safe With $900 Stolen From Wholesale Firm

A safe containing $900 in cash was stolen from the Milne Mooney Wholesale Co. office at 2139 W. Cucharras St. Tuesday night, police reported.

Thieves entered the office by breaking a door glass. They moved the safe out to the loading dock and then apparently carried it to a car or truck, police said. The owner of the company, Robert Mooney, reported the theft. The safe is worth $150. The Detective Bureau is working on the case.

In other theft cases, thieves broke into the National Commission Co., 2901 N. El Paso St., Tuesday night, and got away with an undetermined amount of cash and other items. The burglary was discovered by Police Officer Victor Morris while he was on routine patrol. The amount of the loss will not be known until an inventory is made.

Morris said a flower pot had been thrown thru a glass door in the south side of the building.

Police reported an attempted break-in at the Brass Rail Bar, 135 E. Colorado Ave., early Wednesday morning.

Officers said a door hasp and door casing in the rear of the building were damaged when thieves unsuccessfully tried to enter the Brass Rail office.

Three car thefts were reported this morning. A 1958 car was stolen from Annalee Ternovsky, 2620 N. Farragut Ave., last night, while it was parked in the 00 block of South Wahsatch, unlocked.

A car which was stolen from Kenneth Lloyd Loney of Security was recovered early this morning when State Patrolman C. W. Hubbard spotted the car and stopped it at Nevada Avenue and Arvada Street. Three Ft. Carson men were taken into custody and are being questioned about the theft by police.

Loney reported that the car was stolen Wednesday afternoon. Loney had left the 1956 car in the 200 block of East Pikes Peak Avenue with the engine running. When he returned a short time later, it was gone.

Ronnie L. Perkins of 914 W. Colorado Ave. told police his car was stolen from a parking place in the 100 block of East Moreno Street early Wednesday morning. They keys were in the ignition of the 1955 car at the time of the theft, police said.

money. Mrs. Cron gave him the money and he then hit her in the head with his fist, knocking her to the floor.

After the man had fled, Mrs. Cron called the police. She described the man as 30 to 35, dressed in a grey tweed sport jacket, dark pants, white shirt and a dark tie.

Mrs. Cron said the car had no license plates, but had a white sticker on the front windshield which may have been a California temporary registration.

She said there was a baby boy and a little girl who appeared to be about 4 years old in the car with the woman. She said the woman had long red hair.

Mrs. Cron said she was not seriously hurt, and required no medical attention.

Congress Will Be Given New Medicare Plan

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six Republican senators say they hope to crack the stalemate on health care for the aged legislation by introducing their own plan when Congress reconvenes next week.

They described it as the most comprehensive health care program ever prepared for Congress and said it would make use of both Social Security funds and general government revenues, and private insurance companies.

Health care legislation will likely set off one of the big battles in Congress this election year.

President Johnson is expected to press hard for passage of the bill—or a version of it—which the late President John F. Kennedy was unable to push through Congress.

The six Republicans said in a statement Wednesday that GOP votes will be needed to pass a health care bill this year and, "We sincerely believe that the bill we are preparing will offer the effective basis for such an agreement."

The six Republicans are Sens. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating of New York, Thomas H. Kuchel of California and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

The Republicans said their draft bill is based on recommendations presented Nov. 14 to Kennedy by the National Committee on Health Care for The Aged.

The senators' statement said their plan would provide hospitalization, nursing care and home care for all citizens 65 and over through Social Security financing or from general federal revenues if the person is not covered by Social Security.

It would also permit health insurance companies to team up and offer a non-profit mass plan for low-cost insurance to cover doctor bills and other medical expenses. Antitrust laws now do not permit such private combinations.

The bill introduced by the Kennedy administration, which drew stiff opposition from the American Medical Association, called for financing of the health program through an increase in Social Security tax.

Shortly after Johnson assumed the presidency he cited health care for the elderly as one of Kennedy's aims which "must and will be translated into effective action."

annual open house at the executive mansion Wednesday.

The Rockefellers, who announced Tuesday that Mrs. Rockefeller is expecting a baby in June, stood more than two hours in the receiving line, greeting visitors who had lined up in snow and a mixture of sleet and freezing rain.

Mrs. Rockefeller laughed delightedly when 6-year-old Richard Sher of Albany told her:

"Happy New Years and I hope you have a nice baby."

Mrs. Rockefeller, slim in a gray beige suit, beamed as her husband held 2-year-old Michael Labanowski, who had been carried through the line by his father, Sylvester Labanowski of Troy.

"It feels good to hold a baby," Rockefeller said.

The expected baby will be the fifth child for Mrs. Rockefeller. She has four by her first husband, Dr. James Murphy, whom she divorced last April. The oldest is 12 and the youngest 3. She and the governor were married last May 4.

Rockefeller and his first wife, Mary Todhunter Clark, were divorced in March 1962. They had five children, four of whom survive. All are married.

Rockefeller said Wednesday he had no intention of making a nationwide television and radio appearance to discuss his divorce and remarriage.

Replying to a reporter's question, he denied a Washington Post story that he would make such an appearance later this month. The newspaper quoted Rockefeller supporters as saying the governor felt he had "nothing to lose and everything to gain" by taking the matter directly to the people.

karios upsets the delicately arranged treaties without consultation with all sides.

In Turkey's capital, Ankara, a foreign ministry spokesman said his government stood by the treaties and promised, "We will take every measure for their literal application."

Under the 1960 treaties Britain, Greece and Turkey promised to act together or singly to prevent partition or annexation of the eastern Mediterranean island. This pledge was designed to block both the campaign of Greek Cypriots, who make up 80 per cent of the population of 577,000, for union with Greece and counter demands by the Turkish Cypriot minority for partition of the island.

Greece and Turkey also were allowed to station garrisons on the island and Britain was permitted to keep two large bases.

Dr. Fazil Kutchik, the Turkish Cypriot vice president, called Makarios' first decision to tear up the treaties illegal because he had not concurred in it.

In Athens, the new Greek caretaker government reserved comment on Makarios' statements.

British troops continued to patrol the streets of Nicosia, and for the fourth day there was no shooting in the city. There were unconfirmed reports of an exchange of fire in the suburb of Lemba. Turkish Cypriots said they found the bodies of a Turkish priest and his 16-year-old son in their home.

About 700 British troops arrived in Cyprus to bolster Britain's reinforced garrison.

The current flareup in the old communal rivalry results from Makarios' plan to amend the 1960 constitution and end Turkish Cypriot veto rights on legislation. Makarios contends the move is necessary to pass needed laws. The Turkish Cypriots say their rights guaranteed by the 1960 constitution are being weakened.

cold war, and thinks it would be muddleheaded if we fail to take these steps to seek peace because we are afraid of being taken in by Red tactics.

He believes that today's hard line on communism should be an unrelenting peace offensive.

Economy: The President is pleased with his budget accomplishments. He is not only proud of the savings yielded so far in the current budget under preparation, but he feels that these efforts will lead to a pattern which will show fruit on fiscal 1966 budgeting.

The President firmly believes that fiscal prudence is no longer a rich man's issue. Fiscal prudence, he believes, is important to middle income families, both to keep down the federal tax burden, and to give the country room to meet opportunities in the realm of human needs, such as education. He believes that the massive federal budget burden is stagnating traditional liberalism in the United States.

Military Bases: He is moving toward the conclusion that obsolesence kept in the military budget for political reasons—for example, old bases and installations—is a serious drag on U.S. readiness. He thinks it is wrong to have military bases of the past supporting an economy of the present.

Business Relations: He feels strongly that there is a need for reevaluation of government-business relations. In addition, he wants the government to be able to draw more heavily on the reservoir of business talent.

Labor: The President wants to make greater use of talent in labor unions. He feels that Latin America especially should have more U.S. labor leaders in the field working with their counterparts there.

Federal Workers: The President has on occasion been somewhat disappointed in the pedestrian caliber of ideas emerging from some agencies, and in the unwillingness of government people to use declarative sentences or to say what they mean. But he is very proud of the federal service as a whole.

Unemployment: Johnson is deeply concerned about chronic unemployment. He is dissatisfied with the cures that have been suggested. He believes we may be underestimating what lies ahead. And he is calling for new solutions and is demanding new thinking on this entire problem.

Traffic Death Total Reported Below Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic deaths for the midweek New Year's holiday, totaling more than 200, exceeded estimates of safety experts, but was far below last week's Christmas toll.

The number of persons killed in traffic accidents during the 48-hour holiday period which ended at midnight Wednesday was 209. Belated reports were expected to boost the total.

However, the toll appeared no larger than the daily average of 117 traffic fatalities reported during the first 11 months of 1963.

The National Safety Council had estimated in advance of the holiday that between 140 and 180 persons might be killed in traffic mishaps from 6 p.m. New Year's Eve to midnight Wednesday—a 30-hour period.

Council President Howard Pyle said Wednesday night that the final figures "definitely will go beyond this estimate." The Associated Press count showed that nearly 200 traffic fatalities were reported during the 30-hour period defined by the council.

The last time New Year's fell on a Wednesday was in 1957, and there were 160 traffic fatalities during the 30-hour period from 6 p.m. New Year's Eve to midnight of the holiday.

There were 316 highway deaths during last week's 48-hour Christmas holiday while 302 persons died in traffic accidents during the 1962-63 New Year's weekend holiday of four days.

The heavy snow and ice which covered wide areas in the South and East made highway travel dangerous but reports indicated extra caution held down both traffic volume and accidents in many parts of the storm belt. Biggest state totals were in other sections of the country—California, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The holiday traffic death toll compared to a total of 170 fatalities reported in an Associated Press survey for a nonholiday period of 48 hours, from 12:01 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 10 to 12:01 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 12.

The fare will remain at 15 cents, at least for a year, Rockefeller and Wagner said.

Quill dropped his chief demand, a 32-hour, four-day work week, in return for a pay boost for the 35,000 workers.

David L. Cole, chairman of the mayor's Transit Labor Board, said the employes will receive an 11-cent an hour raise in 1964, 8½ cents more on Jan. 1, 1965 and another 8½ cents on July 1, 1965. Fringe benefits to cost 7 cents an hour will be added Jan. 1, 1965, he said.

Average pay under the old contract was $2.83 an hour for a 40-hour, 5-day week.

Yetter Named Heart Fund Chairman

Paul A. Yetter, vice president in charge of public relations for the Public Service Company of Colorado, has been reappointed Colorado Heart Fund Chairman for the February, 1963 campaign, according to Dr. John Lichty, Colorado Heart Association president.

Serving his second year as chairman for the Heart Fund, Yetter announced the 1964 goal of $341,000 which will be used to support the association's extensive program of research, education and community service.

Heart and circulatory diseases, including heart attack, stroke, high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries, rheumatic fever and inborn birth defects, now account for more than 54 per cent of all deaths in the United States.

"Proceeds from this campaign will provide the continuing research necessary to maintain steady progress toward reduction in the number of deaths due to these diseases. The fund also provides for local community programs," Yetter said.

GEORGE ASTARITA

George Astarita To Head 1964 Heart Fund Drive

George Astarita, 34 Penrose Blvd., has been named to head the 1964 Heart Fund Campaign.

Along with Dr. John Hays, Astarita headed the most successful advanced gifts division of the '63 drive.

"The average family," according to Astarita, "will lose one half its members due to heart disease unless something is done about this number one killer."

"For this reason, those of us who expend our energies on research, educational activities and practical applications of the heart program feel that our efforts are well directed."

This year Astarita, a former employe of Boettcher and Co., will draw on his previous experience in the Heart Fund Campaign to coordinate the work of all divisions including advanced gifts, business solicitation, heart benefits and the door-to-door canvass culminating in "Heart Sunday."

Announcement of Astarita appointment to head this year's campaign was made today by Edward Opfer, chairman of the El Paso County Heart Unit.

Proceeds from the campaign will be used to fight the heart and blood vessel diseases, now responsible for more than 54 per cent of all deaths in the United States, Opfer said.

These diseases include heart attack, stroke and other complications of hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, rheumatic fever and inborn heart defects, among other heart disorders.

The Nation's Weather

Mostly fair skies prevailed across the southern two thirds of the country this morning. Some cloudiness was found over the Great Lakes, upper Ohio Valley, and eastward, as well as parts of the far west.

Snow depths have diminished considerably in Mississippi and Alabama. However, some areas are reporting up to 11 inches on the ground as of 5 this morning.

Precipitation has been generally light in the northwest and northeast sections during the past six hours ending at 5 this morning.

Temperatures in the teens and low 20s were found over the snow cover area of the Southland and northeastern section of the country, while readings in the 30s were found along the Atlantic coast and Mississippi Valley regions.

Thomas Charles Lutz Died Here Wednesday

Thomas Charles Lutz, an employe of Herman Plumbing Co., died Wednesday at a local hospital at the age of 51. He lived at 356 Yucca Circle.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Our Chapel of Memories. The Rev. Dr. Ben Lehmberg will officiate. Burial will take place in Memorial Gardens.

Pallbearers will be Ernest Blair, Charles Brenner, Buddy Cobb, Edwin Berry, Dale Roberts and Norval Coons.

Mr. Lutz was born June 25, 1912, in Eldon, Iowa, and had lived here since 1946.

He attended the First Methodist Church and was a member of Plumbers and Fitters Local 58.

Mr. Lutz is survived by his widow Mrs. Veta Lutz; four daughters, Mrs. Marilyn Lawlor and Mrs. Patricia Bahnsen of Clinton, Iowa, and Mrs. Carol Humphrey, Colorado Springs, and Mrs. Barbara Costa of Long Island, N. Y.; a son Terry McGuire of Colorado Springs; a sister Mrs. Marjorie Findlay of Eldon, and 12 grandchildren.

ITALIAN COSTS HIGHER

ROME (AP)—The cost of living in Italy during 1963 increased 9.4 per cent over 1962.

AFA Marks Important '63 Milestone

Dedication of the magnificent 17-spired, tri-faith chapel marked completion of all major structures, but officials stressed continued growth is essential to the Academy.

Plans for construction of a cadet field house, airfield, and an aerospace education center were announced in October.

A site for the center has already been chosen near Falcon Stadium by a group of Air Force generals acting for the Air Force Academy Foundation. Construction of the unique structure will involve no appropriated funds. All costs will be met thru a foundation conducted drive.

The field house has top priority in academy construction requests for 1964 as does the flying field which would permit a 20 to 30-hour indoctrination program.

In retrospect, two events stand out on the crowded academy 1963 calendar. The first, of course, the visit and commencemencement address of the late President John F. Kennedy, June 5; the second, dedication of the Chapel Sept. 22.

President Kennedy presented diplomas to the top 24 graduates and to "tail end Charlie" — last man in the scholastic order of merit.

More than 8,500 attended the chapel dedication ceremonies and thousands more streamed thru the uniquely beautiful interior during an open house which followed.

The tri-faith concept of the chapel was emphasized by the attendance of representatives from all major faiths at the dedication.

Also dedicated during the year were the Eisenhower Golf Course (financed entirely by private contributions) and the Frank J. Seiler Research Laboratory.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, long an ardent linkster, drove two balls from the first tee to officially dedicate the course which bears his name.

Dedicated in October to the memory of Air Force aerospace research pioneer, Col. Frank J. Seiler, the new lab — a joint operation with the Office of Aerospace Research — will provide the academy with a facility for pure research projects by both cadets and faculty members.

Continuing efforts to refine the academic program was reflected in the award of the Hoyt Vandenberg Trophy to the Dean of the Faculty, Brig. Gen Robert F. McDermott. The award, sponsored by the Air Force Association, is indicative of excellence in aerospace education.

The academy also collected several other significant awards: the Procurement Directorate rated number one among more than 200 bases in the U. S.; the civlian suggestion award program with a participation rate of 62.76 per cent and estimated first year savings of $229,612, was tops among major commands; and the conservation program earned the coveted Thomas D. White Conservation Award for installations of more than 10,000 acres.

A major command change saw Brig. Gen. William T. Seawell retire after more than 20 years active service and be replaced as Commandant of Cadets by Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong, Jr.

The academy continued in its roll as number one tourist attraction in the Rocky Mountain area as more than two million visitors from every state in the union and many foreign countries swarmed thru its gates.

Altho the financial impact of Academy visitors on the local area is hard to calculate, impact of installation payrolls and purchases is more immediate and recognizable.

With civilian and military raises, the combined academy pay roll jumped to over $20 million. Cadet pay adds another $4,650,000. Operating expenses such as utilities, local purchases, transportation, communication, supplies etc., up the ante another $5,300,000. Total local contribution, therefore, reaches $30,480,000!

The year of 1963 was one of solid accomplishment for the Academy but these accomplishments served primarily to build a solid foundation for further physical and academic growth in the new year.

Cascade News

By CAROLYN McADAMS — MU 7-9065

Now for the particulars of where, when, how and how come? After the holidays bring your Christmas tree to the newly graded area north of the Ben Gralapp residence on the Pikes Peak road. The time for the annual "Twelfth Night" observance will be 7 p.m., Jan. 6, 1964. You and your families are cordially invited to attend and participate in a community observance on the twelfth night after Christmas, for an evening of good fellowship, burning of the Christmas trees and group singing around the fire. Refreshments consisting of coffee, hot chocolate and doughnuts will be served at the location, unless an extreme spell of cold weather will make it necessary to serve the treats at the fire house hall. The observance of "Twelfth Night" is a tradition as old as the very hills in Ute Pass. Briefly it is a celebration consisting of a feast on the evening of the twelfth night after Christmas, commemorating the coming of the Magi, as being the first manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles, and is the concluding period of the Christmas festivities. Officers of the Cascade Volunteer Fire department, sponsoring the affair, hope this will be a good time, while the spirit of Christmas is still upon us, to make new acquaintances, renew old acquaintances and friends, and that the community spirit of togetherness will benefit by this occasion.

The Church in the Wildwood, observed a Christmas Eve service at 7:30 p.m., with carols and candles. Directors were Harold Stumbough, Adult choir; Monte Brown, Children's choir; organist, Nancy Kimbrough; pianist Polly Lamb, reader Jean Anderson and ushers Clarence Bucher and Roy Jones. Prelude by Bach was, "Jesus, Joy Of Man's Desiring"; processional carol, "O Come, All Ye Faithful"; "I Wonder As I Wander" (John Jacob Niles), a duet by Marcia Denton flute with Rhoda Denton, piano; "Hasten Swiftly, Hasten Softly" (Kountz) by choir and Trulie Elder, soloist, "Christmas Hymn" (Junst), Barbara Gooder, Lanette and David Brown, "The Infant Babe Is Resting" (Bower, Shipper, Tanner) vocal duet, Mary Linda Mills and Wini Pyle; Jubilate" (Russian Melody, words by Moore) "The Advent Of Our God" (Coffin and Price); "Noel! Christ Is Born" (Strickland) Childrens Choir; "Silent Night! Holy Night), Congregational carol with guitar accompaniment by Jock Bartley (The words of this beautiful carol were written over 100 years ago in the village of Arnsdorf, Austria, the night before Christmas by Father Josef Mohr. The old organ in the little village church was broken, thus the first music to this immortal song was on a guitar, played by Franz Gruber); "Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light (Bach) adult choir; "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel" (Ancient Plain Song) vocal solo by David Meuer; "Greensleeves" (Traditional) by Monte Brown violinist; Lighting of the Candles, starting with the Altar Candle, "The Light of the World, Jesus". The reader, Jean Anderson, lighted the candles of the ushers who in turn gave each worshipper in each row a light, until all held a lighted taper in the darkened church. "Glory To God In The Highest" (Porgolosi) adult choir; "Joy To The World" recessional carol; "Yuletide Echoes" (Hodson) Postlude. Following the service a coffee hour was held in Fellowship Hall, served by Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Martin.

A group of 38 attended the get-acquainted party Saturday, Dec. 28, sponsored by the Holy Rosary Chapel of Cascade, at the Firehouse Hall. Mrs. Teddy Carey furnished organ music for carol singing. Father Joseph Laux O.M.I. of San Antonio, Tex., who recently arrived to assume the duties of the Cascade and Manitou Springs Catholic churches, greeted the parishioners and guests. A 10 a.m. mass was held Christmas Day, and one again on New Years Day. A 7 p.m. Mass is held on the first Friday each month at the Cascade Church. The combined meeting of the men's Holy Name Society and the women's Altar and Rosary Society, held on the first Wednesday each month, will be moved up to Jan. 8, because of New Years Day.

Several residents of Ute Pass, also members of the Color Slide Club, were given awards for colored pictures taken, at the final meeting of the year, held Friday, Dec. 27, at the West Side Library. In open category, for second place, Elmer Tesker's "Marble Doorway" and "Spider Rock", Irma Tesker's "Aspen Lane" and Hal Brown's "Mountain Mahogany" were tied. For third place among seven ties were Irma Tesker's "Gateway" and Elmer Tesker's "Ivy Pillars." The annual Salon meeting will be held Jan. 24, at the Trinity Methodist Church, Colorado Springs.

Kathy Malone, of Pamona, Calif., is a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. David Cowen, and their daughter Kay for the week's holiday.

Cub Scouts, Den No. 3, met Monday Dec. 23, at the Fire House for its last meeting of the year. Mrs. Polly Bartley and Mrs. Sharaon Ernst co-den mothers, were in charge of the Christmas party and gift exchange. All members were present but Bobby Pickett, who had the mumps. Jock Bartley performed his many tricks of magic for his buddies. The next meeting will be January 6.

Colorado Ends Bloodiest Year in Traffic Accidents

By United Press International

The bloodiest year on Colorado highways ended at midnight Wednesday with the death count at 505, 53 higher than the 1962 toll and 13 more than the previous record number killed in one year 492 in 1961.

And the 1964 slaughter got off to a fast start with two deaths soon after the new year began.

The first fatalities of the new year were Gordon Brawner, 74, of Denver, father of University of Denver Athletic Director Hoyt Brawner, and Larry Leroy Ross, 27, Akron, Colo.

The last two victims of 1963 were Walter F. Caughman, 23, Buena Vista, Colo., and Kenneth Leroy Short, 42, Uravan, Colo.

Brawner, manager of communications at Denver for the Union Pacific Railroad, was killed about 1:50 a.m. when he was hit by a car driven by William Patton Lee, 16, the son of Dist. Judge Robert Lee of Arapahoe County in east Denver.

Police said Lee was taken into custody about eight blocks from the scene of the accident and jailed for questioning.

Ross was killed when his car and one driven by Frank Gonzales, 33, of Evans, Colo., collided eight miles east of Akron on U.S. 34 about an hour later. Gonzales was not hurt.

Short was killed when the car in which he was riding swerved off Colorado 141 three miles east of Uravan and tore out 10 guard posts. The driver, Leland A. Crawford, 29, Silt, Colo., suffered head injuries and was hospitalized in Grand Junction.

Caughman was the victim of a one car accident at the junction of U.S. 24 and U.S. 285, two miles south of Buena Vista. Caughman lost control while turning onto an overpass and the car crashed 200 feet down an embankment, overturning three times. Two passengers—Donald J. Burrus, 22, and Virgil Howeth, 16, of Buena Vista—escaped injury.

Four persons were killed in Colorado traffic last New Year's Day.

Safe With $900 Stolen From Wholesale Firm

A safe containing $900 in cash was stolen from the Milne Mooney Wholesale Co. office at 2139 W. Cucharras St. Tuesday night, police reported.

Thieves entered the office by breaking a door glass. They moved the safe out to the loading dock and then apparently carried it to a car or truck, police said. The owner of the company, Robert Mooney, reported the theft. The safe is worth $150. The Detective Bureau is working on the case.

In other theft cases, thieves broke into the National Commission Co., 2901 N. El Paso St., Tuesday night, and got away with an undetermined amount of cash and other items. The burglary was discovered by Police Officer Victor Morris while he was on routine patrol. The amount of the loss will not be known until an inventory is made.

Morris said a flower pot had been thrown thru a glass door in the south side of the building.

Officers said a door hasp and door casing in the rear of the building were damaged when thieves unsuccessfully tried to enter the Brass Rail office.

Three car thefts were reported this morning. A 1958 car was stolen from Annalee Ternovsky, 2620 N. Farragut Ave., last night, while it was parked in the 00 block of South Wahsatch, unlocked.

A car which was stolen from Kenneth Lloyd Loney of Security was recovered early this morning when State Patrolman C. W. Hubbard spotted the car and stopped it at Nevada Avenue and Arvada Street. Three Ft. Carson men were taken into custody and are being questioned about the theft by police.

Loney reported that the car was stolen Wednesday afternoon. Loney had left the 1956 car in the 200 block of East Pikes Peak Avenue with the engine running. When he returned a short time later, it was gone.

Ronnie L. Perkins of 914 W. Colorado Ave. told police his car was stolen from a parking place in the 100 block of East Moreno Street early Wednesday morning. They keys were in the ignition of the 1955 car at the time of the theft, police said.

money. Mrs. Cron gave him the money and he then hit her in the head with his fist, knocking her to the floor.

After the man had fled, Mrs. Cron called the police. She described the man as 30 to 35, dressed in a grey tweed sport jacket, dark pants, white shirt and a dark tie.

Mrs. Cron said the car had no license plates, but had a white sticker on the front windshield which may have been a California temporary registration.

She said there was a baby boy and a little girl who appeared to be about 4 years old in the car with the woman. She said the woman had long red hair.

Mrs. Cron said she was not seriously hurt, and required no medical attention.

Wallet With $35 Reported Lost

Richard Tafoya of 231 N. Chestnut St. reported to the sheriff's office that he had lost his wallet containing $35 and all his personal papers.

According to Tafoya he lost it while he was dancing at the Caravan Night Club.

IDEA REBOUNDS

LONDON (UPI) — A British manufacturer of air refresher said today that a can of "swear-word eraser" it put out as an advertising gimmick has become a big seller.

"The idea rebounded on us," the firm said, "and we have had so many requests for the cans that we have put the swear word eraser on the market at three shillings, six pence (49 cents) apiece."

Congress Will Be Given New Medicare Plan

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six Republican senators say they hope to crack the stalemate on health care for the aged legislation by introducing their own plan when Congress reconvenes next week.

They described it as the most comprehensive health care program ever prepared for Congress and said it would make use of both Social Security funds and general government revenues, and private insurance companies.

Health care legislation will likely set off one of the big battles in Congress this election year.

President Johnson is expected to press hard for passage of the bill—or a version of it—which the late President John F. Kennedy was unable to push through Congress.

The six Republicans said in a statement Wednesday that GOP votes will be needed to pass a health care bill this year and, "We sincerely believe that the bill we are preparing will offer the effective basis for such an agreement."

The six Republicans are Sens. Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating of New York, Thomas H. Kuchel of California and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

The Republicans said their draft bill is based on recommendations presented Nov. 14 to Kennedy by the National Committee on Health Care for The Aged.

The senators' statement said their plan would provide hospitalization, nursing care and home care for all citizens 65 and over through Social Security financing or from general federal revenues if the person is not covered by Social Security.

It would also permit health insurance companies to team up and offer a non-profit mass plan for low-cost insurance to cover doctor bills and other medical expenses. Antitrust laws now do not permit such private combinations.

The bill introduced by the Kennedy administration, which drew stiff opposition from the American Medical Association, called for financing of the health program through an increase in Social Security taxes.

Shortly after Johnson assumed the presidency he cited health care for the elderly as one of Kennedy's aims which "must and will be translated into effective action."

Mummers Defy Race Protests

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Leaders of the Mummers, civil rights groups and the city seek today to resolve a controversy that threatened to flare into a demonstration before weather forced postponement until Saturday of the traditional New Year's Day parade up Broad Street.

Civil rights groups oppose use of blackface makeup by some marchers.

Despite the postponement, an informal group called the Second Streeters marched briefly Wednesday and many wore blackface. There were no incidents and the Second Streeters said they would march again Saturday.

Sadie T. M. Alexander, chairman of the city's Commission on Human Relations, asked for a series of meetings of officials of both sides to settle the dispute.

Magistrate Elias Myers, the parade director, banned use of blackface makeup this year, but rescinded the order after some clubs protested.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Congress of Racial Equality then protested. The city said it would not award prizes to participants who wear blackface.

CORE and the Committee for Freedom now threatened to physically block the parade unless blackface marchers are banned.

Russian Ex-Spy Is Sent to Canada

LONDON (AP) — Anatoli Dolnytsin, Soviet intelligence officer who defected to the West, has been quietly shipped from Britain to start a new life in Canada, official sources said today.

Dolnytsin sought asylum at the British mission in Ottawa in 1962 and for 18 months was questioned by American and British agents.

According to British newspapers he gave the tip which unmasked two major spies —admiralty clerk William John Vassall, now serving 18 years, and Harold Philby, former Foreign Office man now living in Moscow.

Assassination 'Top Show,' TV Critic Says

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the day reserved for looking backward critically and forward hopefully.

It is not difficult to pick television's top performance of the past 12 months: it was the coverage of the four days beginning Nov. 22 when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. Everything else pales beside it.

Most of the 1963 shows I remember best fall into that broad category of actualities — news and special events and documentaries.

Among those were two "CBS Reports," "The Biography of a Bookie Joint and "The Great American Funeral." There were ABC's leisurely camera visit to "The Vatican" and its thought-provoking behind-the-scenes report of the confrontation between the U.S. Justice Department and Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace.

Two revealing portraits of people stay in the mind, both on NBC. One was a rather unpleasant study of Shelley Berman, called "Comedian Backstage." The other was "Miss America Behind the Scenes" which showed the physical and emotional ordeal of a state beauty contest winner.

Dramatic programs, for the most part, were wrapped up in themes of sickness, despair and human defeat. One week I counted four series preoccupied with narcotics addiction.

Two exceedingly violent programs stick in the memory. One was NBC's "Ride With Terror," about two young punks cowing a subway car full of passengers. The other, also on NBC, was a rather pointless hour about a bookkeeper, savagely berserk, turning an office into a battleground. It was called "Wall to Wall War."

Also well remembered was NBC's "The Cas Against Paul Ryker," two-part courtroom drama with a disappointing climax but turned into exciting theater by the performances of Lee Marvin and Bradford Dillman. There was one great daytime hour when Danny Kaye unexpectedly took over "The Merv Griffin Show" and turned it into a hilarious shambles.

One's impulse after Monday premiers of ABC's "The Object Is," and NBC's "Let's Make A Deal," is to ignore both of these silly daytime programs in the fervent hope they'll go away.

The ABC entry is another of those lineal descendants of "Password." It has such complicated rules that none of the players or even host Dick Clark was sure what was going on.

NBC's new game show appears to be a child of "The Price Is Right" and "Truth or consequences," inheriting the worst features of both parents—bidding for concealed objects and gag prizes.

COURTESY PAYS

CHICAGO (UPI) — Courtesy on the highways goes a long way toward reducing accidents, says the Chicago Motor Club. One way to practice road courtesy is to be the first to dim your headlights when approaching another car at night. Also, remember to dim your lights when following another car.

BRUSSELS — Belgian imports are nearing new highs.

INSTRUCTOR FREED

BUENA VISTA (UPI)— The Colorado State Reformatory reported Saturday Fred E. Robinson, 46, a cooking instructor at the institution, was freed on $2,000 bond. Robinson was suspended from his job and charged with smuggling liquor to inmates. He will appear before Justice of the Peace Ralph Taylor at Salida Jan. 9 for preliminary hearing.

Deaths

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)— James M. Rogers, 53, editor of the Asheville Times, died on Wednesday. He had suffered from leukemia for four years. Rogers, editor of the Times since December 1961, served in several news capacities on the Times and the Asheville Citizen since 1936.

Assassination 'Top Show,' TV Critic Says

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the day reserved for looking backward critically and forward hopefully.

It is not difficult to pick television's top performance of the past 12 months: it was the coverage of the four days beginning Nov. 22 when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. Everything else pales beside it.

Most of the 1963 shows I remember best fall into that broad category of actualities — news and special events and documentaries.

Among those were two "CBS Reports," "The Biography of a Bookie Joint and "The Great American Funeral." There were ABC's leisurely camera visit to "The Vatican" and its thought-provoking behind-the-scenes report of the confrontation between the U.S. Justice Department and Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace.

Two revealing portraits of people stay in the mind, both on NBC. One was a rather unpleasant study of Shelley Berman, called "Comedian Backstage." The other was "Miss America Behind the Scenes" which showed the physical and emotional ordeal of a state beauty contest winner.

Dramatic programs, for the most part, were wrapped up in themes of sickness, despair and human defeat. One week I counted four series preoccupied with narcotics addiction.

Two exceedingly violent programs stick in the memory. One was NBC's "Ride With Terror," about two young punks cowing a subway car full of passengers. The other, also on NBC, was a rather pointless hour about a bookkeeper, savagely berserk, turning an office into a battleground. It was called "Wall to Wall War."

Also well remembered was NBC's "The Cas Against Paul Ryker," two-part courtroom drama with a disappointing climax but turned into exciting theater by the performances of Lee Marvin and Bradford Dillman. There was one great daytime hour when Danny Kaye unexpectedly took over "The Merv Griffin Show" and turned it into a hilarious shambles.

One's impulse after Monday premiers of ABC's "The Object Is," and NBC's "Let's Make A Deal," is to ignore both of these silly daytime programs in the fervent hope they'll go away.

The ABC entry is another of those lineal descendants of "Password." It has such complicated rules that none of the players or even host Dick Clark was sure what was going on.

NBC's new game show appears to be a child of "The Price Is Right" and "Truth or consequences," inheriting the worst features of both parents—bidding for concealed objects and gag prizes.

INSTRUCTOR FREED

BUENA VISTA (UPI)— The Colorado State Reformatory reported Saturday Fred E. Robinson, 46, a cooking instructor at the institution, was freed on $2,000 bond. Robinson was suspended from his job and charged with smuggling liquor to inmates. He will appear before Justice of the Peace Ralph Taylor at Salida Jan. 9 for preliminary hearing.

Deaths

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)— James M. Rogers, 53, editor of the Asheville Times, died on Wednesday. He had suffered from leukemia for four years. Rogers, editor of the Times since December 1961, served in several news capacities on the Times and the Asheville Citizen since 1936.

Mummers Defy Race Protests

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Leaders of the Mummers, civil rights groups and the city seek today to resolve a controversy that threatened to flare into a demonstration before weather forced postponement until Saturday of the traditional New Year's Day parade up Broad Street.

Civil rights groups oppose use of blackface makeup by some marchers.

Despite the postponement, an informal group called the Second Streeters marched briefly Wednesday and many wore blackface. There were no incidents and the Second Streeters said they would march again Saturday.

Sadie T. M. Alexander, chairman of the city's Commission on Human Relations, asked for a series of meetings of officials of both sides to settle the dispute.

Magistrate Elias Myers, the parade director, banned use of blackface makeup this year, but rescinded the order after some clubs protested.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Congress of Racial Equality then protested. The city said it would not award prizes to participants who wear blackface.

CORE and the Committee for Freedom now threatened to physically block the parade unless blackface marchers are banned.

Russian Ex-Spy Is Sent to Canada

LONDON (AP) — Anatoli Dolnytsin, Soviet intelligence officer who defected to the West, has been quietly shipped from Britain to start a new life in Canada, official sources said today.

Dolnytsin sought asylum at the British mission in Ottawa in 1962 and for 18 months was questioned by American and British agents.

According to British newspapers he gave the tip which unmasked two major spies —admiralty clerk William John Vassall, now serving 18 years, and Harold Philby, former Foreign Office man now living in Moscow.

COURTESY PAYS

CHICAGO (UPI) — Courtesy on the highways goes a long way toward reducing accidents, says the Chicago Motor Club. One way to practice road courtesy is to be the first to dim your headlights when approaching another car at night. Also, remember to dim your lights when following another car.

BRUSSELS — Belgian imports are nearing new highs.

Plan Ahead—Cut Hours Behind Steering Wheel

By RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Most wives today spend more time driving than they do preparing food, a vice president of one of the country's largest automobile companies recently told a group of women editors.

He probably wasn't exaggerating. The food industry keeps cutting down on the time it takes a housewife to prepare meals—but most of the time a woman saves in the kitchen is spent behind the wheel of her car.

"I don't know why I'm always so busy" women keep saying to each other. Actually, most housewives today are at a loss to explain what uses up so much of their time.

They would soon find out if, for just one month, they kept account of the amount of time they spend in their cars every day, chauffeuring, running errands, driving long distances to meetings, shopping, marketing, and so on.

But most women neither know nor want to know just how much time they spend driving.

If they ever faced the fact that they are as much slaves to their cars as their great-grandmothers were slaves to the stove, it would really give them a jolt. And they would feel compelled to start managing their time better.

For the woman who is always in her car isn't a very-well-organized homemaker. She chauffeurs her children far more than they need to be chauffeured; she drives here and there looking for something she needs to purchase, when with a few telephone calls she could locate what she wants—and often have it delivered. She drives to the supermarket in the morning, and maybe once or twice more the same day, to pick up something she forgot. She travels the same route doing errands several times a week because she doesn't plan ahead to do a lot of errands when she is out.

Her own automobile can either give a woman a measure of freedom or tie her to the driver's seat—depending on how good a manager she is.

Jumper Dresses Are Practical

The girl who goes to business — the teacher, the shopper, the family chauffeur — all can make good use of jumper dresses, especially if made in lightweight wool, jersey, or double knit.

A chicly fresh blouse or pullover for every day — the jumper can be worn many times and look different because of the blouse or sweater.

Design 1404, believe it or not, comes in sizes 12½ to 26½. That, encompasses bust sizes from 33 to 47.

This costume is so simple we are not telling you much about making it, but we are concentrating on sewing on buttons. The following is my way:

—For a two-hole button, mark the position for each button by lapping the garment as it is to be worn. Bring a pin from underneath to the button side, directly thru the center of each buttonhole.

—Use a strong thread, begin with back-stitch at the point marked by the pin, bring thread up thru one hole of the button and down thru the other hole and thru the fabric; but before drawing the thread down, put one or two pins across the button, as in A, so as to provide buttonhole space between fabric and button.

—Sew back and forth until the button is securely in position. Remove the pin, draw the button away from the material as far as possible, and wind the thread tightly several times around the threads between the button and the material, as in B. This treatment forms a thread shank for the button, holding the button away from the material and allowing room for the buttonhole. Finish off thread with tiny back-stitches, as in C.

—Sew a four-hole button on in the same way as a two-hole one, but place pins over the button, as in D, and sew diagonally across or parallel so that stiches are a decoration for the button.

—For four-hole buttons on coats, the threads should not cross, but should be parallel so as to give a neater finish.

F. For shank buttons, locate the positions as explained. Sew to place, so that the stitches run parallel to the edge of the garment. Strain will then fall on shank rather than on thread.

No. 1404 with Photo-Guide is in size 12½ thru 26½. Bust 33 to 47. Size 14½, 35 bust, ¾ sleeve blouse, 2½ yards of 35-inch; jumper, 2¼ yards of 54-inch.

To order send 50 cents to: Mary Brooks Picken, Reader Service, Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph, P. O. Box 489, Dept. C, New York 19, New York.

What's New

New ceramic hardware includes drawer knobs and pulls, door knobs, escutcheons, double and single electrical switchplates. The manufacturer says the material, Melamine, is better than conventional materials. It holds sharper lines for surface decoration. The design cannot be rubbed off. (Holton Products, Stamford, Conn.).

Now, contemporary designs are offered in ceiling tiles. One design creates a ceiling - wide pattern of concentric diamonds when installed. Another decorative tile features an abstract design of delicate starbursts, accented by tiny two-tone squares. Both tiles come in silver and gold on a white background. (Barrett Division, Allied Chemical Corp., 40 Rector St., New York, N.Y.)

PARADE POSITIONS

According to the unwritten rules, automobiles representing each state in the U.S. presidential inaugural parade line up in order of their state's admission to the Union. Delaware occupies the lead position since it became a state Dec. 7, 1787, five days before its runner-up, Pennsylvania.

As you make draperies at home put a snap at each bottom corner. Put the other part of the snap several feet up on the wrong side of the side seam. Then when you are cleaning the floors it is a simple matter to snap the draperies up off the floor.

House Dresses for Perky Look

Remember that survey I told you about, showing the importance of a housewife looking tiptop when her family leaves her in the morning? A charmingly simple dress, requiring little care, can give a "perkiness" that can influence every member of the family. Such a dress of practical material need not cost more than $3.

On big workdays like cleaning or doing the laundry, there is nothing better than a gaily colorful jumper apron of denim. Slip over any dress — over slacks and sweater, or slacks and blouse — and you have protection, as well as an air of efficiency.

This jumper apron can be cut long enough to wear as a shift if desired. Pockets are essential in such a jumper, so make your jumper long enough to provide ample space for the pockets.

Slip-Stitched Pocket. Turn the flap on your pocket to the wrong side, stitch each side of the flap to the pocket. Clip the corner seam, turn to wrong side, catch-stitch the raw seam edges sides and bottom. Slip-stitch pockets to place on your apron.

The side darts in this jumper are especially good as it allows garment to hang straight down from the bustline.

Neck opening of the jumper is large enough so you can slip it over your head, or a buttonhole on the shoulder may be used. The facing of the jumper should be cut large enough to extend out to the armholes and as deep as the tabs, so all can be stitched around at the same time. Turn the facing to the wrong side: stitch the lower edge free of the apron, then catch to place with secure slip stitches.

Do strive to look efficient in the mornings, and lovable when the family comes home. You can do a lot for family morale by showing that you dress attractively for them.

Pattern No. 8192 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Bust 32 to 40. Size 14, 34 bust, 3½ yards of 35-inch.

Dress pattern No. 8147 with Patt-O-Rama is in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Bust 31 to 40. Size 12, 32 bust, short sleeve 3½ yards of 35-inch.

To order, send 50 cents in coin for each pattern to: Mary Brooks Picken, Reader Service, Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph, P. O. Box 489, Dept. C, New York 19, New York.

Visitor to Firehouse Can Be Dangerous

NEW YORK (AP)— Just trying to be helpful, a 12-year-old fire buff closed the overhead door of a firehouse as a hook and ladder truck was leaving Wednesday night.

The door landed on the windshield of the rear driver's seat, injuring tillerman Joseph Almon, 36. He was reported in fair condition at a hospital.

Firemen said the boy who tripped the lever closing the door often visits the firehouse. They called the incident an accident.

BACKBREAKING BREAK-IN

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The burglar who loted two filing cabinets at a local cafe and billiard club got a heavy haul.

The apparently muscular thief made off with between $500 and $600, almost all of it in nickels. Total weight of the coins taken was estimated at about 100 pounds.

Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♡

By keeping an ear keenly attuned to his opponents' bidding, West gleaned some information which proved highly useful in finding a successful defense against South's four spade contract.

South opened the bidding with one heart and North apparently had a choice of responses. He could make a one over one call in spades or he could offer a single raise in hearts. The response of one spade, while it seems to be quite innocuous, might lead to a future problem if, for example, South's rebid happened to be a call of two hearts. For North to pass would seem craven and yet to raise to three hearts would surely strike us as unduly aggressive. To avoid this dilemma, the single raise is our preferred call.

South had well in excess of a minimum, so he invited partner to carry on by rebidding two spades. When North was able to raise that suit too, South persisted to game in spades. He chose the four-four fit as a trump vehicle on the reasoning that his longer heart suit might prove useful as a source for discards.

Although West's sequence in diamonds presented a logical opening lead, he paused for a moment to assess the information presented in the auction. South appeared to have five hearts and four spades, for with equal or greater length in spades he would have bid that suit first. North had to have three hearts for his original raise which meant that East was marked with at most a doubleton in that suit. Since West held controls in both hearts and spades, it appeared likely that he could give his partner a ruff and he decided to exert his efforts in that direction.

West opened the ace and another heart on the slight chance tha East might hold a singleton. Dummy's queen of hearts won the second trick however, and declarer led the queen of spades and took the finesse in trumps. West was in with the king and he returned another heart which East ruffed. The latter was quick to cash the ace of clubs for the setting trick.

Observe that, without West's alert defense, South will have time to establish the heart suit and eventually obtain two diamond discards from the dummy, thus restricting his losses to one spade, one heart and one club.

—Sew back and forth until the button is securely in position. Remove the pin, draw the button away from the material as far as possible, and wind the thread tightly several times around the threads between the button and the material, as in B. This treatment forms a thread shank for the button, holding the button away from the material and allowing room for the buttonhole. Finish off thread with tiny back-stitches, as in C.

—Sew a four-hole button on in the same way as a two-hole one, but place pins over the button, as in D, and sew diagonally across or parallel so that stiches are a decoration for the button.

—For four-hole buttons on coats, the threads should not cross, but should be parallel so as to give a neater finish.

F. For shank buttons, locate the positions as explained. Sew to place, so that the stitches run parallel to the edge of the garment. Strain will then fall on shank rather than on thread.

What's New

New ceramic hardware includes drawer knobs and pulls, door knobs, escutcheons, double and single electrical switchplates. The manufacturer says the material, Melamine, is better than conventional materials. It holds sharper lines for surface decoration. The design cannot be rubbed off. (Holton Products, Stamford, Conn.).

Now, contemporary designs are offered in ceiling tiles. One design creates a ceiling - wide pattern of concentric diamonds when installed. Another decorative tile features an abstract design of delicate starbursts, accented by tiny two-tone squares. Both tiles come in silver and gold on a white background. (Barrett Division, Allied Chemical Corp., 40 Rector St., New York, N.Y.)

PARADE POSITIONS

According to the unwritten rules, automobiles representing each state in the U.S. presidential inaugural parade line up in order of their state's admission to the Union. Delaware occupies the lead position since it became a state Dec. 7, 1787, five days before its runner-up, Pennsylvania.

As you make draperies at home put a snap at each bottom corner. Put the other part of the snap several feet up on the wrong side of the side seam. Then when you are cleaning the floors it is a simple matter to snap the draperies up off the floor.

House Dresses for Perky Look

Remember that survey I told you about, showing the importance of a housewife looking tip-top when her family leaves her in the morning? A charmingly simple dress, requiring little care, can give a "perkiness" that can influence every member of the family. Such a dress of practical material need not cost more than $3.

On big workdays like cleaning or doing the laundry, there is nothing better than a gaily colorful jumper apron of denim. Slip over any dress — over slacks and sweater, or slacks and blouse — and you have protection, as well as an air of efficiency.

This jumper apron can be cut long enough to wear as a shift if desired. Pockets are essential in such a jumper, so make your jumper long enough to provide ample space for the pockets.

Slip-Stitched Pocket. Turn the flap on your pocket to the wrong side, stitch each side of the flap to the pocket. Clip the corner seam, turn to wrong side, catch-stitch the raw seam edges sides and bottom. Slip-stitch pockets to place on your apron.

The side darts in this jumper are especially good as it allows garment to hang straight down from the bustline.

Neck opening of the jumper is large enough so you can slip it over your head, or a buttonhole on the shoulder may be used. The facing of the jumper should be cut large enough to extend out to the armholes and as deep as the tabs, so all can be stitched around at the same time. Turn the facing to the wrong side; stitch the lower edge free of the apron, then catch to place with secure slip stitches.

Do strive to look efficient in the mornings, and lovable when the family comes home. You can do a lot for family morale by showing that you dress attractively for them.

Pattern No. 8192 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Bust 32 to 40. Size 14, 34 bust, 3½ yards of 35-inch.

Visitor to Firehouse Can Be Dangerous

NEW YORK (AP)— Just trying to be helpful, a 12-year-old fire buff closed the overhead door of a firehouse as a hook and ladder truck was leaving Wednesday night.

The door landed on the windshield of the rear driver's seat, injuring tillerman Joseph Almon, 36. He was reported in fair condition at a hospital.

Firemen said the boy who tripped the lever closing the door often visits the firehouse. They called the incident an accident.

BACKBREAKING BREAK-IN

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The burglar who loted two filing cabinets at a local cafe and billiard club got a heavy haul.

The apparently muscular thief made off with between $500 and $600, almost all of it in nickels. Total weight of the coins taken was estimated at about 100 pounds.

The bidding:

Pass	4 ♠	Pass	Pas
Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♡

By keeping an ear keenly attuned to his opponents' bidding, West gleaned some information which proved highly useful in finding a successful defense against South's four spade contract.

South opened the bidding with one heart and North apparently had a choice of responses. He could make a one over one call in spades or he could offer a single raise in hearts. The response of one spade, while it seems to be quite innocuous, might lead to a future problem if, for example, South's rebid happened to be a call of two hearts. For North to pass would seem craven and yet to raise to three hearts would surely strike us as unduly aggressive. To avoid this dilemma, the single raise is our preferred call.

South had well in excess of a minimum, so he invited partner to carry on by rebidding two spades. When North was able to raise that suit too, South persisted to game in spades. He chose the four-four fit as a trump vehicle on the reasoning that his longer heart suit might prove useful as a source for discards.

Although West's sequence in diamonds presented a logical opening lead, he paused for a moment to assess the information presented in the auction. South appeared to have five hearts and four spades, for with equal or greater length in spades he would have bid that suit first. North had to have three hearts for his original raise which meant that East was marked with at most a doubleton in that suit. Since West held controls in both hearts and spades, it appeared likely that he could give his partner a ruff and he decided to exert his efforts in that direction.

West opened the ace and another heart on the slight chance tha East might hold a singleton. Dummy's queen of hearts won the second trick however, and declarer led the queen of spades and took the finesse in trumps. West was in with the king and he returned another heart which East ruffed. The latter was quick to cash the ace of clubs for the setting trick.

Observe that, without West's alert defense, South will have time to establish the heart suit and eventually obtain two diamond discards from the dummy, thus restricting his losses to one spade, one heart and one club.

The wire hanger is fine for the dry cleaner, but not as a permanent fixture in the closet. A strong, contoured wooden hanger is the proper type. It protects line of clothes, leaves no unwanted ridges, doesn't rust and lasts for years.

Lack of caution in the use of flammable liquids — gasoline, kerosene and other petroleum products—is a primary cause of home fire deaths.

Cut glass and bottle washing time in half by using a nylon sponge attached to a wooden handle.

For a modern finish on oak and other open grain woods, use a colorless paste wood filler. When the wood is stained, the filler will not take the color and give the effect found on many modern furnishings. Complete the finish with varnish.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

As another booster of vinegar, I would like to give you a few tips as to the differences in vinegar:

There are essentially two kinds of vinegar, fruit vinegar and "distilled" vinegar.

The most common fruit vinegar in this country is apple cider vinegar, but some wine vinegar is produced. These vinegars have flavors from the fruits in addition to the flavor of the acetic acid. They also have characteristic colors.

The distilled vinegar has no color and little, if any, flavor except that of the acetic acid. Sometimes caramel is added to give it a pleasing color, in which case it should be labeled "Colored Distilled Vinegar."

There is no difference in strength among the "kinds" of vinegar. All contain about 5 per cent acetic acid. However, any particular brand of vinegar, regardless of the kind, may be stronger or weaker than 5 per cent so long as the strength is within legal limits (usually not less than 4 per cent) and the package is properly labeled.

The choice of white or colored, fruit or distilled vinegar depends on one's preference in color and flavor for the particular use, and on the price. Distilled vinegars usually cost least, wine vinegars more . . .

For cleaning purposes one would ordinarily use the cheapest vinegar available ("remembering that a 5 per cent vinegar at 50 cents per gallon is just as cheap as a 4 per cent vinegar at 40 cents per gallon"); and for removing stains the white vinegar has the advantage of allowing one to see more easily whether all the stain is gone. —Leo B. Roberts

Dear Folks:

How about that? Now when you see one brand cheaper than the other "read the fine print" and see what "percentage" it is and see "what" it is made of! The more expensive vinegar may be cheaper in the long run . . .

Also, the National Institute of Dry Cleaning states that anything safe in water is safe in "white" vinegar.

And don't we wish that we could buy our good old vinegar for 50 cents a barrel? Or better yet that we gals owned a factory? —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you have unsightly scuff marks on the heels of your shoes . . . especially plastic heels . . . and no regular shoe polish will cover it . . .

Buy a felt-tip marker (some come in as many as thirteen different colors) at your stationery, dime or drug store. Use it on that mark. It will be covered up instantly. —Mrs. Audrey Linder

---

Dear Helen:

Here is a great tip if your windows stick:

I have windows which move up and down and from season to season I used to find them "stuck" solid.

Now when I clean my windows, I take an old white candle and rub around the casing with the wax.

I move the windows up and down two or three times and this coats the close fitting parts with wax. Result? No more stuck windows for me. —Dollie Baldridge

Dear Heloise:

I have figured out a time-saving way to paste trading stamps in the books.

Get an ice cube, place it on a piece of paper towelling which has been put in a sauce dish. The towelling keeps the ice from sliding.

Then run the glue side of the stamps over the ice cube and paste in book. It's a snap. — I. D.

Have you thought about placing your stamps on two or three paper towels (glue side up) and folding another piece of paper towel (or using a glove) to hold the ice cube and gently wiping the glued part of the stamp?

All one has to do then is pick up the sheet of stamps and slap it in the book. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here's a cooking hint I find very nice when baking a meat loaf.

Place two slices of bread under your meat loaf before baking it and it saves the bottom of the loaf from being burned. —Colonel Dispatch

Fashionettes

United Press International

Those recent pictures of Nikita Khrushchev going on a hunt with a Tartar shepherd's fur casque show he's finally caught up with American fashions, Women's Wear Daily reports. Yankee doodle damsels have been wearing the likes of the hat for several seasons. One designer, Sally Victor, stocks it in lynx, lamb, mink and leopard.

New Italian designs show a slight shift in the bikini. It's on the beach to stay, but the tights are not as brief as they used to be. And a shirt, jacket or shift-to-match covers the bikini when it's not on strictest sun-duty.

The nuttiest jewelry in town is made from walnut, peanut, filbert and almond "gems." Designed by the Tintex Color Council, they're all homemade. Remove nut meat, dye shells, then glue the shells together again. Insert screw eye in shell and string on ribbons or chains. To dye, mix dye bath in small enamel pan and immerse shells overnight. For shiny finish, glaze with clear nail polish.

Little girl's dresses now go to great length—all the way down to shoe tops. They're spittin' images of the long at - home dresses boosted by dame fashion for the holiday hostess.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

As another booster of vinegar, I would like to give you a few tips as to the differences in vinegar:

There are essentially two kinds of vinegar, fruit vinegar and "distilled" vinegar.

The most common fruit vinegar in this country is apple cider vinegar, but some wine vinegar is produced. These vinegars have flavors from the fruits in addition to the flavor of the acetic acid. They also have characteristic colors.

The distilled vinegar has no color and little, if any, flavor except that of the acetic acid. Sometimes caramel is added to give it a pleasing color, in which case it should be labeled "Colored Distilled Vinegar."

There is no difference in strength among the "kinds" of vinegar. All contain about 5 per cent acetic acid. However, any particular brand of vinegar, regardless of the kind, may be stronger or weaker than 5 per cent so long as the strength is within legal limits (usually not less than 4 per cent) and the package is properly labeled.

The choice of white or colored, fruit or distilled vinegar depends on one's preference in color and flavor for the particular use, and on the price. Distilled vinegars usually cost least, wine vinegars more . . .

For cleaning purposes one would ordinarily use the cheapest vinegar available ("remembering that a 5 per cent vinegar at 50 cents per gallon is just as cheap as a 4 per cent vinegar at 40 cents per gallon"); and for removing stains the white vinegar has the advantage of allowing one to see more easily whether all the stain is gone. —Leo B. Roberts

Dear Folks:

How about that? Now when you see one brand cheaper than the other "read the fine print" and see what "percentage" it is and see "what" it is made of! The more expensive vinegar may be cheaper in the long run . . .

Also, the National Institute of Dry Cleaning states that anything safe in water is safe in "white" vinegar.

And don't we wish that we could buy our good old vinegar for 50 cents a barrel? Or better yet that we gals owned a factory? —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you have unsightly scuff marks on the heels of your shoes . . . especially plastic heels . . . and no regular shoe polish will cover it . . .

Buy a felt-tip marker (some come in as many as thirteen different colors) at your stationery, dime or drug store. Use it on that mark. It will be covered up instantly. —Mrs. Audrey Linder

Dear Helen:

Here is a great tip if your windows stick:

I have windows which move up and down and from season to season I used to find them "stuck" solid.

Now when I clean my windows, I take an old white candle and rub around the casing with the wax.

I move the windows up and down two or three times and this coats the close fitting parts with wax. Result? No more stuck windows for me. —Dollie Baldridge

Dear Heloise:

I have figured out a time-saving way to paste trading stamps in the books.

Get an ice cube, place it on a piece of paper towelling which has been put in a sauce dish. The towelling keeps the ice from sliding.

Then run the glue side of the stamps over the ice cube and paste in book. It's a snap. — I. D.

Have you thought about placing your stamps on two or three paper towels (glue side up) and folding another piece of paper towel (or using a glove) to hold the ice cube and gently wiping the glued part of the stamp?

All one has to do then is pick up the sheet of stamps and slap it in the book. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here's a cooking hint I find very nice when baking a meat loaf.

Place two slices of bread under your meat loaf before baking it and it saves the bottom of the loaf from being burned. —Colonel Dispatch

Those recent pictures of Nikita Khrushchev going on a hunt with a Tartar shepherd's fur casque show he's finally caught up with American fashions, Women's Wear Daily reports. Yankee doodle damsels have been wearing the likes of the hat for several seasons. One designer, Sally Victor, stocks it in lynx, lamb, mink and leopard.

New Italian designs show a slight shift in the bikini. It's on the beach to stay, but the tights are not as brief as they used to be. And a shirt, jacket or shift-to-match covers the bikini when it's not on strictest sun-duty.

The nuttiest jewelry in town is made from walnut, peanut, filbert and almond "gems." Designed by the Tintex Color Council, they're all homemade. Remove nut meat, dye shells, then glue the shells together again. Insert screw eye in shell and string on ribbons or chains. To dye, mix dye bath in small enamel pan and immerse shells overnight. For shiny finish, glaze with clear nail polish.

Little girl's dresses now go to great length—all the way down to shoe tops. They're spittin' images of the long at - home dresses boosted by dame fashion for the holiday hostess.

GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Our Answer to Mr. Browning—Part I

It will always be true, we suppose, that men who are very close together in their thinking will have a greater problem with the few differences that remain, than would be true were a larger area of difference to exist. As one modern adage has it: "Lord protect me from my friends, I can look after my enemies myself."

The foregoing is occasioned by the latest letter from LeMoyne Browning which appears in today's Open Parliament column. Mr. Browning and ye editor see so many things in the same light that it is truly strange that they are not in complete harmony. But as one can see by reading this item and the letter to which reference is made, Mr. Browning is not only out of sorts with ye editor, he has occasion to lump ye editor with persons who "omit truth," who practice a "yes, but" technique, who have "half-truths and double standards," and so on. We detect a trace of bitterness.

And yet, what Mr. Browning says is not so, and we are sorry that he seems to feel as he does. As we have indicated at the outset, the difficulty between us is very slight. It relates to the difference between what IS and what it would be nice to believe IS.

Let us take his comments paragraph by paragraph which we have numbered for convenience.

2. We agree with the first three sentences of paragraph two. Now, take the fourth sentence. Mr. Browning says that the Constitution is in harmony with the Ten Commandments. The Ten Commandments say that it is wrong to steal, to murder, to covet, to commit adultery and to lie. The Constitution in Article I, Section 8 provides a method wherein the rights of individual men in some of these particulars can be set aside by the Congress of the United States.

How can the Ten Commandments and this particular section of the Constitution be in harmony? We suggest that Mr. Browning read the article to which reference is made and then we can discuss the item itself instead of descending to name-calling and accusations of "half truths," "distortion," and so on.

3. We are not certain that we approve of the "hat rack" idea. But we are entirely happy to go along with Mr. Browning in his assertion that there are such things as principles and that what is right is right and that what is wrong is wrong.

4. Precisely the case.

5. If our freedoms are diminishing under our Constitutional republic "as water thru a sieve," does this mean that Mr. Browning has finally recognized that as a bulwark to preserve freedom the Constitution is a sieve?

We might point out that if what he infers here is true. . . and we would agree. . .then the Constitution is NOT preserving our freedom. It would be nice to say that it ought to.

If the reliance upon the Constitution is trustworthy, then, if we rely on the Constitution, we will NOT lose our freedom.

Most Americans DO rely on the Constitution. Also, as Mr. Browning points out, we ARE losing our freedom. Obviously, then, what IS and what OUGHT TO BE are not the same. Can we stick to reality? We will contend that only reality is safe. Only the truth is real.

6. There is not as much difference between a republic and a democracy as it would be nice to believe. All republics and all democracies thus far have suffered from precisely the same malady: excessive growth of government, excessive reliance of the electorate upon the government.

7. Splendid. If men are imperfect (we certainly agree), how can you permit them to govern other men? Do you wish to be ruled by the imperfections of others? Limited government is nothing more nor less than self-government.

Skidmarks

The downfall of many a civilization begins when the people no longer "let George do it" but instead have decided to "let the government do it."

Our Answer—Part II

Let us have limited government in the sense of self-government. Let us not rely on the imperfections of men, who, when granted power, are not inclined to limit themselves in the use of that power.

8. We, too, believe in man. That is why we do not believe in placing confidence in instruments of power. We don't understand what Mr. Browning means by equating man with "established principle." If he means that man is a natural creature and must obey nature's established principles, we are in accord. If he believes that man is, himself, a principle, which is what he seems to say, we must confess that we either don't understand or we are out of accord.

9. Mr. Browning is angry. We hope he will get over his anger. His anger arises from what must be an enormous frustration.

Here, for years, he has gone on supporting those who say they support the republican form of government. Then he finds these men who give their support to this form of government, using the government to accomplish aims and objectives which Mr. Browning disapproves.

But it is done according to the Constitution. Article I, Section 8 gives unlimited taxing power to the Congress. Does Mr. Browning object because taxes are too high? We cannot say, for he hasn't told us here. But whether he objects or not, we certainly do. Article I, Section 8 gives Congress an UNLIMITED power to tax. So, IF Mr. Browning objects to our high taxes, he is objecting to high taxes created in a Constitutional manner.

But, it might be said, it wasn't until the income tax amendment was passed that our taxes really went into the stratosphere. True enough. But the income tax amendment was passed in full accord with the Constitutional method provided. There is nothing unconstitutional about the first ten amendments called the Bill of Rights.

Actually, the wording of Article I, Section 8 is in full harmony with the wording of the 16th (income tax) Amendment. Neither phrasing provides for any limit on the taxing powers of the Congress.

Now, if Mr. Browning is angry at men in office who have raised and continued to raise taxes, yet at the same time he is angry because these men do not support the republican form of government, Mr. Browning is a man who is short-circuiting his own reasoning processes. The republican form of government does not limit taxation. Our Constitution does not limit taxation. The men who have been chosen by Constitutional means to represent the people of this country have not limited taxation. Thus, all are in harmony.

The truth is, the republican form of government, the Constitution and the politicians in office are in harmony. Mr. Browning is out of harmony with them, but he believes himself to be in harmony with everything except the politicians. No wonder he is angry.

As for us, we are out of harmony with the idea that some men, of right, can appropriate the earnings of others. We do not favor this idea however it is worded, whatever it is called or whoever it is that tries to do it.

So, we aren't angry. We are not frustrated. We understand the nature of government and we don't expect it to behave in any way except the way it must behave because of its intrinsic nature.

10. Here is Mr. Browning at his least comprehensible. We have a republic. A republic will stop the large outflow of freedom. Our republic is not doing it. We are for freedom. But it is obvious that the scream for peace and freedom is an attack on all freedoms. We confess not to understand this.

11. If man is in control of his own destiny (to which we concur), then each man has his own destiny about which to concern himself. Some men are not in charge of the destiny of all men. To presume this is to presume that there are special persons who are endowed with such great powers that they can behave in a super-human way. And these men, apparently, Mr. Browning not only believes exist, he believes that in some miraculous way they get into government, thru the democratic process.

Yet he despises democracy.

He is happy, he indicates, to place his future in the hands of these men. We part company with him here. We prefer to manage our own affairs.

The men in government have not demonstrated any particular magical powers to manage their own affairs with unqualified success. Mr. Browning may accept their guidance and management if he chooses. We wouldn't interfere with his doing this in any way. But we would like to get him to spare us the consequences. Would he be kind enough to let us manage our own affairs without the management of his governmental experts?

If so, we shall yet come to agreement.

These Days

To Live Without Fear

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Certain subjects, as every columnist and editorial writer soon discovers, will provoke more mail than others. I had thought that educational topics could be counted on to stir a maximum number of people to letter writing. But now, having written a column on fluoridation, I discover that it is tops as a letter-provoker.

My own objection to compulsory fluoridation of municipal water systems is philosophical. I am not enough of a scientist to know whether fluorides in the water will harden the teeth of children against dental caries without having bad side effects on older people who may have diabetes or brittle bones. But, by-passing the scientific argument, which I am not competent to settle, I believe that people have the right to make their own medical decision in cases where the spread of contagious diseases is not involved.

So I wrote a column against compulsory political mass medication via the public water supply. And the mail started to come in. Mail commending me for a brave column. Mail nevertheless wondering why I hadn't listened to those who insist that putting fluorides in water is worse than diluting it with deadly rat poison.

The impressive thing about the mail is not the number of enclosed pamphlets that seek to make a scientific case against fluorides. It is the amount of fear that is involved — so many who are afraid of putting the power of mass medication in the hands of politicians.

OTHER WAYS

The point suggested by this is best expressed in a question: Has a majority of a city council, or even a majority of the voters, in any particular place the right to scare a minority of the people half to death? Particularly when the alleged good to be obtained by small children from fluoride medication could be handled on a voluntary basis at small cost? There are companies which make cheap fluoridation kits, and these could be given away to parents thru school systems if a city should choose to do it.

The fear of fluoridation, to judge from the mail, is even more intense than the fear of atomic fall-out. People are afraid that diabetics, who drink more water than most people, would be specially affected. They are afraid that sodium fluoride, even when it is taken in infinitesimal amounts, will build up in the human system over a long period of time, eventually causing heart disease, mental troubles, and malfunctioning of the pancreas, liver, and kidneys. They are afraid it increases the danger of arthritis and makes bones more brittle. They are afraid it actually does more harm than good to teeth, making the enamel mottled and brown.

There is even a compound fear at large among certain people who think that fluorides from water will combine disastrously in the body with strontium 90 and other fall-out materials from atomic explosions. If these people are right, a compulsory fluoridated population will be more vulnerable in case of atomic war.

CONSIDERATION

Now, it may be that all these fears have no scientific base. I wouldn't know. But if people are afraid in any significant numbers, why shouldn't their fears be entitled to the umost consideration? The argument is frequently made that compulsory fluoridation is like compulsory smallpox vaccination, a medical preventive scheme that should be undertaken for the greater good of the greatest number no matter whom it scares. But the argument does not stand up. If one person transmits smallpox to another, he has fatefully invaded that other person's privacy and endangered the whole community. But a person who gets a couple of dental cavities thru injudicious consumption of candy hurts nobody but himself. Should he be protected against his own foolish sweet tooth at the expense of frightening many good people half out of their wits?

Personally, I have drunk fluoridated water in certain cities without worrying about what it might do to me. We all die of something some time — and anyway, I have an artesian well back home. What annoys me about the compulsory fluoridation crowd is its mania for trying to do good for people against their protests. I believe in a world of live and let live — and why shouldn't such a world let water drinkers alone?

Question Box

QUESTION No. 402: "Exactly what does the Gazette Telegraph mean by initiated force?"

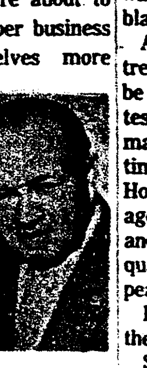
Answer: The Gazette Telegraph means that no one has a right to be first in starting a fight or interfering with other people, voluntarily exchanging goods and services and moving to any place they want to go, or receiving any man on his property that the man thinks will be beneficial to him and his property.

There cannot be two initiators anymore than there can be two firsts. There can only be one first and only one initiator. We will admit that it is sometimes difficult to tell who is the initiator, the aggressor. That is the reason that we have repeatedly said that people shouldn't use the word force without putting an adjective in front of it whether it is physical initiated force or physical defensive force, or threats of same.

Rational or civilized people, if there was disagreement as to who the initiator was, would be willing to leave it to arbitration. It seems to us that we don't have so much difficulty in telling who is initiating the force as individuals, but we seem to think that the state or the government, or subdivision of the government, has a right to initiate force to take from one against his will claiming it to be for the benefit of all. In reality it is mostly the vanity and exalted position of those who are using the initiated force by way of taxation, claiming it is for the general welfare.

What About Men?

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD



Since the ladies are about to get on with the proper business of making themselves more and more attractive and, possibly, more attractively packaged, I believe males will become less regimented. Two different barbers in two different communities told me that more men are demanding what the barbers called "normal" hair cuts. If this trend continues, and I believe it will, the results will cause ladies to want to be even more attractive. The regimented, engineer and service-type hair cuts have done a great deal towards reducing the status of males in the minds of females, and I kid you not.

The skinny look, which makes males look skimpy, as if they're wearing out grown hand-me-downs, will soon be a thing of the past. It was a silly fad to begin with and a good many males just didn't fall for it.

It doesn't make much difference whether you refer to the Ivy look or the Ivy League look, you're talking about a clinging vine and I hope the clinging vine-type male is rapidly becoming outre. Probably a more western look will supplant the decadently eastern appearance and this will lead to more picturesque males, complete with silk vests, deer-skin and chamois vests and brightly colored weskits. These will be worn by male tenors who sing without feminine affectation — the Irish tenor type who can really belt out a song and give a good baritone a hard way to go. Yes, Ma'am, this may really happen. Watch and see.

Trousers will no longer present a precarious position, as if they might slip off the bones. There may even be a few new suspender styles, believe it or not, and these will work out okay with the vests and weskits. More and more men will wear trousers without cuffs and the trousers will reach to instep length, neatly.

Charcoal gray will no longer be a status symbol. Pin stripes will brighten up the gray and black and very dark browns.

Accompanying these fashion trends, I believe there may also be a resurgence of male courtesy, particularly towards females, and this has been a long time coming, believe me. The Hollywood approach of 20 years ago complete with endearments and first names with first acquaintances has almost disappeared.

Fine cotton socks will be on the market and some silk.

Sport jackets will be comfortable, even for a round of golf and that will be a relief, and the growing demand for tweed will continue.

The pork-pie, narrow-brimmed hats will disappear and they will leave more quickly than they arrived, and in the meantime, the sale of hats for men will suffer a decline. More men will do without, maybe because more men will permit a little hair to grow on their heads, if they have any.

As the skinny, hungry look disappears, ladies, you will find more men with well groomed hands and fewer with bitten, dirty and ragged fingernails. I guess the hungry fellers had to eat something.

During the summer of 1964, 1965 at the latest, I expect to see a few white linen suits being worn by well dressed males. The white summer suits will not have the skimpy, skinny look. Men will look comfortable and capable of finding a suit to fit them. There will be an increasing emphasis on individualism and custom tailoring should be a pretty good business within the next year or two, provided good tailors try to maintain reasonable prices.

And so I've come to the end of my daring, two-episode exploration into male and female fashion trends. If these conversations appear to be a little off beat for a columnist who regularly discusses the philosophy of freedom, take another look. In freedom, minds are not limited. One of these days I may even discuss personal privacy and its relationship to the private property concept and after that — who knows?

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

The statements and opinions expressed in this column are those of the contributors and do not necessarily express opinions or convictions held by this newspaper.

Letters will not be published without the name and address of the writer. Letters must be received at least two days before publication.

THE REPUBLIC FORM

To the Editor:

1. The dissertation presented in response to the positive definitions of a republic and a democracy is typical of a philosophy created by many educational institutions in our modern world. The writer, as many students of today, has developed an attitude through omission of truth that is self evident, "yes, but" technique, half-truth and double standards that to seek and select a place to hang your hat requires the formation of a committee. The hat rack for men is the Constitutional republic as formulated and accepted. The strength of this standard is truth, with positive evidence, by the actions and assembled knowledge of men.

2. Truth is established principles or fixed laws based upon basic principles of morality. Morality is the described condition of man's ability to judge right or wrong. Right or wrong is based completely on the 10 Commandments of Conduct. Our Constitution contained these "basic fundamentals" and is the very roots of freedom that are neglected by the narrowness of man's mind.

3. The "cold war" is the result of the battle for the minds of men. One "hat rack" is the established principles of conduct just explained. The other "hat rack" is one that is destroying established principles by confusion in assuming nothing is right or wrong; that right is based on the whims of men reacting only by materialistic emotions. I am extremely proud and pleased to place my hat on the former.

4. The "hat rack" each of us prefer must be completely understood before attempting to explain by words what is best for ourselves as well as those we love.

5. As the freedoms we possessed under our Constitutional republic are definitely diminishing, as water through a sieve, we cannot wait for men to stop the flow by a system never devised in the expectations of perfection. This is the shallowness so obvious in the reasoning against a system proven far superior in protecting our freedoms than what now exists.

6. A republic is not perfection, but is far superior to a democracy. No system is perfect as men are in control and perfection is not possible in the human mind.

7. Limited government is a necessity, primarily due to the imperfection of men. This imperfection has, and will continue to destroy man until he realizes that this imperfection is a minute portion and can be overcome by his own ability and initiative, which is wisdom.

8. Man is an established principle, as well as fact. It is my conviction that men have the ability to ward off the effects of those wishing to destroy established truths. Therefore, I believe in man. His knowledge of the last 40 years has been a one-sided mirror of selfishness on the part of men he placed his confidence with.

9. I am not only disturbed, but angry at the results of misplaced trust. I will continue to support those in authority who will fight for the republic form of government, since it has proven superior. I will continue to condemn men, not politics, since the political situation is the result of man's selfishness, not incompetence.

10. As for the "frail reed" to preserve life, man will always grasp a log that may or may not hold him until a larger one is within reach. A republic will stop the large outflow of freedoms (as set forth by our constitutional authorities), so apparent in democracy. I will continue to seek progress by accepting the wisdom of the past. It is obvious that the scream for peace and freedom is in reality a distinct and obvious attack on all freedoms.

11. Man is in control of his own destiny. Therefore, he can manage his own affairs if given guidance in times of trouble. This should be the role of government; to guide, not control. There are many men in the United States who possess the wisdom, quality and individuality that demand respect and trust. I have placed my trust in the men that can and will, with the support of the people, bring sanity back into government. My life, as well as my "affairs," has been placed in the hands of men - men in their never-ending search for truth, which is the greatest weapon and may never be denied

Allen-Scott Report

Current Insight on Foreign Aid

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — That bruising and embarrassing finale on the heavily-slashed foreign aid budget is causing a big change in inner White House planning on this stormy issue.

In an effort to avoid a repetition of this debacle, President Johnson is undertaking to virtually scuttle the "traditional" type of foreign aid legislation.

For this purpose, he has appointed a high-level inter-departmental group to devise a new plan, and to submit recommendations by January 15. Further, to leave no doubt what he has in mind in this significant backstage move, he has laid down the following guide-lines:

A $2.5 billion ceiling on all forms of economic aid and loans. A similar limitation on military aid is still to be worked out. The combined total of military and economic aid is not to exceed the $3 billion in new funds finally voted by Congress this year.

Both military and economic aid to be "decentralized." Military aid is to be put under the Defense Department; economic aid under the jurisdiction of the State Department. The various foreign loan programs to be turned over to either the Treasury Department or one of the international agencies, such as the Export-Import Bank.

Implicit in this unannounced reorganization program is the elimination, as such, of the Agency for International Development (AID) that administers all foreign aid.

What will happen to its vast bureaucracy (some 40,000 U.S. and 20,000 foreign employes) is conjectural. Presumably, most of them will be dispersed among other government agencies. That's what usually happens in such reshufflings. Labels may disappear or change, but bureaucracy goes on forever.

MORE BUREAUCRATS

Another mission entrusted to this inter-departmental commission is reporting on a far-reaching State Department scheme to establish, in effect, a group of "super diplomats."

As proposed by the State Department, an "executive officer" would be installed in every country with a U.S. aid program. This official would supervise and direct all such activities, including the Peace Corps, and report directly to the assistant secretary of state in charge of his area.

In other words, this "executive officer" would operate over and above the U.S. ambassador in that particular country.

This formula is now being tried out experimentally in Venezuela, where John L. Gawf, a career foreign service officer, is functioning as "executive assistant" in charge of aid projects. Congressional foreign affairs leaders are watching this test closely.

They have strong misgivings about it — despite State Department claims that the "Comprehensive Country Programming System," as it's called, will improve the administering of aid programs.

RELUCTANT MOURNER

President Johnson's attendance at the funeral of Representative William Green was a last-minute second thought — after vigorous prodding by close friends of the late Philadelphia Democratic chief.

As late as the afternoon before the funeral, Johnson's schedule did not call for his being on hand. He had brushed off several pointed suggestions that he go.

One was from Representative John Rooney, D-N.Y., high-ranking member of the powerful Appropriations Committee and long-time friend of Green. Rooney advised the President to attend the funeral the day after Green died — but to no avail.

Over the weekend, other influential Democrats urged this — with no better results.

All were told the President was too busy with pressing affairs, particularly the precarious muddle in the House over the battered foreign aid bill. Despite this claim, the President seemed to be able to find time to take several groups of newswomen and other reporters on personally-conducted tours of the private living quarters of the White House.

The afternoon before the funeral, a Philadelphia correspondent asked press secretary Pierre Salinger if the President contemplated flying to Philadelphia for the service after the House disposed of the foreign aid bill early the following morning.

"No, not that I know of," said Salinger. "Do you think he should?"

"If he doesn't, it will be a colossal political blunder," was the blunt answer.

"For the very good reason that Bill Green carried Pennsylvania for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket," retorted the reporter, emphasizing the Johnson. "Johnson is going to need the Philadelphia Democratic organization very much in 1964 to hold the state — if he can. Also, you seem to be unaware that Green has hundreds of warm friends in Philadelphia, and they already think it very strange the President hasn't done anything about his funeral."

"It was announced he was sending personal emissaries," argued Salinger.

"That's nothing," snapped the newsman. "Bill Green's people aren't going to be satisfied with emissaries. Kennedy would have announced he was attending the funeral as soon as he heard of Green's death. You know that as well as I do. You people better get on the ball."

"You may have a point," agreed Salinger reflectively. "I will let you know later."

Not long after, the White House announced Johnson would be on hand for the funeral.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Our Answer to Mr. Browning—Part I

It will always be true, we suppose, that men who are very close together in their thinking will have a greater problem with the few differences that remain, than would be true were a larger area of difference to exist. As one modern adage has it: "Lord protect me from my friends, I can look after my enemies myself."

The foregoing is occasioned by the latest letter from LeMoyne Browning which appears in today's Open Parliament column. Mr. Browning and ye editor see so many things in the same light that it is truly strange that they are not in complete harmony. But as one can see by reading this item and the letter to which reference is made, Mr. Browning is not only out of sorts with ye editor, he has occasion to lump ye editor with persons who "omit truth," who practice a "yes, but" technique, who have "half-truths and double standards," and so on. We detect a trace of bitterness.

And yet, what Mr. Browning says is not so, and we are sorry that he seems to feel as he does. As we have indicated at the outset, the difficulty between us is very slight. It relates to the difference between what IS and what it would be nice to believe IS.

Let us take his comments paragraph by paragraph which we have numbered for convenience.

2. We agree with the first three sentences of paragraph two. Now, take the fourth sentence. Mr. Browning says that the Constitution is in harmony with the Ten Commandments. The Ten Commandments say that it is wrong to steal, to murder, to covet, to commit adultery and to lie. The Constitution in Article I, Section 8 provides a method wherein the rights of individual men in some of these particulars can be set aside by the Congress of the United States.

How can the Ten Commandments and this particular section of the Constitution be in harmony? We suggest that Mr. Browning read the article to which reference is made and then we can discuss the item itself instead of descending to name-calling and accusations of "half truths," "distortion," and so on.

3. We are not certain that we approve of the "hat rack" idea. But we are entirely happy to go along with Mr. Browning in his assertion that there are such things as principles and that what is right is right and that what is wrong is wrong.

4. Precisely the case.

5. If our freedoms are diminishing under our Constitutional republic "as water thru a sieve," does this mean that Mr. Browning has finally recognized that as a bulwark to preserve freedom the Constitution is a sieve?

We might point out that if what he infers here is true. . . and we would agree. . .then the Constitution is NOT preserving our freedom. It would be nice to say that it ought to.

If the reliance upon the Constitution is trustworthy, then, if we rely on the Constitution, we will NOT lose our freedom.

Most Americans DO rely on the Constitution. Also, as Mr. Browning points out, we ARE losing our freedom. Obviously, then, what IS and what OUGHT TO BE are not the same. Can we stick to reality? We will contend that only reality is safe. Only the truth is real.

6. There is not as much difference between a republic and a democracy as it would be nice to believe. All republics and all democracies thus far have suffered from precisely the same malady: excessive growth of government, excessive reliance of the electorate upon the government.

7. Splendid. If men are imperfect (we certainly agree), how can you permit them to govern other men? Do you wish to be ruled by the imperfections of others? Limited government is nothing more nor less than self-government.

Skidmarks

The downfall of many a civilization begins when the people no longer "let George do it" but instead have decided to "let the government do it."

Our Answer—Part II

Let us have limited government in the sense of self-government. Let us not rely on the imperfections of men, who, when granted power, are not inclined to limit themselves in the use of that power.

8. We, too, believe in man. That is why we do not believe in placing confidence in instruments of power. We don't understand what Mr. Browning means by equating man with "established principle." If he means that man is a natural creature and must obey nature's established principles, we are in accord. If he believes that man is, himself, a principle, which is what he seems to say, we must confess that we either don't understand or we are out of accord.

9. Mr. Browning is angry. We hope he will get over his anger. His anger arises from what must be an enormous frustration.

Here, for years, he has gone on supporting those who say they support the republican form of government. Then he finds these men who give their support to this form of government, using the government to accomplish aims and objectives which Mr. Browning disapproves.

But it is done according to the Constitution. Article I, Section 8 gives unlimited taxing power to the Congress. Does Mr. Browning object because taxes are too high? We cannot say, for he hasn't told us here. But whether he objects or not, we certainly do. Article I, Section 8 gives Congress an UNLIMITED power to tax. So, IF Mr. Browning objects to our high taxes, he is objecting to high taxes provided in a Constitutional manner.

But, it might be said, it wasn't until the income tax amendment was passed that our taxes really went into the stratosphere. True enough. But the income tax amendment was passed in full accord with the Constitutional method provided. There is nothing unconstitutional about the first ten amendments called the Bill of Rights.

Actually, the wording of Article I, Section 8 is in full harmony with the wording of the 16th (income tax) Amendment. Neither phrasing provides for any limit on the taxing powers of the Congress.

Now, if Mr. Browning is angry at men in office who have raised and continued to raise taxes, yet at the same time he is angry because these men do not support the republican form of government, Mr. Browning is a man who is short-circuiting his own reasoning processes. The republican form of government does not limit taxation. Our Constitution does not limit taxation. The men who have been chosen by Constitutional means to represent the people of this country have not limited taxation. Thus, all are in harmony.

The truth is, the republican form of government, the Constitution and the politicians in office are in harmony. Mr. Browning is out of harmony with them, but he believes himself to be in harmony with everything except the politicians. No wonder he is angry.

As for us, we are out of harmony with the idea that some men, of right, can appropriate the earnings of others. We do not favor this idea however it is worded, whatever it is called or whoever it is that tries to do it.

So, we aren't angry. We are not frustrated. We understand the nature of government and we don't expect it to behave in any way except the way it must behave because of its intrinsic nature.

10. Here is Mr. Browning at his least comprehensible. We have a republic. A republic will stop the large outflow of freedom. Our republic is not doing it. We are for freedom. But it is obvious that the scream for peace and freedom is an attack on all freedoms. We confess not to understand this.

11. If man is in control of his own destiny (to which we concur), then each man has his own destiny about which to concern himself. Some men are not in charge of the destiny of all men. To presume this is to presume that there are special persons who are endowed with such great powers that they can behave in a super-human way. And these men, apparently, Mr. Browning not only believes exist, he believes that in some miraculous way they get into government, thru the democratic process.

Yet he despises democracy.

He is happy, he indicates, to place his future in the hands of these men. We part company with him here. We prefer to manage our own affairs.

The men in government have not demonstrated any particular magical powers to manage their own affairs with unqualified success. Mr. Browning may accept their guidance and management if he chooses. We wouldn't interfere with his doing this in any way. But we would like to get him to spare us the consequences. Would he be kind enough to let us manage our own affairs without the management of his governmental experts?

If so, we shall yet come to agreement.

These Days

To Live Without Fear

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Certain subjects, as every columnist and editorial writer soon discovers, will provoke more mail than others. I had thought that educational topics could be counted on to stir a maximum number of people to letter writing. But now, having written a column on fluoridation, I discover that it is tops as a letter-provoker.

My own objection to compulsory fluoridation of municipal water systems is philosophical. I am not enough of a scientist to know whether fluorides in the water will harden the teeth of children against dental caries without having bad side effects on older people who may have diabetes or brittle bones. But, by-passing the scientific argument, which I am not competent to settle, I believe that people have the right to make their own medical decision in cases where the spread of contagious diseases is not involved.

So I wrote a column against compulsory political mass medication via the public water supply. And the mail started to come in. Mail commending me for a brave column. Mail nevertheless wondering why I hadn't listened to those who insist that putting fluorides in water is worse than diluting it with deadly rat poison.

The impressive thing about the mail is not the number of enclosed pamphlets that seek to make a scientific case against fluorides. It is the amount of fear that is involved — so many who are afraid of putting the power of mass medication in the hands of politicians.

OTHER WAYS

The point suggested by this is best expressed in a question: Has a majority of a city council, or even a majority of the voters, in any particular place the right to scare a minority of the people half to death? Particularly when the alleged good to be obtained by small children from fluoride medication could be handled on a voluntary basis at small cost? There are companies which make cheap fluoridation kits, and these could be given away to parents thru school systems if a city should choose to do it.

The fear of fluoridation, to judge from the mail, is even more intense than the fear of atomic fall-out. People are afraid that diabetics, who drink more water than most people, would be specially affected. They are afraid that sodium fluoride, even when it is taken in infinitesimal amounts, will build up in the human system over a long period of time, eventually causing heart disease, mental troubles, and malfunctioning of the pancreas, liver, and kidneys. They are afraid it increases the danger of arthritis and makes bones more brittle. They are afraid it actually does more harm than good to teeth, making the enamel mottled and brown.

There is even a compound fear at large among certain people who think that fluorides from water will combine disastrously in the body with strontium 90 and other fall-out materials from atomic explosions. If these people are right, a compulsory fluoridated population will be more vulnerable in case of atomic war.

CONSIDERATION

Now, it may be that all these fears have no scientific base. I wouldn't know. But if people are afraid in any significant numbers, why shouldn't their fears be entitled to the umost consideration? The argument is frequently made that compulsory fluoridation is like compulsory smallpox vaccination, a medical preventive scheme that should be undertaken for the greater good of the greatest number no matter whom it scares. But the argument does not stand up. If one person transmits smallpox to another, he has fatefully invaded that other person's privacy and endangered the whole community. But a person who gets a couple of dental cavities thru injudicious consumption of candy hurts nobody but himself. Should he be protected against his own foolish sweet tooth at the expense of frightening many good people half out of their wits?

Personally, I have drunk fluoridated water in certain cities without worrying about what it might do to me. We all die of something some time — and anyway, I have an artesian well back home. What annoys me about the compulsory fluoridation crowd is its mania for trying to do good for people against their protests. I believe in a world of live and let live — and why shouldn't such a world let water drinkers alone?

Question Box

QUESTION No. 402: "Exactly what does the Gazette Telegraph mean by initiated force?"

Answer: The Gazette Telegraph means that no one has a right to be first in starting a fight or interfering with other people, voluntarily exchanging goods and services and moving to any place they want to go, or receiving any man on his property that the man thinks will be beneficial to him and his property.

There cannot be two initiators anymore than there can be two firsts. There can only be one first and only one initiator. We will admit that it is sometimes difficult to tell who is the initiator, the aggressor. That is the reason that we have repeatedly said that people shouldn't use the word force without putting an adjective in front of it whether it is physical initiated force or physical defensive force, or threats of same.

Rational or civilized people, if there was disagreement as to who the initiator was, would be willing to leave it to arbitration. It seems to us that we don't have so much difficulty in telling who is initiating the force as individuals, but we seem to think that the state or the government, or subdivision of the government, has a right to initiate force to take from one against his will claiming it to be for the benefit of all. In reality it is mostly the vanity and exalted position of those who are using the initiated force by way of taxation, claiming it is for the general welfare.

What About Men?

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Since the ladies are about to get on with the proper business of making themselves more and more attractive and, possibly, more attractively packaged, I believe males will become less regimented. Two different barbers in two different communities told me that more men are demanding what the barbers called "normal" hair cuts. If this trend continues, and I believe it will, the results will cause ladies to want to be even more attractive. The regimented, engineer and service-type hair cuts have done a great deal towards reducing the status of males in the minds of females, and I kid you not.

The skinny look, which makes males look skimpy, as if they're wearing out grown hand-me-downs, will soon be a thing of the past. It was a silly fad to begin with and a good many males just didn't fall for it.

It doesn't make much difference whether you refer to the Ivy look or the Ivy League look, you're talking about a clinging vine and I hope the clinging vine-type male is rapidly becoming outre. Probably a more western look will supplant the decadently eastern appearance and this will lead to more picturesque males, complete with silk vests, deer-skin and chamois vests and brightly colored weskits. These will be worn by male tenors who sing without feminine affectation — the Irish tenor type who can really belt out a song and give a good baritone a hard way to go. Yes, Ma'am, this may really happen. Watch and see.

Trousers will no longer present a precarious position, as if they might slip off the bones. There may even be a few new suspender styles, believe it or not, and these will work out okay with the vests and weskits. More and more men will wear trousers without cuffs and the trousers will reach to instep length, neatly.

Charcoal gray will no longer be a status symbol. Pin stripes will brighten up the gray and black and very dark browns.

Accompanying these fashion trends, I believe there may also be a resurgence of male courtesy, particularly towards females, and this has been a long time coming, believe me. The Hollywood approach of 20 years ago complete with endearments and first names with first acquaintances has almost disappeared.

Fine cotton socks will be on the market and some silk.

Sport jackets will be comfortable, even for a round of golf and that will be a relief, and the growing demand for tweed will continue.

The pork-pie, narrow-brimmed hats will disappear and they will leave more quickly than they arrived, and in the meantime, the sale of hats for men will suffer a decline. More men will do without, maybe because more men will permit a little hair to grow on their heads, if they have any.

As the skinny, hungry look disappears, ladies, you will find more men with well groomed hands and fewer with bitten, dirty and ragged fingernails. I guess the hungry fellers had to eat something.

During the summer of 1964, 1965 at the latest, I expect to see a few white linen suits being worn by well dressed males. The white summer suits will not have the skimpy, skinny look. Men will look comfortable and capable of finding a suit to fit them. There will be an increasing emphasis on individualism and custom tailoring should be a pretty good business within the next year or two, provided good tailors try to maintain reasonable prices.

And so I've come to the end of my daring, two-episode exploration into male and female fashion trends. If these conversations appear to be a little off beat for a columnist who regularly discusses the philosophy of freedom, take another look. In freedom, minds are not limited. One of these days I may even discuss personal privacy and its relationship to the private property concept and after that — who knows?

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

The statements and opinions expressed in this column are those of the contributors and do not necessarily express opinions or convictions held by this newspaper.

Letters will not be published without the name and address of the writer. Letters must be received at least two days before publication.

THE REPUBLIC FORM

To the Editor:

1. The dissertation presented in response to the positive definitions of a republic and a democracy is typical of a philosophy created by many educational institutions in our modern world. The writer, as many students of today, has developed an attitude through omission of truth that is self evident, "yes, but" technique, half-truth and double standards that to seek and select a place to hang your hat requires the formation of a committee. The hat rack for men is the Constitutional republic as formulated and accepted. The strength of this standard is truth, with positive evidence, by the actions and assembled knowledge of men.

2. Truth is established principles or fixed laws based upon basic principles of morality. Morality is the described condition of man's ability to judge right or wrong. Right or wrong is based completely on the 10 Commandments of Conduct. Our Constitution contained these "basic fundamentals" and is the very roots of freedom that are neglected by the narrowness of man's mind.

3. The "cold war" is the result of the battle for the minds of men. One "hat rack" is the established principles of conduct just explained. The other "hat rack" is one that is destroying established principles by confusion in assuming nothing is right or wrong; that right is based on the whims of men reacting only by materialistic emotions. I am extremely proud and pleased to place my hat on the former.

4. The "hat rack" each of us prefer must be completely understood before attempting to explain by words what is best for ourselves as well as those we love.

5. As the freedoms we possessed under our Constitutional republic are definitely diminishing, as water through a sieve, we cannot wait for men to stop the flow by a system never devised in the expectations of perfection. This is the shallowness so obvious in the reasoning against a system proven far superior in protecting our freedoms than what now exists.

6. A republic is not perfection, but is far superior to a democracy. No system is perfect as men are in control and perfection is not possible in the human mind.

7. Limited government is a necessity, primarily due to the imperfection of men. This imperfection has, and will continue to destroy man until he realizes that this imperfection is a minute portion and can be overcome by his own ability and initiative, which is wisdom.

8. Man is an established principle, as well as fact. It is my conviction that men have the ability to ward off the effects of those wishing to destroy established truths. Therefore, I believe in man. His knowledge of the last 40 years has been a one-sided mirror of selfishness on the part of men he placed his confidence with.

9. I am not only disturbed, but angry at the results of misplaced trust. I will continue to support those in authority who will fight for the republic form of government, since it has proven superior. I will continue to condemn men, not politics, since the political situation is the result of man's selfishness, not incompetence.

10. As for the "frail reed" to preserve life, man will always grasp a log that may or may not hold him until a larger one is within reach. A republic will stop the large outflow of freedoms (as set forth by our constitutional authorities), so apparent in democracy. I will continue to seek progress by accepting the wisdom of the past. It is obvious that the scream for peace and freedom is in reality a distinct and obvious attack on all freedoms.

11. Man is in control of his own destiny. Therefore, he can manage his own affairs if given guidance in times of trouble. This should be the role of government; to guide, not control. There are many men in the United States who possess the wisdom, quality and individuality that demand respect and trust. I have placed my trust in the men that can and will, with the support of the people, bring sanity back into government. My life, as well as my "affairs," has been placed in the hands of men - men in their never-ending search for truth, which is the greatest weapon and may never be denied

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — That bruising and embarrassing finale on the heavily-slashed foreign aid budget is causing a big change in inner White House planning on this stormy issue.

In an effort to avoid a repetition of this debacle, President Johnson is undertaking to virtually scuttle the "traditional" type of foreign aid legislation.

For this purpose, he has appointed a high-level inter-departmental group to devise a new plan, and to submit recommendations by January 15. Further, to leave no doubt what he has in mind in this significant backstage move, he has laid down the following guide-lines:

A $2.5 billion ceiling on all forms of economic aid and loans. A similar limitation on military aid is still to be worked out. The combined total of military and economic aid is not to exceed the $3 billion in new funds finally voted by Congress this year.

Both military and economic aid to be "decentralized." Military aid is to be put under the Defense Department; economic aid under the jurisdiction of the State Department. The various foreign loan programs to be turned over to either the Treasury Department or one of the international agencies, such as the Export-Import Bank.

Implicit in this unannounced reorganization program is the elimination, as such, of the Agency for International Development (AID) that administers all foreign aid.

What will happen to its vast bureaucracy (some 40,000 U.S. and 20,000 foreign employes) is conjectural. Presumably, most of them will be dispersed among other government agencies. That's what usually happens in such reshufflings. Labels may disappear or change, but bureaucracy goes on forever.

MORE BUREAUCRATS

Another mission entrusted to this inter-departmental commission is reporting on a far-reaching State Department scheme to establish, in effect, a group of "super diplomats."

As proposed by the State Department, an "executive officer" would be installed in every country with a U.S. aid program. This official would supervise and direct all such activities, including the Peace Corps, and report directly to the assistant secretary of state in charge of his area.

In other words, this "executive officer" would operate over and above the U.S. ambassador in that particular country.

This formula is now being tried out experimentally in Venezuela, where John L. Gawf, career foreign service officer, is functioning as "executive assistant" in charge of aid projects. Congressional foreign affairs leaders are watching this test closely.

They have strong misgivings about it — despite State Department claims that the "Comprehensive Country Programming System," as it's called, will improve the administering of aid programs.

RELUCTANT MOURNER

President Johnson's attendance at the funeral of Representative William Green was a last-minute second thought — after vigorous prodding by close friends of the late Philadelphia Democratic chief.

As late as the afternoon before the funeral, Johnson's schedule did not call for his being on hand. He had brushed off several pointed suggestions that he go.

One was from Representative John Rooney, D-N.Y., high-ranking member of the powerful Appropriations Committee and long-time friend of Green. Rooney advised the President to attend the funeral the day after Green died — but to no avail.

Over the weekend, other influential Democrats urged this — with no better results.

All were told the President was too busy with pressing affairs, particularly the precarious muddle in the House over the battered foreign aid bill. Despite this claim, the President seemed to be able to find time to take several groups of newswomen and other reporters on personally-conducted tours of the private living quarters of the White House.

The afternoon before the funeral, a Philadelphia correspondent asked press secretary Pierre Salinger if the President contemplated flying to Philadelphia for the service after the House disposed of the foreign aid bill early the following morning.

"No, not that I know of," said Salinger. "Do you think he should?"

"If he doesn't, it will be a colossal political blunder," was the blunt answer.

"For the very good reason that Bill Green carried Pennsylvania for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket," retorted the reporter, emphasizing the Johnson. "Johnson is going to need the Philadelphia Democratic organization very much in 1964 to hold the state — if he can. Also, you seem to be unaware that Green has hundreds of warm friends in Philadelphia, and they already think it very strange the President hasn't done anything about his funeral."

"It was announced he was sending personal emissaries," argued Salinger.

"That's nothing," snapped the newsman. "Bill Green's people aren't going to be satisfied with emissaries. Kennedy would have announced he was attending the funeral as soon as he heard of Green's death. You know that as well as I do. You people better get on the ball."

"You may have a point," agreed Salinger reflectively. "I will let you know later."

Not long after, the White House announced Johnson would be on hand for the funeral.

TAX REDUCTION

To the Editor:

It seems to be customary for politicians to make campaign promises of tax reduction, reduction of spending, curtailment of bureaucracy, etc. Then they are elected on a platform of economy. Do we get it? No, my friend, we do not! Almost before the candidate-elect can say "I do" to his oath of office, he is planning new and devious ways of extracting more money from the pockets of his unsuspecting tax-burdened constituents. The politician "needs" a new sales tax, another bureau, more foreign aid, more aid to education, a fund for the tsetse fly, another pork-barrel, and so on, ad infinitum. Usually he thinks that economic problems can be solved by political action or by edicts. That rare politician who is sincere in carrying out his campaign promises of economy is too often driven into political oblivion. Why?

Here in Colorado some politicians are promoting an increase in the sales tax, with a promise in extremely large print that property taxes would thus be reduced. Don't let them kid you! Read the fine print. A new tax or an increase in the existing taxes will not decrease property taxes. Look at the evidence. We have been hit with many new taxes in the past three decades, but property taxes continue to rise. And it is next to impossible to repeal any tax once it becomes a statute. Once a tax, it shall remain a tax, and its course shall be upward.

Perhaps it would be fair and just if government grew in direct proportion to population growth, but when government grows several times faster than population, which is true in our society, then there is something "putrid in Peru" or "rotten in Denmark," to use a couple of old cliches. Why should government grow faster than population? Since there is no sound economic reason for such a condition, the obvious reason must be political: the politician "needs" so many things that the taxpayer doesn't need. And the politician has succeeded in selling the idea to the taxpayer that he, the taxpayer, "needs" the things he doesn't need. The result is that the American economy is saddled with an absurd tax structure that is slowly but surely strangling our economic growth, but is encouraging foreign economic growth and competition, which, incidentally, you and I are subsidizing.

We need more politicians (if politicians are needed at all) who understand the difference between "need" and "want." We need more politicians who understand the basic principles of economics. We need more politicians who can say we need a tax reduction, a reduction in governmental spending, a reduction in governmental waste, etc., and have the intestinal fortitude to carry out their avowed convictions. President Johnson and Governor Love have exhibited some of these desirable qualities and have taken some steps to reduce government. It is hoped that they and others may wield sufficient influence and power to get all levels of government back onto a safe and sane road to economic security. Let's hope that men of this calibre are not forced by pressure groups to accede to socialistic demands, or as an alternative, to political oblivion.

SKY OBSERVATIONS

To the Editor:

A few days ago I read in your paper that the Christmas satellite had not been observed. I feel sure this must have been in error; however, in case the information is correct, and in the public interest, I wish to inform you that I am observing this satellite with regularity.

My ranch is located on Badger Flats, at the intersection of the Upper Tarryall Road and LaSalle Pass Road, which is a little northeast of Badger Mountain and due east of Highway 24. I have seen this satellite on four occasions from my windows which face west. It appears in various locations ranging from Wilkerson Pass to LaSalle Pass.

Last night (Christmas) I took the occasion to observe it more fully. I first sighted it at 5:10 p.m. (I might have seen it earlier had I been looking in the right place.) It was too high in the sky to have been any installed Christmas lighting, and it was well before dark so that no stars had appeared in the sky. It is also much too near, too large, and too brilliant to confuse with stars. I kept it in sight until it set behind a tall mountain in the region of Wilkerson Pass, which was at 5:42 p.m. It was a natural yellowish light and was in the form of a five-pointed star. On previous occasions it has been more fiery red, has shown multi-colored rays, and on my first sighting it looked much like a cross.

Trusting this information will be of some value.

New U. S. Ambassador Seen for Argentina

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson plans to nominate Edwin M. Martin, a veteran Foreign Service officer, as ambassador to Argentina.

Martin, 55, a native of Dayton, Ohio, will succeed Robert McClintock, who, in turn, "is expected to be appointed to another important post in the near future," a White House announcement said Wednesday.

Martin had been assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs during the Kennedy administration. After Johnson became president he named Thomas C. Mann, then ambassador to Mexico, to succeed Martin.

Martin entered government service in 1935. He joined the State Department at the end of World War II.

Church-Related Bistro Opened In Seattle, Wash.

By DALE NELSON

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — "Where," asked the young doctor, "can I ask an honest question about Christianity in this church?"

The question started the Rev. William H. Creevey thinking. Where indeed?

It's Le Rapport, a candle-lighted coffee house featuring discussions ranging from political philosophy to the latest sexy Italian movie.

The Rev. Mr. Creevey, 32, and other young adults of Woodland Park Presbyterian Church first started holding weekly discussion meetings at their homes.

One night last June, Bill Creevey, as he is known, brought up the church-related bistro idea. His plan at first was to establish a center primarily for discussion of current motion pictures.

"Our feeling was that the questions raised by contemporary films and other art forms are the questions the church is concerned with," he recalls.

The next day, the Rev. Mr. Creevey learned that the coffee house next door to the Ridgemont theater was for rent. The Ridgemont, eight blocks from the church, specializes in foreign films. The coffee house had been operated as a cabaret and dance-hall.

Bill Creevey and his friends got approval from the governing board of the church and, on Sept. 17, the coffee house reopened with discussion taking the place of dancing.

Le Rapport is designed to be non-profit, and has been. In the first three months it went $500 in the red. The backers, reluctant to impose a cover charge, started soliciting $10 contributions. They pay two employes, a cook and a waiter, and the rent is $110 a month. The establishment is open five nights a week with discussions on weekend nights. Starting in January, film society meetings were scheduled Tuesday through Thursday evenings.

Crowds average about 50 or 60, amost all non-members of the Woodland Park Church — or perhaps of any church. At least one person has shown up at Woodland Park Presbyterian, however, as a result of coming to Le Rapport.

Subject matter was quickly expanded. On a recent weekend, there were scenes from a play about Joan of Arc, "The Lark"; a discussion of "Boccacio '70," a racy Italian film playing next door, and a session on liberalism and conservatism.

On the latter evening, Dr. Giovanni Costigan of the University of Washington History Department gave a 20-minute talk. Then people started asking questions and making observations. It was midnight when the discussion broke up.

The Rev. Mr. Creevey, who like many of the predominantly young crowd wore an open-necked shirt and sweater, told Costigan as he left:

"You know, this place isn't supposed to be profitable, but after an evening like this, I think it is."

SMOKING AND WILL POWER

It is not always easy to stop smoking. There is no known drug or combination of drugs that can cure or overcome the tobacco habit, or permanently eliminate the desire for tobacco. It takes simple determination, backed by will power. Motivation helps considerably.

Some heavy smokers decide to quit and do so. It is easy for them. Others find it more difficult. They cut down, switch to cigars or a pipe, or stop buying cigarets. But despite these shenanigans, the habit persists.

The individual becomes irritable when he tries to break the habit and yearns for something to hold in the hands or mouth. The role of the fingers and hands in the routine of smoking is well known especially when driving the car, playing cards, or at work. The reflex to reach for or hold a cigaret must be untrained, just as the individual must untrain himself from well-established mannerisms such as scratching the head or tweaking the nose. Smoking also provides oral satisfaction which is missed during those first days of abstinence. This is why so many switch to gum, mints, or lozenges.

Many preparations have been introduced as deterrents to smoking. These crutches help some forego the tobacco habit, especially individuals amenable to suggestion. Lobeline sulfate is one of these. It was used years ago like tobacco by American Indians. In this regard the drug has a nicotine-like effect on the body, but too much upsets the stomach. One of these products (Bantron) contains an antacid to minimize this side effect. Of the subjects who wanted to quit, 4 out of 5 were able to do so within a week.

Tobacco withdrawal clinics are popular in Europe. Trained personnel counsel men and women along these lines. The bad effects of nicotine on the body are explained and helpful suggestions are made to bolster determination. A religious group in this country reported on a 5-day plan that includes diet, exercise, prayer, and will power. The individual is instructed to consume mainly prunes, fruit juices, cereals, milk, vegetables, and nuts during this time.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TUMOR IN PANCREAS

H. L. writes: Can a tumor of the pancreas be removed successfully?

Reply

Yes, but we speak in generalities because some of these tumors cannot be removed completely. This is true of those that have extended into adjacent vital organs and are dangerous to remove.

PAP TEST USES

A. S. writes: Is the Pap test used to detect cancer in any other organ besides the cervix and uterus?

Reply

Yes—to detect cancer of the lung, prostate, mouth, and stomach. Any secretions that can be obtained from the outside can be tested in this way.

PLEASURE FROM CRUELTY

M. S. P. writes: What makes a sadistic person that way?

Reply

This is a form of sexual perversion in a person who is emotionally ill. He finds pleasure in inflicting severe pain upon his victims.

IRRITATED PHARYNX

Y. E. writes: Will chronic pharyngitis turn to cancer?

Reply

Scout Executive Praises AdAmAn Club

Ray M. Ryerson, scout executive of the Pikes Peak Council, issued a statement praising the efforts of the AdAmAn Club to motivate all youth to keep physically fit.

"It has been my pleasure to personally associate with most of the AdAmAn Club members thru the years. The example of these members has meant a great deal to the young people of the region and the nation.

"The Boy Scouts of America nationally have recognized the efforts of this organization thru its many periodicals and displays of pictures and stories at regional and national scout meetings.

"With the constant changing of activities of young people toward less vigorous physical activity, the AdAmAn Club has provided emphasis toward high adventure camping. Our scouts have been highly stimulated to participate in mountain climbing and physical fitness because of the unique physical fitness example which is so evident in the clubs activities.

"We in scouting have greatly appreciated the fine cooperation rendered by many club members in providing training in mountain climbing and physical fitness.

"It has been one of the finest possible incentives to our Explorer Scouts for one of their number to be selected to participate as a guest on the New Years Eve club each year.

"The scouting program is based on the fact that young men have no time to become involved in delinquency problems when they are involved in the Explorer program, which maintains the same traditions and ideals as does the AdAmAn Club.

"We are proud to be a part of a community which exhibits as much interest in their young people as does the Pikes Peak Region. The AdAmAm Club has tremendous influence for good in many ways. I sincerely hope this organization will continue for many years to come," Ryerson stated.

Flying Christies Schedule Skiing Outing Saturday

The Flying Christies Ski Club will take a group of junior high school students to Breckenridge Saturday for a skiing expedition under sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Cost of the trip is $8. Half of the amount will be for all day tow tickets and the other half will be used for transportation costs.

Jaycee officials said buses would leave from the Trailway Bus Depot at 6:30 a.m. Saturday and would return about 7:30 p.m.

Each skier must have his or her parents permission to make the trip. Printed permission forms may be picked up at the Jaycee office where reservations must be made before noon Friday.

Each skier must furnish or rent his own equipment. Complete information may be obtained by contacting the Jaycee office.

Thieves Hit Southgate Laundromat

Thieves burglarized the Southgate Laundromat Wednesday and again this morning, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry, early Wednesday morning two coin machines on the dryers were forced and $30 in change taken.

This morning three other machines were forced and attempts made to open two more. The amount of money taken is still unknown.

Mrs. Edythe Claybaugh Services Set Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Edythe E. Claybaugh, who died Tuesday at her home, 116 S. 13th St., will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at The Law Mortuary.

The Rev. Warren M. Hile will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mrs. Claybaugh was a member of First Christian Church.

She was born Oct. 10, 1885, in Indiana. She came to Colorado Springs in 1917 from Galesburg, Ill.

Mrs. Claybaugh is survived by her husband, Ross Claybaugh and her brother, J. N. Metzler of Waukegan, Ill.

Academy Band Awarded Unique Honor

The critical audience of more than 5,000 directors of high school, college, university, military and professional bands gave the Academy musicians a standing ovation following their program.

Included in the clinic concert were newly published works for band conducted by band commander-conductor Capt. Arnald Gabriel and associate conductor, Capt. Franklin J. Lockwood.

The band also received a plaque for "an inspiring contribution to music education."

Capt. Gabriel was personally awarded the band clinic's Gold Medal of Honor. He is the second military band leader in the 17-year history of the clinic to receive the coveted medal.

Presentation of the award was made by Howard R. Lyons, clinic sponsor, and Paul Yoder, prominent composer, arranger, and lecturer, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Region Gets $50 Million From Carson Payroll

Nearly $50 million in direct expenditures for payrolls and purchases in the Pikes Peak Region were made from Ft. Carson in 1963. There was an increase in all areas except civilian payroll, reflecting the first full year of operation for the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized).

Military payroll of $37 million was the biggest figure in these statistics with troop strength at 15,500 as the year ended. This was an increase of $6 million and of 1,500 troops compared with the previous year.

Civilian payroll dropped $800,000 to $7,115,000 for 1,400 Civil Service workers compared with 1,500 in 1962.

Approximately $2 million in Pikes Peak Region and Colorado purchases were made thru the Ft. Carson purchasing and contracting office in 1963. The exact increase from 1962 was not available.

The Ft. Carson Exchange reported the greatest expenditure of non-appropriated funds in 1963 — $2,500,000 — approximately $2 million in Colorado purchases, the remainder in payroll. This was half a million dollars more in purchases than in 1962.

Other non-appropriated agencies at Ft. Carson with large expenditures were the Ft. Carson Officers Club, $506,000; the Noncommissioned Officers Club, $388,791; and central post fund, $331,000. Purchases in the local area accounted for two-thirds or more of these disbursements, the remainder was payroll.

Jen-Mar Construction Co., contractor [illegible] expansion of Butts Army Air Field at Ft. Carson, reported an average weekly payroll of $9,500 for the last half of 1963 or approximately half a million dollars.

Since an estimated 80 per cent of Ft. Carson's military families live off-post — from Pueblo and Canon City to Palmer Lake — Ft. Carson's total impact considering all related expenditures is estimated at $86.5 million.

Home Lighting Contest Winners Named in Florence

In class No. 1, residential, Mrs. Vivian Jansen, 403 East Fourth St., was judged first. She will receive $15 in cash. The William Campbell home, 514 East Fourth St., received a $15 gift certificate from the Southern Colorado Power company for second place; Frank Witty, 120 N. Pikes Peak St. will receive a $10 gift certificate from the power company for third place, and Ray Barr, 622 East Main St., received a $5 gift certificate for fourth place in this class.

In the Class No. 2, commercial division, the Florence Lumber company placed first and will receive $15 in cash. Second place was awarded to Nu-Way Cleaners, a $10 cash prize, while honorable mention was awarded to Wilcox Grocery.

In Class No. 3, institutional, the First Baptist church received $15 in cash for first prize, and the Fremont Elementary school received a $10 second place award. Honorable mention was awarded to the Assembly of God church.

The first area block award was won by the decorated homes in the 400 and 500 blocks on East Fourth St. Certificates will be presented to Mrs. Vivian Jansen, Mr and Mrs. Gale Decker, Mr and Mrs. Jack Martin, Mr and Mrs. Gene Senatore, Mr and Mrs. Louis Means, Joe Hoza, Mr and Mrs. M. M. Decker, Dr. and Mrs. John Buglewicz, Mr. and Mrs. Merton Butler, Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cavanaugh, and Mr. and Mrs Howard Gore.

In addition, a special sign will be posted in this area by the Florence Lions club noting that these homeowners cooperated with and contributed to the betterment of the community and its Yule lighting program.

Judges for the contest were selected from Pueblo, Canon City, and Florence.

The contest was judged Friday night, and was based on a point system as follows:

Total of 30 points for artistic merit — design, arrangement, color scheme. Total of 20 points —originality, new lighting ideas and effects, use of wreaths, candles, luminous plaques, cutouts and Christmas lamps. Total of 30 points — lighting technique, use of flood and spot lamps. Total of 20 points ingenuity in using structure of home and surrounding buildings.

Pranksters Lock Three Boys in Railroad Car

Three boys who were locked in a railroad freight car for a prank by some others could have been frozen to death or transported all the way to Limon had they not been released in time, the sheriff's office said this morning.

According to Deputy Sheriff Franklin Ripley, he received a telephone call from R. W. Clark, station agent for the Rio Grande Railroad.

He told Ripley that a freight car was unloaded behind the Rocky Mountain Metal Co., 5200 N. Century Ave. Tuesday night.

The crew heard a noise from one of the cars and upon investigation found the three youngsters. The boys who were between the ages of 13 and 16, told the crew they were walking home from a movie and were picked up by some "college kids" in a car, driven to the freight car and locked in.

16,000 Car Plate Forms Mailed in Fremont County

A total of 16,000 applications for license plates were mailed Friday by Mary McDonough, Fremont county clerk, it was announced this week.

County motorists may mail in their checks for the 1964 license plates during the month of January, but no counter sales will be made at the courthouse until Feb. 3, the county clerk noted.

Deadline for plate sales will be Feb. 28. All vehicles must be licensed by March 1.

An increase of $1.50 per plate has been noted this year following legislative action last year. The additional revenue from the sale of license plates will be set aside for highway use, it was explained.

It was further noted, however, that the tax base for the plates will remain the same.

The county clerk declared that fleet owners may come in at once with their applications and thus avoid the 35 cents handling charge.

During the year 1963 a total of 8,132 passenger plates were sold by the county. Other figures were 2,368 truck plates, 906 farm trucks, 688 trailers, 407 mobile homes, and 231 motorcycles.

A recap of the 1962 plate sales shows that 1963 sales were increased in each category with the exception of mobile homes, which had a drop of 127.

Figures of 1962 were as follows: passenger plates, 7,784; truck, 2,240; farm truck, 860; trailers, 644; mobile homes, 530; and motorcycles, 196.

WASHINGTON (Special to Gazette Telegraph) — Congressional approval of the pending tax reduction bill would mean an approximate 3 per cent savings in federal income tax for 1964. Much of this anticipated "savings would be returned to the government, say Pentagon finance sources, by the increase in the social security tax.

The Pentagon is hopeful that the 1964 session of Congress, or at least the 89th Congress, will revise and clarify the several laws relating to "conflict of interest" as such laws concern retired regular officers. Pentagon planners term the measure the "companion" to the pending revision of the dual compensation law and the dual office laws.

Pentagon personnel planners and legal officers describe retired regular officers as "citizens of a limited classification." By this, it is explained, the retired regular in post retirement civilian employment has many laws limiting his employment. He is also "under military control" with respect to his personal life. An example of the latter point is if a retired regular officer fails to handle his personal obligations he may have to answer to his service.

Pentagan budget planners do not see any cutout of funds from the 1965 budget for new school construction overseas. Charges have been leveled against Defense officials by prominent civilian educators that some of our overseas school buildings are very inadequate. New construction would be as replacements in general but only in countries where we expect to retain military dependents for several years to come.

The question of whether members of the Armed Forces should have their present "gratuity" type of retired pay changed over to a contributory type is again being aired.

The Naval Institute Proceedings has an interesting feature on this. Informed Pentagon "JAG" sources say that the contributory or annuity system would remove any question as to the legal right of continuous retired pay under the legal conditions that existed at the time of retirement. This is explained as meaning that Congress could not take any benefit away that existed at the time of retirement as was done in 1958 when Congress eliminated recomputation of retired pay. This right existed at the time of all pre-1958 retirements under the 1926 pay act.

The annual report of the General Accounting Office claims that the Armed Forces pays out $15 million dollars a year in re-enlistment bonuses to men who should not be allowed to reenlist because of their records of continued misconduct and job efficiency. One of the new measures expected to have early consideration by Congress, proposed by the Pentagon as corrective to the problem, would replace the re-enlistment bonus with a career incentive pay program.

Rear Adm. William C. Mott, Navy's "JAG," will become the executive vice president of the U.S. Independent Telephone Association April 1. A 1933 graduate of the Naval Academy he subsequently resigned but returned to active duty with the outbreak of war. He has been one of the leaders in the effort to create a separate JAG corps for the Navy, with staff promotions all of the way up to flag grade, patterned along the lines of the Army and Air Force.

The President has signed the bill to reimburse members of the Armed Forces and their families for travel costs incurred when their permanent orders are suddenly canceled.

Naval Reserve chaplain, Capt. John T. McLaughlin, now serving on the staff of the Third Naval District Commandant, has been named by the Reserve Officers Association as the "Chaplain of the Year" for 1964. The award will be made here in Washington Feb. 28 when ROA holds its Mid-Winter National Council Banquet.

Annual physical examinations are now required of all Naval Reservists holding type "A" mobilization orders. The examination will be made in the birth month of the individual.

The House Armed Services Committee new staff assistant will be Frank Slatinshek, a Naval Reserve captain. He will have immediate administrative responsibility for pending and future personnel legislation for the Armed Services.

The administration's economy program for 1964 will block any congressional consideration of two Reserve bills, according to Bureau of the Budget sources. One is a bill to give concurrent receipt of veterans' compensation and Reserve retired pay. The other bill would give retired Reserve officers with active duty in the first world war 75 per cent retired pay.

The bill to give enlisted men retirement in the highest grade held, regardless of the service in which served, has passed the House and is now pending in the Senate. Mostly, these men are now, in the Air Force or have retired from the Air Force, while their officer war-time service was performed in the Army. Due to the split-service they have been denied officer retirement. Pentagon sources expect favorable Senate action in 1964.

When the 1965 budget is approved and ready to go to Capitol "Hill," Pentagon planners expect the Navy will have a request for more men in it. On the other hand the Air Force is expected to have a "cutback" due to the phasing out of bombers and their ground and air crew requirements.

Army sources say that the best advice to enlisted men "hurt" under the pro pay plan is to "retrain under a more crucial MOS."

Vandals Put Sugar In Car's Gas Tank

Jim E. Frank of the Superior Sanitation Co., 2223 N. Circle Dr., reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday that someone had put sugar in his gas tank causing $100 damage.

Deputy Sheriff Al Moore said the tank had the sugar put in it sometime Tuesday night.

Man Beaten, Robbed Wednesday

A Ft. Carson man was beaten and robbed Wednesday night after he followed two men and a woman to a deserted spot, probably in the 500 block of West Cucharras Street, police reported.

Earl Ensor, 31, of 1222 Richards St., told officers he was in his car when another car pulled up beside his at a stop light and one of the occupants wished him a happy new year.

Ensor spoke to the men and woman and they invited him to a party. He followed their car to a deserted spot and one of the men knocked him to the ground and stole $32 from his billfold, Ensor told police.

Ensor could not remember the exact location of the assault and theft, but police said it was apparently in a lumber yard in the 500 block of West Cucharras.

A pickup is out for the three and the late model Ford in which they were riding.

Sheriff Probes Three Cases Of Theft

Four cases of theft were reported to the sheriff's office over the holiday.

The first happened at the home of William S. Spangler, 210 Cheyenne Blvd. He told Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman that a television set worth $100,- a transistor radio and ladies wrist watch worth $50 had been taken.

Newman said Spangler had gone out Tuesday night and had left the door open for his two sons who did not have keys. When the boys came home they discovered the theft and telephoned their father.

The second incident was reported by Mrs. J. Valdez of the trailer court at 325 S. 11th St. She said a portable television set was taken from her trailer during her absence.

The door as unlocked and the incident happened Tuesday night.

The third theft took place Wednesday outside 88 Steven Dr., the home of C. Jensen. He told Deputy Sheriff Harry Orvis that he had parked his truck outside the house and someone took a tool box from the back of the vehicle. The tools were worth $48.50.

The final incident was reported by Lawrence Quaney, 109 Amherst Dr. An overcoat and two pillows worth a total of $35.-95 were taken from his unlocked car which he left on the driveway by the house.

James Moore Services Will Be Held Friday

James Moore, 1809 W. Cucharras St., will be buried Friday morning in Memorial Gardens following a 10 a.m. funeral service in Our Chapel of Memories. The Rev. George E. Smith will officiate.

Mr. Moore died Monday at the age of 59. He was employed at the Fountain Valley School.

He was born in [illegible] on March 15, 1904. Mr. Moore served during World War II and was affiliated with the American Legion.

He is survived by a brother, Harry Moore of Colorado Springs; his nephew Dale Barnes of Colorado Springs, and two nieces, Mrs. Mary Helen [illegible] of Kansas City, Mo., and Miss Margaret Barnes of Colorado Springs.

Scout Executive Praises AdAmAn Club

Ray M. Ryerson, scout executive of the Pikes Peak Council, issued a statement praising the efforts of the AdAmAn Club to motivate all youth to keep physically fit.

"It has been my pleasure to personally associate with most of the AdAmAn Club members thru the years. The example of these members has meant a great deal to the young people of the region and the nation.

"The Boy Scouts of America nationally have recognized the efforts of this organization thru its many periodicals and displays of pictures and stories at regional and national scout meetings.

"With the constant changing of activities of young people toward less vigorous physical activity, the AdAmAn Club has provided emphasis toward high adventure camping. Our scouts have been highly stimulated to participate in mountain climbing and physical fitness because of the unique physical fitness example which is so evident in the clubs activities.

"We in scouting have greatly appreciated the fine cooperation rendered by many club members in providing training in mountain climbing and physical fitness.

"It has been one of the finest possible incentives to our Explorer Scouts for one of their number to be selected to participate as a guest on the New Years Eve club each year.

"The scouting program is based on the fact that young men have no time to become involved in delinquency problems when they are involved in the Explorer program, which maintains the same traditions and ideals as does the AdAmAn Club.

"We are proud to be a part of a community which exhibits as much interest in their young people as does the Pikes Peak Region. The AdAmAm Club has tremendous influence for good in many ways. I sincerely hope this organization will continue for many years to come," Ryerson stated.

Flying Christies Schedule Skiing Outing Saturday

The Flying Christies Ski Club will take a group of junior high school students to Breckenridge Saturday for a skiing expedition under sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Cost of the trip is $8. Half of the amount will be for all day tow tickets and the other half will be used for transportation costs.

Jaycee officials said buses would leave from the Trailway Bus Depot at 6:30 a.m. Saturday and would return about 7:30 p.m.

Each skier must have his or her parents permission to make the trip. Printed permission forms may be picked up at the Jaycee office where reservations must be made before noon Friday.

Each skier must furnish or rent his own equipment. Complete information may be obtained by contacting the Jaycee office.

Thieves Hit Southgate Laundromat

Thieves burglarized the Southgate Laundromat Wednesday and again this morning, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry, early Wednesday morning two coin machines on the dryers were forced and $20 in change taken.

This morning three other machines were forced and attempts made to open two more. The amount of money taken is still unknown.

Mrs. Edythe Claybaugh Services Set Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Edythe E. Claybaugh, who died Tuesday at her home, 116 S. 13th St., will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at The Law Mortuary.

The Rev. Warren M. Hile will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mrs. Claybaugh was a member of First Christian Church.

She was born Oct. 10, 1885, in Indiana. She came to Colorado Springs in 1917 from Galesburg, Ill.

Mrs. Claybaugh is survived by her husband, Ross Claybaugh and her brother J. N. Metzler of Waukegan, Ill.

Academy Band Awarded Unique Honor

The critical audience of more than 5,000 directors of high school, college, university, military and professional bands gave the Academy musicians a standing ovation following their program.

Included in the clinic concert were newly published works for band conducted by band commander-conductor Capt. Arnald Gabriel and associate conductor, Capt. Franklin J. Lockwood.

The band also received a plaque for "an inspiring contribution to music education."

Capt. Gabriel was personally awarded the band clinic's Gold Medal of Honor. He is the second military band leader in the 17-year history of the clinic to receive the coveted medal.

Presentation of the award was made by Howard R. Lyons, clinic sponsor, and Paul Yoder, prominent composer, arranger, and lecturer, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Region Gets $50 Million From Carson Payroll

Nearly $50 million in direct expenditures for payrolls and purchases in the Pikes Peak Region were made from Ft. Carson in 1963. There was an increase in all areas except civilian payroll, reflecting the first full year of operation for the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized).

Military payroll of $37 million was the biggest figure in these statistics with troop strength at 15,500 as the year ended. This was an increase of $6 million and of 1,500 troops compared with the previous year.

Civilian payroll dropped $800,000 to $7,115,800 for 1,400 Civil Service workers compared with 1,500 in 1962.

Approximately $2 million in Pikes Peak Region and Colorado purchases were made thru the Ft. Carson purchasing and contracting office in 1963. The exact increase from 1962 was not available.

The Ft. Carson Exchange reported the greatest expenditure of non-appropriated funds in 1963 — $2,500,000 — approximately $2 million in Colorado purchases, the remainder in payroll. This was half a million dollars more in purchases than in 1962.

Other non-appropriated agencies at Ft. Carson with large expenditures were the Ft. Carson Officers Club, $506,000; the Noncommissioned Officers Club, $388,791; and central post fund, $331,000. Purchases in the local area accounted for two-thirds or more of these disbursements, the remainder was payroll.

Jen-Mar Construction Co., contractor for the $1.6 million expansion of Butts Army Air Field at Ft. Carson, reported an average weekly payroll of $9,500 for the last half of 1963 or approximately half a million dollars.

Since an estimated 80 per cent of Ft. Carson's military families live off-post — from Pueblo and Canon City to Palmer Lake — Ft. Carson's total impact considering all related expenditures is estimated at $86.5 million.

Man Beaten, Robbed Wednesday

A Ft. Carson man was beaten and robbed Wednesday night after he followed two men and a woman to a deserted spot, probably in the 500 block of West Cucharras Street, police reported.

Earl Ensor, 31, of 1222 Richards St., told officers he was in his car when another car pulled up beside his at a stop light and one of the occupants wished him a happy new year.

Ensor spoke to the men and woman and they invited him to a party. He followed their car to a deserted spot and one of the men knocked him to the ground and stole $32 from his billfold, Ensor told police.

Ensor could not remember the exact location of the assault and theft, but police said it was apparently in a lumber yard in the 500 block of West Cucharras.

A pickup is out for the three and the late model Ford in which they were riding.

Sheriff Probes Three Cases Of Theft

Four cases of theft were reported to the sheriff's office over the holiday.

The first happened at the home of William S. Spangler, 210 Cheyenne Blvd. He told Deputy Sheriff Bob Newman that a television set worth $100,- a transistor radio and ladies wrist watch worth $50 had been taken.

Newman said Spangler had gone out Tuesday night and had left the door open for his two sons who did not have keys. When the boys came home they discovered the theft and telephoned their father.

The second incident was reported by Mrs. J. Valdez of the trailer court at 325 S. 11th St. She said a portable television set was taken from her trailer during her absence.

The door as unlocked and the incident happened Tuesday night.

The third theft took place Wednesday outside 88 Steven Dr., the home of C. Jensen. He told Deputy Sheriff Harry Orvis that he had parked his truck outside the house and someone took a tool box from the back of the vehicle. The tools were worth $48.50.

The final incident was reported by Lawrence Quaney, 109 Amherst Dr. An overcoat and two pillows worth a total of $35.-95 were taken from his unlocked car which he left on the driveway by the house.

Art Society Reschedules Dinner Meeting

The Contemporary Art Society of the Fine Arts Center has rescheduled its cancelled dinner meeting of Nov. 25 for Monday, 6:30 p.m., at the Fine Arts Center.

All members of the Contemporary Art Society and their guests are asked to make reservations by Friday with Mrs. Marshall Sprague, telephone number 634-4583.

The Contemporary Art Society is composed of men and women interested in the study of contemporary art.

Each year the group selects and donates one art object to the permanent collection of the Fine Arts Center.

James Moore Services Will Be Held Friday

James Moore, 1809 W. Cucharras St., will be buried Friday morning in Memorial Gardens following a 10 a.m. funeral service in Our Chapel of Memories. The Rev. George E. Smith will officiate.

Mr. Moore died Monday at the age of 59. He was employed at the Fountain Valley School.

He was born in Divide on March 15, 1904. Mr. Moore served during World War II and was affiliated with the American Legion.

He is survived by a brother Harry Moore of Colorado Springs; his nephew Dale Barnes of Colorado Springs, and two nieces, Mrs. Mary Helen Frasier of Kansas City, Mo., and Miss Margaret Barnes of Colorado Springs.

New Restaurant Guide Discloses Many Oddities

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Have you ever tried the southern fried chicken in Madrid? Or the Wiener Schnitzel in Manila?

These may seem like displaced dishes, but they're not. They are a few of the oddities noted in a new guide to international restaurants. The guide is published by Be My Guest, a new credit card device designed to let you play host to anybody anywhere.

You simply decide who you want to treat to a fine dinner, look up where they are in the guide and pick a restaurant. Send in the order and your guests trot off to the restaurant to dine — on you. The whole thing is expensively simple.

But the guide is fun to browse through. You quickly note that there appears to be a restaurant in every country that specializes in some other country's cuisine.

For example, that Barcelona southern fried chicken. It is served in a restaurant with the un-Spanish name of Hi Pardner. You can also get barbecued spareribs at the Hi Pardner, located on Madrid's Carretera de Barcelona.

Then there's the Swiss Inn in Manila—the best place for Wiener Schnitzel between the Luzon Strait and the Sulu Sea. Manila also has a restaurant called Nina's Papagayo, which serves a complete Mexican menu, for some reason.

Among other curios, you can find:

General Advance Reported on Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made its 1964 debut with a general advance today. Trading was moderately active early this afternoon.

Drugs were strong, inspired by the admission of G. D. Searle to trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Searle has a long record as a growth stock in the over-the-counter market.

Oils, dampened by a drop in Texaco, were mixed. Electrical equipments eased and tobaccos were spotty.

Brokers regarded the advance as a continuation of the New Year's Eve rally which saw re-investment demand outweighing the fag end of tax-loss selling, profittaking and switching for tax purposes as the old year died.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 at 286.3 with industrials up 1.4, rails up .5, and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.60 at 765.55.

Searle opened at 79, representing a gain of 8½ over its last bid price on the counter market. Later it cut about 4 points from its price.

International Telephone rose about 2 points following an estimate of annual sales of $1.4 billion, a record.

IBM ran up 10 points, making a 1963-64 high.

Nursing Home Burns; Three Patients Die

The blaze destroyed the one-story frame building.

An employe of the home, Mrs. Boyd Hamm, said she believed the fire started from a floor furnace.

None of the survivors was reported injured.

Sixteen of the occupants were men, most of them veterans of World War I.

TO BUILD SKYSCRAPERS

TOKYO (UPI) — Plans for the construction of several "skyscrapers" in this earthquake-prone city were announced today. The tallest will be only 24 stories, but this will be higher than any previous building in Japan.

Among buildings planned or under construction are the 17-story Otani Hotel and a 24-story office structure for the Tokyo city government.

World's Tallest Tower Located In North Dakota

BLANCHARD, N. D. (AP)—Rising into a haze often concealing its distant tip, a huge television tower two miles west of here gives every appearance of that fabled "Stairway to Paradise."

But the illusion is shattered on a clear day when the tip of the tower is visible some 2,063 feet above pancake flat prairie land in eastern North Dakota.

The massive structure, geared to beam a strong television signal more than 100 miles in all directions, is owned by Pembina Broadcasting Co. of North Dakota, a subsidiary of Polaris Corp., Milwaukee, Wis. It was built in 30 days by an 11-man crew of Kline Iron and Steel Co., Columbia, S.C.

Work on the tower, estimated to cost almost a half million dollars, was started early in October and completed Nov. 1.

The structure exceeds by slightly more than 300 feet the previous world record for a man-made structure, a 1,751 foot TV tower near Knoxville, Tenn. It dwarfs the Empire State Building by almost 600 feet and is nearly double the height of the famed Eiffel Tower.

Its other statistics are equally impressive. The triangular-shape structure was built atop a foundation that has 87 wooden pilings, 75 feet long, hammered into the earth. Over that was poured 145 yards of concrete, 8½ feet thick at the center.

For maintenance work on the giant structure, an elevator is being installed in the center. It will rise to the 1,948-foot level, with the remaining 115 feet to be scaled by ladder.

Sitting atop the structure is the television antenna, topped off by a huge beacon light containing fourteen 650-watt bulbs, to warn any flyers who may feel secure cruising along at 2,000 feet.

The steel for the structure was hauled here by seven railroad cars, then trucked to the site of the tower.

The crew foreman said he traveled to the top of the structure once, "but was too busy to take a look around."

Capps noted that the wind created some problems for his lofty workers when the tower was near completion, but added that it was "nothing dangerous." The tower is built to sway 13.9 feet in a 120 m.p.h. wind.

New Restaurant Guide Discloses Many Oddities

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Have you ever tried the southern fried chicken in Madrid? Or the Wiener Schnitzel in Manila?

These may seem like displaced dishes, but they're not. They are a few of the oddities noted in a new guide to international restaurants. The guide is published by Be My Guest, a new credit card device designed to let you play host to anybody anywhere.

You simply decide who you want to treat to a fine dinner, look up where they are in the guide and pick a restaurant. Send in the order and your guests trot off to the restaurant to dine — on you. The whole thing is expensively simple.

But the guide is fun to browse through. You quickly note that there appears to be a restaurant in every country that specializes in some other country's cuisine.

For example, that Barcelona southern fried chicken. It is served in a restaurant with the un-Spanish name of Hi Pardner. You can also get barbecued spareribs at the Hi Pardner, located on Madrid's Carretera de Barcelona.

Then there's the Swiss Inn in Manila—the best place for Wiener Schnitzel between the Luzon Strait and the Sulu Sea. Manila also has a restaurant called Nina's Papagayo, which serves a complete Mexican menu, for some reason.

Among other curios, you can find:

General Advance Reported on Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made its 1964 debut with a general advance today. Trading was moderately active early this afternoon.

Drugs were strong, inspired by the admission of G. D. Searle to trading on the New York Stock Exchange. Searle has a long record as a growth stock in the over-the-counter market.

Oils, dampened by a drop in Texaco, were mixed. Electrical equipments eased and tobaccos were spotty.

Brokers regarded the advance as a continuation of the New Year's Eve rally which saw re-investment demand outweighing the fag end of tax-loss selling, profittaking and switching for tax purposes as the old year died.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 at 286.3 with industrials up 1.4, rails up .5, and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.60 at 765.55.

Searle opened at 79, representing a gain of 8½ over its last bid price on the counter market. Later it cut about 4 points from its price.

International Telephone rose about 2 points following an estimate of annual sales of $1.4 billion, a record.

IBM ran up 10 points, making a 1963-64 high.

Prices advanced in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Nursing Home Burns; Three Patients Die

The blaze destroyed the one-story frame building.

An employe of the home, Mrs. Boyd Hamm, said she believed the fire started from a floor furnace.

None of the survivors was reported injured.

Sixteen of the occupants were men, most of them veterans of World War I.

TO BUILD SKYSCRAPERS

TOKYO (UPI) — Plans for the construction of several "skyscrapers" in this earthquake-prone city were announced today. The tallest will be only 24 stories, but this will be higher than any previous building in Japan.

Among buildings planned or under construction are the 17-story Otani Hotel and a 24-story office structure for the Tokyo city government.

World's Tallest Tower Located In North Dakota

BLANCHARD, N. D. (AP)—Rising into a haze often concealing its distant tip, a huge television tower two miles west of here gives every appearance of that fabled "Stairway to Paradise."

But the illusion is shattered on a clear day when the tip of the tower is visible some 2,063 feet above pancake flat prairie land in eastern North Dakota.

The massive structure, geared to beam a strong television signal more than 100 miles in all directions, is owned by Pembina Broadcasting Co. of North Dakota, a subsidiary of Polaris Corp., Milwaukee, Wis. It was built in 30 days by an 11-man crew of Kline Iron and Steel Co., Columbia, S.C.

Work on the tower, estimated to cost almost a half million dollars, was started early in October and completed Nov. 1.

The structure exceeds by slightly more than 300 feet the previous world record for a man-made structure, a 1,751 foot TV tower near Knoxville, Tenn. It dwarfs the Empire State Building by almost 600 feet and is nearly double the height of the famed Eiffel Tower.

Its other statistics are equally impressive. The triangular-shape structure was built atop a foundation that has 87 wooden pilings, 75 feet long, hammered into the earth. Over that was poured 145 yards of concrete, 8½ feet thick at the center.

For maintenance work on the giant structure, an elevator is being installed in the center. It will rise to the 1,948-foot level, with the remaining 115 feet to be scaled by ladder.

Sitting atop the structure is the television antenna, topped off by a huge beacon light containing fourteen 650-watt bulbs, to warn any flyers who may feel secure cruising along at 2,000 feet.

The steel for the structure was hauled here by seven railroad cars, then trucked to the site of the tower.

The crew foreman said he traveled to the top of the structure once, "but was too busy to take a look around."

Capps noted that the wind created some problems for his lofty workers when the tower was near completion, but added that it was "nothing dangerous." The tower is built to sway 13.9 feet in a 120 m.p.h. wind.

By MRS. BEN GARVER

The Christmas program at the Lake George school Dec. 19th attracted a capacity audience as usual. The music, under Mrs. Zane Harper's guidance, featured traditional carols sung with great enthusiasm by the thirteen students. Several plays were presented with Mrs. Earl Fyler directing. And as the grand finale. Santa Claus brought his bag of treats, remembering each child in the community. The Woodland Park Christmas program was also given the same night with several from here attending.

Ranger Jack Swisher and girls spent a week with Mrs. Swisher and other relatives in Oklahoma. Mrs. Swisher is in much better health.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Imboden and Karen left for a trip southward in their cozy new trailer house. Mrs. C. E. Hall and the Bob Caylors planned to join them for a few days at Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Garver and Sandy enjoyed Christmas in Santa Barbara, Calif., with the Ross Iles family. En route they visited Grand Canyon. Harry Garver stayed at the Garver ranch during their absence.

Jim Sumner was home for Christmas from Salina, Kansas where he attends St. John's Academy. While home the Sumners went skiing to Breckenridge.

Jerry Achord arrived home from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. for the holidays. He and the Elmer Achords spent Christmas in Colorado Springs with their daughter and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Winkler and daughter formerly of Glasglow, Mont., spend the holidays here with the Nate Snares. Winkler has been transferred from there to an Air Force base in Kansas.

The Help U Club Christmas party was hosted by Mrs. Dean Butler, whose home was festive with colorful Christmas decorations. A delicious turkey dinner was served and gifts were exchanged and mystery sisters names revealed. The annual drawing of new mystery sisters names ensued and the grab bag gifts added zest. Twenty one members attended and the three guests were Sandy Garver. Catherine Coleman and Leone Stoll. The next meeting will be Jan. 9th at the home of Mrs. Luke Madole.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Caylor were Christmas guests at the Don Caylor home in Monte Vista.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Moreland. Mike and Marilyn spent Christmas in Colorado Springs with the Jesse Ray Morelands.

Mrs. Bob Caylor of Colorado Springs hosted a birthday dinner honoring Bob Caylor Dec. 19th and guests were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Imboden and Karen, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Caylor of Lake George.

Mr. and Mrs. John Quick, Wayne and Jimmy were Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Quick and son of Colorado Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Solomon and sons of Pueblo were overnight guests Dec. 19th at the Earl Fyler home attending the Christmas program.

Mrs. Dorothy Erb was a recent visitor in Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lovejoy, Linda and Charles were holiday guests at the Douglas home in Canon City.

Colorado College Receives Gift

Colorado College received a memorial gift Wednesday honoring Lloyd Harris Ellis of Hastings, Neb., a 1931 graduate of the liberal arts college.

The gift was made by his widow, Mrs. Lura Lou Wallace Ellis, and son, Lloyd Harris Ellis Jr. It will be a perpetual endowment to buy books for the college library.

Ellis was a brother of Miss Amanda M. Ellis, professor of English at the college.

He held a master of arts degree from the University of Pittsburgh, received in 1933. Before World War II he was director of publicity for Denver's May Company. During the war he served for four years with the Air Force with the rank of major.

He was later sales promotion manager and director of publicity for the Neusteter Company in Denver. Since 1949 he had managed personal interests in Hastings.

Ellis died Sept. 16, 1961, in Washington, D.C. where he was serving a four-month tour with the Department of State as a public member of the 1961 Foreign Service Selection Boards.

His son, Lloyd Harris Ellis Jr., serves in Africa with the U. S. Department of State.

Ellis was also honored by an identical gift to Hastings College two years ago. The gift was presented by C. G. Wallace, Ellis' father-in-law, and also memorialized Mrs. Idilla Jeffery Wallace, Wallace's widow.

Spring Fashions Bewildering to U. S. Reporters

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—As pretty as they are, the spring fashions are bewildering to the more than 200 out-of-town reporters here for a week of previews.

Women only have to wear them. Men only have to pay for them. But the fashion writers must describe them, and with no more to work with than an archaic glossary of euphemisms and inaccurate labels.

When an actor brazenly mentioned the word "shift" in 1907, a horrified Dublin Theater audience broke up in wild disorder. Fortunately, fashion editors today won't shock anyone when using the word to describe the slithery, beltless silhouettes still favored by many big-name couturiers.

But the decent and proper word for the feminine version of trousers is pants. Writers will cope with it in describing Norman Norell's travel suits, Maurice Rentner's and Donald Brook's at-home costumes, John Weitz's and Ann Forgarty's sports clothes.

Because the word seems to have the same effect on men as "shift" had on that Dublin audience 57 years ago, one ladies' sportswear firm is considering either a campaign of enlightenment, or a contest to choose a more acceptable name.

Waistlines have wandered so far away from the waist during the ups and downs of fashion that the term has come to mean no more than a horizontal seam anywhere between the shoulder and the hem.

While this line was generally tucked under the bosom during the past two seasons, this season it is usually wrapped around the hipbone, emphasizing the long-torsoed silhouette. A few avante garde designers have, however, actually put the so-called waistline daringly close to the waist.

Today a jacket means anything worn over a skirt. So long and skinny are some, that without a program or a commentator, a fashion writer can't tell one from a short coat or button-down tunic dress.

Among the several approaches taken by American designers is the see-through or a generous use of gossamer yardage in either angelic pastel hues, or in wicked black, fluttery with ruffles bows and lace. Although many of these look startlingly like nightgowns, they remain conservatively tagged evening gowns.

Another approach is the cling-to—slinky crepes which cover from neck to toes and yet show every outline.

The most talked about of the season is the peek-a-boo or the so-called plunging neckline. Recently fashion writers were taken to task by one New York columnist for sloppily applying the word decolletege to gowns that really have no necklines at all.

Yet, until somebody coins a word for the barely-a-bodice-ball gown, we're stuck with decolletege, as we are with the rest of fashion's inaccurate terms.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: I am a new Christian, and I get along pretty good until some problem arises, then I crumble under the load. What can I do to surmount every difficulty? —P. M.

ANSWER: To expect that the Christian life can be lived without any difficulty is wishful thinking. Nothing worthwhile is easy and without difficulty.

You say you are a new Christian. This means that you are what the Bible calls "A babe in Christ." Supposing a new-born babe could talk. It might say, "I believe I will give up because I have legs and can't walk; I have a voice and can't talk; life is so difficult." Even the "cooing baby" in the crib seems to accept the fact that it will take time for him to grow up.

You must do this about your spiritual life. You must walk before you run. You will have growing pains for life has a new dimension for you now, and your spirit, long dormant, has begun to develop. Another thing, since you have been snatched from Satan's roster, he will make every effort to discourage you. He didn't bother you as long as he had you, but now he will harass you, and try to get you to regret the step of faith you have taken. But the Bible says: "Greater is He that is in you than he that is in the world." This means that Christ who dwells in you is greater than the Prince and power of the air, Satan. "I can do all things through Christ," said Paul.

Malaysia Plans Border Buildup With Some Help

By TONY ESCODA

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—The Malaysian government is reported considering an appeal to Britain, Australia and New Zealand for military personnel to help build up defenses on its Borneo border with Indonesia.

Informed sources said the proposed request was discussed Wednesday night in an emergency cabinet meeting. Mostly technical personnel are wanted, to improve such facilities as communication lines in the jungles of the Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah.

All three Commonwealth allies have pledged to defend Malaysia against Indonesian President Sukarno's campaign to smash the new federation. Britain already has sent several thousand troops to North Borneo.

The cabinet meeting was called to discuss the clash Sunday in Sabah, formerly British North Borneo, in which eight Malaysian soldiers and a civilian were killed and 19 troops and five civilians were injured. The attack 30 miles inside Malaysian territory was blamed on Indonesian army regulars.

Indonesia, which claims the Malaysia federation is a device to prolong British colonial rule in Southeast Asia, has admitted to training anti-Malaysian rebels on Borneo. But it claims its troops are not involved in any active aggression.

"We have to fight back, and we have to fight back with doubled determination," said Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman after the cabinet meeting.

"I cannot say yet what will be our next step," he told reporters.

Three Are Injured as Building Collapses

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—A three-story building collapsed with a roar Wednesday and flying debris injured three persons in a passing automobile.

Police said heavy snow and ice caused the roof of the building to collapse.

Injured were Ira Wellman, 66, of Jamestown, his wife, Helen 41 and their son, Daniel, 8. Firemen and police used hacksaws and crowbars to pry open the automobile and free them.

Mrs. Wellman was in critical condition in Women's Christian Association Hospital. Father and son were reported in good condition.

The upper two floors were unoccupied. The five small stores on the first floor were closed because of the holiday.

Hayes Clocked 9.1 in 100 Yard Dash

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The nine second 100 yard dash still eludes Bob Hayes, although he showed on a rain-sodden track Wednesday that he's hot on the trail.

The husky Florida A&M junior duplicated before 5,000 fans the 9.1 second dash, submitted for a world record, which he ran last year at St. Louis. Considering the fact that rain had pelted University of Miami's cinder path for two days, few had expected Hayes to approach that speed at the Orange Bowl Track and Field Meet.

Businessmen Ready to Spend More This Year

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the federal government, businessmen are ready to spend more this year but are resolved to get full value for each dollar spent and they say the times favor their economy drive.

Or, to put it in balance-sheet language, industrial experts expect more business this year and therefore are ready to spend more to get it. But at the same time they intend to keep a tight rein on their purse-strings and avoid excesses.

Many are reconciled to rising prices on some essential materials. And they say more of this now will have to be passed along, rather than absorbed by their suppliers as in the recent past.

Yet business as the new year starts shows little inclination to beat rising prices by running up stocks on hand. Corporate finance officers contend that new business techniques make this unnecessary.

Of 1,000 purchasing executives queried, in every important area of U.S. industry, 67 per cent told Purchasing Magazine their own company would spend more this year than last for materials and services. But 70 per cent said their sales would be better this year than in 1963.

The implication is that buying in 1964 will continue to be more for immediate use than for future needs. And 62 per cent of the purchasing men foresee their inventories holding this year at the 1963 level.

A buyer of steel notes changing techniques in recent years. "We can depend on the distributor to inventory for us and get the material here when we need it," he says. "His manufacturers do the same for him. The whole cycle from manufacturer to final user has been shortened considerably."

The corporate buyers expect to pay more this year than last for steel and steel products, nonferrous metals, paper, packaging materials, and electrical products.

The profit squeeze is one reason purchasing agents have had to revamp inventory techniques. Top management has stressed cost cutting, including the charges for carrying big stocks on hand. So now many industries live on a much more nearly hand-to-mouth basis than formerly.

If production and sales increase as most business executives now forecast, material stocks will have to be higher to keep more production flowing—but the percentage of inventories to sales will be kept as tight as possible.

Or so the purchasing executives are resolving today.

Teenager Stuffed Into Coin Dryer

James Baumgardner Jr., 17, spent more than 30 cramped minutes in the machine before another customer rescued him.

The youth said he was alone in the building, preparing to wash a load of clothes, when a man approached him from behind and demanded money.

Told the teen-ager was broke, the thug made him stoop over in front of an open dryer and shoved him in, shutting the glass door.

A startled housewife, Mary Hamons, freed Baumgardner.

He was pale but apparently unhurt. "At least the man didn't drop a quarter in the machine," he said. "I would have fried alive."

By MRS. BEN GARVER

The Christmas program at the Lake George school Dec. 19th attracted a capacity audience as usual. The music, under Mrs. Zane Harper's guidance, featured traditional carols sung with great enthusiasm by the thirteen students. Several plays were presented with Mrs. Earl Fyler directing. And as the grand finale. Santa Claus brought his bag of treats, remembering each child in the community. The Woodland Park Christmas program was also given the same night with several from here attending.

Ranger Jack Swisher and girls spent a week with Mrs. Swisher and other relatives in Oklahoma. Mrs. Swisher is in much better health.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Imboden and Karen left for a trip southward in their cozy new trailer house. Mrs. C. E. Hall and the Bob Caylors planned to join them for a few days at Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Garver and Sandy enjoyed Christmas in Santa Barbara, Calif., with the Ross Iles family. En route they visited Grand Canyon. Harry Garver stayed at the Garver ranch during their absence.

Jim Sumner was home for Christmas from Salina, Kansas where he attends St. John's Academy. While home the Sumners went skiing to Breckenridge.

Jerry Achord arrived home from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. for the holidays. He and the Elmer Achords spent Christmas in Colorado Springs with their daughter and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Winkler and daughter formerly of Glasglow, Mont., spend the holidays here with the Nate Snares. Winkler has been transferred from there to an Air Force base in Kansas.

The Help U Club Christmas party was hosted by Mrs. Dean Butler, whose home was festive with colorful Christmas decorations. A delicious turkey dinner was served and gifts were exchanged and mystery sisters names revealed. The annual drawing of new mystery sisters names ensued and the grab bag gifts added zest. Twenty one members attended and the three guests were Sandy Garver, Catherine Coleman and Leone Stoll. The next meeting will be Jan. 9th at the home of Mrs. Luke Madole.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Caylor were Christmas guests at the Don Caylor home in Monte Vista.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Moreland, Mike and Marilyn spent Christmas in Colorado Springs with the Jesse Ray Morelands.

Mrs. Bob Caylor of Colorado Springs hosted a birthday dinner honoring Bob Caylor Dec. 19th and guests were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Imboden and Karen, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Caylor of Lake George.

Mr. and Mrs. John Quick, Wayne and Jimmy were Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Quick and son of Colorado Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Solomon and sons of Pueblo were overnight guests Dec. 19th at the Earl Fyler home attending the Christmas program.

Mrs. Dorothy Erb was a recent visitor in Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lovejoy, Linda and Charles were holiday guests at the Douglas home in Canon City.

Colorado College Receives Gift

Colorado College received a memorial gift Wednesday honoring Lloyd Harris Ellis of Hastings, Neb., a 1931 graduate of the liberal arts college.

The gift was made by his widow, Mrs. Lura Lou Wallace Ellis, and son, Lloyd Harris Ellis Jr. It will be a perpetual endowment to buy books for the college library.

Ellis was a brother of Miss Amanda M. Ellis, professor of English at the college.

He held a master of arts degree from the University of Pittsburgh, received in 1933. Before World War II he was director of publicity for Denver's May Company. During the war he served for four years with the Air Force with the rank of major.

He was later sales promotion manager and director of publicity for the Neusteter Company in Denver. Since 1949 he had managed personal interests in Hastings.

Ellis died Sept. 16, 1961, in Washington, D.C. where he was serving a four-month tour with the Department of State as a public member of the 1961 Foreign Service Selection Boards.

His son, Lloyd Harris Ellis Jr., serves in Africa with the U. S. Department of State.

Ellis was also honored by an identical gift to Hastings College two years ago. The gift was presented by C. G. Wallace, Ellis' father-in-law, and also memorialized Mrs. Idilla Jeffery Wallace, Wallace's widow.

Spring Fashions Bewildering to U. S. Reporters

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—As pretty as they are, the spring fashions are bewildering to the more than 200 out-of-town reporters here for a week of previews.

Women only have to wear them. Men only have to pay for them. But the fashion writers must describe them, and with no more to work with than an archaic glossary of euphemisms and inaccurate labels.

When an actor brazenly mentioned the word "shift" in 1907, a horrified Dublin Theater audience broke up in wild disorder. Fortunately, fashion editors today won't shock anyone when using the word to describe the slithery, beltless silhouettes still favored by many big-name couturiers.

But the decent and proper word for the feminine version of trousers is pants. Writers will cope with it in describing Norman Norell's travel suits, Maurice Rentner's and Donald Brook's at-home costumes, John Weitz's and Ann Forgarty's sports clothes.

Because the word seems to have the same effect on men as "shift" had on that Dublin audience 57 years ago, one ladies' sportswear firm is considering either a campaign of enlightenment, or a contest to choose a more acceptable name.

Waistlines have wandered so far away from the waist during the ups and downs of fashion that the term has come to mean no more than a horizontal seam anywhere between the shoulder and the hem.

While this line was generally tucked under the bosom during the past two seasons, this season it is usually wrapped around the hipbone, emphasizing the long-torsoed silhouette. A few avante garde designers have, however, actually put the so-called waistline daringly close to the waist.

Today a jacket means anything worn over a skirt. So long and skinny are some, that without a program or a commentator, a fashion writer can't tell one from a short coat or button-down tunic dress.

Among the several approaches taken by American designers is the see-through or a generous use of gossamer yardage in either angelic pastel hues, or in wicked black, fluttery with ruffles bows and lace. Although many of these look startlingly like nightgowns, they remain conservatively tagged evening gowns.

Another approach is the cling-to—slinky crepes which cover from neck to toes and yet show every outline.

The most talked about of the season is the peek-a-boo or the so-called plunging neckline. Recently fashion writers were taken to task by one New York columnist for sloppily applying the word decolletege to gowns that really have no necklines at all.

Yet, until somebody coins a word for the barely-a-bodice-ball gown, we're stuck with decolletege, as we are with the rest of fashion's inaccurate terms.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: I am a new Christian, and I get along pretty good until some problem arises, then I crumble under the load. What can I do to surmount every difficulty? —P. M.

ANSWER: To expect that the Christian life can be lived without any difficulty is wishful thinking. Nothing worthwhile is easy and without difficulty.

You say you are a new Christian. This means that you are what the Bible calls "A babe in Christ." Supposing a new-born babe could talk. It might say, "I believe I will give up because I have legs and can't walk; I have a voice and can't talk; life is so difficult." Even the "cooing baby" in the crib seems to accept the fact that it will take time for him to grow up.

You must do this about your spiritual life. You must walk before you run. You will have growing pains for life has a new dimension for you now, and your spirit, long dormant, has begun to develop. Another thing, since you have been snatched from Satan's roster, he will make every effort to discourage you. He didn't bother you as long as he had you, but now he will harass you, and try to get you to regret the step of faith you have taken. But the Bible says: "Greater is He that is in you than he that is in the world." This means that Christ who dwells in you is greater than the Prince and power of the air, Satan. "I can do all things through Christ," said Paul.

Malaysia Plans Border Buildup With Some Help

By TONY ESCODA

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—The Malaysian government is reported considering an appeal to Britain, Australia and New Zealand for military personnel to help build up defenses on its Borneo border with Indonesia.

Informed sources said the proposed request was discussed Wednesday night in an emergency cabinet meeting. Mostly technical personnel are wanted, to improve such facilities as communication lines in the jungles of the Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah.

All three Commonwealth allies have pledged to defend Malaysia against Indonesian President Sukarno's campaign to smash the new federation. Britain already has sent several thousand troops to North Borneo.

The cabinet meeting was called to discuss the clash Sunday in Sabah, formerly British North Borneo, in which eight Malaysian soldiers and a civilian were killed and 19 troops and five civilians were injured. The attack 30 miles inside Malaysian territory was blamed on Indonesian army regulars.

Indonesia, which claims the Malaysia federation is a device to prolong British colonial rule in Southeast Asia, has admitted to training anti-Malaysian rebels on Borneo. But it claims its troops are not involved in any active aggression.

"We have to fight back, and we have to fight back with doubled determination," said Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman after the cabinet meeting.

"I cannot say yet what will be our next step," he told reporters.

Three Are Injured as Building Collapses

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—A three-story building collapsed with a roar Wednesday and flying debris injured three persons in a passing automobile.

Police said heavy snow and ice caused the roof of the building to collapse.

Injured were Ira Wellman, 66, of Jamestown, his wife, Helen 41 and their son, Daniel, 8. Firemen and police used hacksaws and crowbars to pry open the automobile and free them.

Mrs. Wellman was in critical condition in Women's Christian Association Hospital. Father and son were reported in good condition.

The upper two floors were unoccupied. The five small stores on the first floor were closed because of the holiday.

Hayes Clocked 9.1 in 100 Yard Dash

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The nine second 100 yard dash still eludes Bob Hayes, although he showed on a rain-sodden track Wednesday that he's hot on the trail.

The husky Florida A&M junior duplicated before 5,000 fans the 9.1 second dash, submitted for a world record, which he ran last year at St. Louis. Considering the fact that rain had pelted University of Miami's cinder path for two days, few had expected Hayes to approach that speed at the Orange Bowl Track and Field Meet.

Businessmen Ready to Spend More This Year

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the federal government, businessmen are ready to spend more this year but are resolved to get full value for each dollar spent and they say the times favor their economy drive.

Or, to put it in balance-sheet language, industrial experts expect more business this year and therefore are ready to spend more to get it. But at the same time they intend to keep a tight rein on their pursestrings and avoid excesses.

Many are reconciled to rising prices on some essential materials. And they say more of this now will have to be passed along, rather than absorbed by their suppliers as in the recent past.

Yet business as the new year starts shows little inclination to beat rising prices by running up stocks on hand. Corporate finance officers contend that new business techniques make this unnecessary.

Of 1,000 purchasing executives queried, in every important area of U.S. industry, 67 per cent told Purchasing Magazine their own company would spend more this year than last for materials and services. But 70 per cent said their sales would be better this year than in 1963.

The implication is that buying in 1964 will continue to be more for immediate use than for future needs. And 62 per cent of the purchasing men foresee their inventories holding this year at the 1963 level.

A buyer of steel notes changing techniques in recent years. "We can depend on the distributor to inventory for us and get the material here when we need it," he says. "His manufacturers do the same for him. The whole cycle from manufacturer to final user has been shortened considerably."

The corporate buyers expect to pay more this year than last for steel and steel products, nonferrous metals, paper, packaging materials, and electrical products.

The profit squeeze is one reason purchasing agents have had to revamp inventory techniques. Top management has stressed cost cutting, including the charges for carrying big stocks on hand. So now many industries live on a much more nearly hand-to-mouth basis than formerly.

If production and sales increase as most business executives now forecast, material stocks will have to be higher to keep more production flowing—but the percentage of inventories to sales will be kept as tight as possible.

Or so the purchasing executives are resolving today.

Teenager Stuffed Into Coin Dryer

James Baumgardner Jr., 17, spent more than 30 cramped minutes in the machine before another customer rescued him.

The youth said he was alone in the building, preparing to wash a load of clothes, when a man approached him from behind and demanded money.

Told the teen-ager was broke, the thug made him stoop over in front of an open dryer and shoved him in, shutting the glass door.

A startled housewife, Mary Hamons, freed Baumgardner.

He was pale but apparently unhurt. "At least the man didn't drop a quarter in the machine," he said. "I would have fried alive."

Falcons Resume Action With Houston Tonight

HOUSTON, Tex. — Sporting four victories against three defeats in early season games, plus a near-miss showing in the annual Gator Bowl basetball tournament last week, the Air Force Academy's road-weary Falcons will be here tonight to do battle with the Cougars of the University of Houston.

This is the first meeting between these two independent cage teams and Coach Bob Spear's Cadets would like to get the series off to a victorious start.

Winning three of their last four contests, the Falcons have shown a flare for scoring this winter with an average of nearly 72 points per outing. Still, the precision-like Falcons will still depend on their glue-fingered defense which for several seasons has ranked among the best in the nation.

In addition, Spear will be looking for continued improvement from an encouraging crop of sophomores who have recently put new zip into the Air Force attack. Altho only one of these yearlings is expected to start tonight in this southern Texas city, the others are first-line reserves and can be counted on to enter the game early.

This season the Cougars have taken on a "killer" schedule that includes no less than five of the nation's top 10 squads. So Houston, too, will be after a win tonight to fatten the season's record. Last year they finished with a 15-11 overall record.

The Cougars will be without their top gun in 6-7 Lyle Harger, who departed thru graduation, but they will have a couple of transfers who should more than make up for his loss. Among them are 6-6 Jim Jones and 6-8 Warren Young, who came across town from South Texas Junior College. They also have 6-7 veteran DeWayne Bond to battle for Harger's vacated position on the post.

The big show tonight, as far as most fans are concerned, centers around a pair of little men, however. The AFA's 5-8 Johnny Judd is shooting for All-America recognition and currently leads the Falcons in scoring with a 16.1 average in seven games. Also in the backcourt for the Cougars, tho, is a guy that's even smaller in 5-6 Herb Johnson who last year paced the Jacksonville Baptist JC with a sensational 33.5 average.

The lone sophomore expected to start for the Air Force is 6-5 Sam Peshut, who will team with the veteran combination of Judd, Mike Pavich, Roger Head and Rich Porter. Others expected to join the battle quickly are sophomores Scott Etnyre, Ed Sullivan and Jerry Yankee.

Etnyre and Sullivan especially were impressive in the Falcons latest ventures at the Gator Bowl tourney with Etnyre leading the 78-53 win over Florida State in the tournament opener by canning 9 of 10 shots from the field and 8-for-8 at the free throw line for a season's team high of 26 points. Sullivan was helpful on the rebound boards as well as playing a fine floor game.

The Falcons came within a hair's breadth of winning the Gator tourney as they led nearly thruout the game before dropping a 74-68 decision on a flurry of late Florida U. free throws.

This will be the fourth straight game on the road for the Air Force and the Falcons will return to Colorado Springs for a single game against North Dakota next Monday afternoon and then travel for two more against Utah State and Montana State before coming home again.

Police Seek Disgruntled Giant Fans in Riot Case

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police searched today for a disgruntled New York Giants fan whose needling of Chicago Bear football players sparked a New Year's Day brawl that resulted in the death of former Bear Tony Parrilli.

Parrilli, 24, who played college football for Illinois, was shot to death and Bear fullback Joe Marconi was belted over the head with a revolver in the men's room scuffle at a plush suburban bowling alley partly owned by Bear end Mike Ditka.

Capt. Herbert Mertes of the Du Page County sheriff's office said Parrilli and an unidentified man started arguing in the washroom of Ditka's bowling alley in suburban Willowbrook.

"As I understand it," Mertes said, "the man was a fan of the Giants and they were arguing about the Bears-Giants championship game."

The Bears defeated the Giants for the National Football League championship last Sunday, 14-10.

The shot that killed Parrilli was fired accidently by Willowbrook Police Chief Robert Winthers, Du Page County authorities said. They said Winthers told them he belted Marconi over the head with a revolver in an attempt to break up the brawl—and the gun discharged, striking Parrilli in the left eye, killing him instantly.

Eight stitches were required to close Marconi's wound, but he was not hospitalized.

State's attorney William J. Bauer said he planned to file no charges against Winthers, and there would be no action in the case until the grand jury convenes the week of Jan. 20.

Deputy Coroner James Clark indicated an inquest would have been held this week — but he delayed it after learning some of the Bears players who will be called to testify planned to leave Chicago Wednesday for the pro bowl game in Los Angeles Jan. 12.

Carlisle Overshadows Staubach

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

His name is Emmett Augustus Carlisle III. They call him Duke for short. But they've been calling him great since he engineered Texas' Cotton Bowl victory over Navy.

Duke Carlisle has been king in Dallas for almost 24 hours now, or since he dropped his "other quarterback" label on the 23-yard line, raced 19 yards on his first carry and continued to steer the national champion Longhorns to a 28-6 walloping of second-ranked Navy.

When he trotted off the field, in the third quarter with the game clinched, Carlisle had passed 58 and 63 yards to Phil Harris for touchdown, bolted nine yards for another and overshadowed the Middies celebrated quarterback—All - America and Heiseman Trophy winner Roger Staubach.

Asked after the game which lineman impressed him most, Staubach offered this key to the outcome of the game:

"Well, they all had me down at one time or another and I didn't notice their numbers."

"Texas did everything a national champion is supposed to do and deserves the No. 1 rating," he said.

Third-ranked Illinois, meanwhile, won the granddaddy of all the college football bowls, overcoming a 7-3 halftime deficity on short touchdown plunges by Jim Warren and Jim Grabowski for a 17-7 Rose Bowl victory in Pasadena over a crippled Washington team.

Ted Davis kicked field goals of 46, 48, 31 and 22 yards for all of Alabama's points in a 12-7 Sugar Bowl triumph over Mississippi at New Orleans and Nebraska rode Dennis Claridge's 68-yard touchdown jaunt and a pair of field goals by Dave Thiesen to a 13-7 Orange Bowl victory over Auburn at Miami.

But the day belonged to Texas from the time Carlisle completed his first pass until he sat down with a Cotton Bowl record for a total offense, gaining 213 yards passing and 54 rushing for a 267 total. Staubach also set a Cotton Bowl record with 21 completions in 31 attempts for 228 yards.

But Staubach's rushing yardage was minus 47, indicating the number of times he met Texas lineman in the Navy backfield.

Staubach scored the only Navy touchdown, a two-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Bill Siler took over for Duglas and engineered a second quarter touchdown drive, capped by Dave Kopay's seven-yard run. Illinois got three points back on Jim Plankerhorn's 32-yard field goal, then intercepted a Siler pass in the third quarter to set up the go-ahead touchdown.

George Donnelly picked off the pass and Mike Taliaferro eventually lobbed a pitch out to Warren, who dashed the final two yards. Grabowski, eating up time and yardage, rushed 11 times in the final drive before cracking over from the one. Grabowski was tapped as the game's outstanding player after gaining with 125 yards in 23 carries.

Alabama kept banging away at Mississippi, but never was able to get beyond the six-yard line. However, Davis, who hasn't run a play from scrimmage since he was injured as a high school quarterback, supplied the points. His 46-yarder and the 48-yarder that followed were the longest in major bowl history.

The Rebels, meanwhile, were unable to score until the fourth quarter when Perry Lee Dunn connected with Larry Smith on a five-yard touchdown pass. Mississippi threatened twice more—Dunn was stopped on the two in a fourth down situation and Billy Piper intercepted a pass in the waning seconds.

At the Orange Bowl, Carlidge broke through the line on the second play of the game, and sprinted 68 yards for a Nebraska touchdown. Before the half ended, Thiesen had kicked 31 and 36 yard field goals for a 13-0 lead. But it was Auburn that dominated play after that.

All-America Jimmy Sidle started the Tigers moving, sweeping wide on a 13-yard dash for the first touchdown. Then he ran and passed Auburn 69 yards to the Nebraska 11, where the Cornhuskers stiffened, and knocked down Sidle's fourth down pass with 1:25 left.

Gardner's Utes Crush Cincinnati

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's about time for Utah basketball Coach Jack Gardner to start changing his tune.

"We know we have a long way to go."

"I can't be optimistic about this year compared with many others."

"We have to be considered in the role of underdogs."

Sure. It's very understandable. He had only one regular returning from last season's team, was loaded with sophomores and appeared to be hurting for size.

So now the Utes have an 11-1 record, finished their pre-conference season with a 87-68 upset of fourth-ranked Cincinnati Wednesday night and are gunning for national recognition.

The swift, spirited Utes barged out to a 39-31 halftime lead, increased the margin to 12 points after intermission then fought off a Cincinnati rally that closed to within two points, 66-44, with less than two minutes to go.

Only a handful of games were scheduled Wednesday as the colleges took a deep breath from the rigors of the holiday tourneys before jumping into conference play.

In the only other major games Georgia edged Alabama 49-47, Louisville romped over Marquette 85-67, Rhode Island upset Memphis State 68-66 and Toledo routed Kent State 75-57.

Proposed Return Bout Under Fire

HAGERSTOWN, Ind. (UPI)— A proposed return flyweight title bout between Hiroyuki Ebihara of Japan and Pone Kingpetch of Thailand has come under fire from the World Boxing Association (WBA). Arch Hindman, WBA executive secretary, has wired boxing groups in the two countries that Kingpetch, who lost the title to Ebihara on a first-round kayo at Tokyo, Sept. 18, would fight his way back into contention.

Texas Linemen Engineer Victory Over Navy in Cotton Bowl Clash

By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer

DALLAS (UPI) — The backs made the headlines, but both coaches agreed tooay that the other team's line was the key factor in Texas quarterback Duke Carlisle's architecture of a 28-6 victory over Navy in the 28th annual Cotton Bowl.

Texas deserted its usual ball control tactics and took to the air-lanes to lay the foundtion for victory and the coach of the natin's national champion Longhorns, Darrell Royal, said the change in strategy was forced by Navy's defense which "jammed up on us."

Navy's heralded All-America Heisman Trophy winning quarterback, jolly Roger Staubach, had a fine day statistically, but his effectiveness was humiliatingly unsuccessful because of a Texas line that, in Middie Coach Wayne Hardin's words; "simply kept coming and coming."

CARLISLE ROLLS ON—Duke Carlisle (11), University of Texas quarterback, gets away from three Navy players: Tom Holden (67) guard; Bruce Kenton (52) center; and John Mickleson (89) to start on a nine-yard run that netted a touchdown for Texas in the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas, Wednesday.
(AP Wirephoto)

Carlisle was the hero of the game offensively by throwing 58 and 63-yard scoring passes to fleet wingback Phil Harris and darting nine big yards for another touchdown to boost Texas into a 21-0 lead that smothered Navy's hopes before halftime.

But, the same crew of linemen which held Navy to a minus 14 yards rushing was performing an equally magnificent chore on offense by giving him ample time to throw or work his run-pass options to a new Cotton Bowl record total offense of 267 yards.

Game Statistics

	TEXAS	NAVY
First downs	18	16
Rushing yardage	168	14
Passing yardage	234	227
Passes	8-21	22-34
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	3-43	6-37
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	72	35

All-America tackle Scott Appleton, who shared "outstanding" honors with Carlisle by overwhelming vote margins, led this Longhorn line stampede. But, at best, his play was just a shade better than that of such teammates as tackle Staley Faulkner and guards George Brucks and Tommy Nobis.

Staubach, who was thrown 55 yards in losses by this raging front foursome, wound up with a deceptively impressive looking passing record of 21 hits in 31 tries for 228 yards — both Cotton Bowl records. Ed Orr caught nine of them for another bowl high.

But, his moments of satisfaction were limited to one 75-yard drive in the fourth period — after Texas had a 28-0 lead — when he passed the Middies down to the two-yard line from where he ran it over.

Texas, which Hardin and his once-skeptical players admitted had convinced them it really was the nation's No. 1 team, collected its fourth touchdown after Carlisle had gone to the sidelines with 19 minutes left in the game.

It came on a two-yard surge by fullback Harold Phillip after reserve quarterback Tommy Wade had passed the Longhorns to within that range.

Staubach probably summed up the game in 22 words:

"Texas didn't mess around. They hit hard and they kept the pressure on all the time. No. 1 they deserve to be."

Eagles Sign Broncos' Top Choice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas tackle Scott Appleton, skillfully dodging the buck-passers, is on his way to the Hula Bowl in Honolulu, where he likely will find palm trees waving in the breeze and dollar bills waving in his face.

Appleton, an All-America was named the outstanding lineman in the Cotton Bowl after the Longhorns' 28-6 victory over Navy Wednesday, sidestepped the professional football talent scouts after the game. Asked which way he was leaning, Appleton said:

"I haven't decided a thing."

Appleton is the No. 1 catch still remaining in the checkbook war between the National and American football leagues. He is the only first round draft choice in either league not committed.

The Pittsburgh Steelers traded flanker Buddy Dial to Dallas for the NFL rights to Appleton. The Houston Oilers hold the AFL rights.

Appleton became the last remaining No. 1 pick up for grabs when the NFL signed the much-pursued Nebraska linemen, All-America guard Bob Brown and tackle Lloyd Voss, after the Cornhuskers' 13-7 Orange Bowl victory over Auburn.

Brown signed with the Philadelphia Eagles and Voss with the Green Bay Packers, giving the NFL signed contracts from 12 of their 14 first-round draft picks. Brown also was the No. 1 pick of Denver in the AFL, and Voss was second round selection of the AFL's New York Jets.

The NHL has lost only one of its first-round selections to the AFL—Southern California quarterback Pete Beathard, who passed up Detroit to sign with the Kansas City Chiefs. The AFL has signed only two of its eight first - round selections—Beathard and Ohio State fullback Matt Snell, by the Jets.

In addition, Oakland's AFL entry claims it has signed No 1 pick Tony Lorick, Arizona State halfback. Baltimore in the NFL says it also has a signed contract from Lorick.

Finnish Jumpers Dominate Meet

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany (AP)—Finnish ski jumpers have won three out of the first four places in the New Year's ski jump with Veikko Kankkenon leading the way.

Kankkonen won Wednesday's competition, second event of a four-part competition, with a point total of 225.7 on jumps of 278-feet-10½ and 282-2.

Kene Koflarek of Duluth, Minn., finished fifth, twice jumping 270-8 for 210-7 points. John Balfanz of Minneapolis was 15th with leaps of 255-11 and 260-10.

Besides Kankkonen, Nilo Haoonen was second and Ensio Hyytiae fourth for Finland.

Illini Win Third Time In Historic Rose Bowl

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)— Rugged Big Ten champion Illinois still owns a perfect Rose Bowl record, riding to success on the shoulders of a brawny fullback for the third time in the granddaddy of all bowl games.

It was Jim Grabowski, a 207-pound sophomore who did it Wednesday, leading Illinois to a 17-7 come-from-behind triumph of Big Six titlist Washington.

To 100,000 fans, sundrenched in 85-degree weather and countless TV fans, perhaps the first quarter injury of Washington quarterback Bill Douglas might have been the determining factor in the puncturing of Huskie Coach Jim Owens' Rose Bowl charm.

It was not a game of spectacular offense and it had a lot of errors.

There were 10 fumbles, five by each team, and three stolen Washington passes. But it also had Grabowski ripping through the stubborn Huskies for 125 yards on 23 carries.

That alone wore down Washington, which led 7-3 at halftime, and won Grabowski the outstanding player of the game award given by the Helms foundation.

Assistant Coach Bill Tate won the same honor for his hero's role in Illinois' 40-7 Rose Bowl rout of Stanford in the 1952 game. Fullback Tate carried 20 times for 150 yards in that one-sided contest.

Game Statistics

	ILL.	WASH
First downs	22	12
Rushing yardage	291	114
Passing yardage	59	69
Passes	6-15	8-19
Passes intercepted by	3	0
Punts	4-39	3-43
Fumbles lost	3	3
Yards penalized	64	25

But Tate acknowledged in the gleeful Illini dressing room later:

"Grabowski was better than I was and maybe better than Julie Rykovich was in the 1947 Rose Bowl game."

In the 1947 Illinois 45-14 belting of UCLA, fullback Rykovich and Buddy Young shared outstanding player honors.

Although a regular in the 1962 season, Siler had a tough time of it, with three interceptions, two of which were snagged by defensive star George Donnelly and led to both Illini touchdowns in the second half.

Donnelly's final filch late in the third quarter came on the Illini 14, not only squelching the final Huskie threat but also precipitating an 85-yard Illinois scoring drive.

Rangers Again Belt Chicago

By United Press International

Loose talk sunk ships during the war and the same thing could torpedo the Chicago Black Hawks' chances in the National Hockey League.

The fifth-place New York Rangers, it seems became a bit red-necked when word drifted back to them the Black Hawks considered them "cousins" after Chicago beat them five times.

Whereupon the Rangers got their dander up and not only defeated the first-place Hawks for the first time a week ago, but also did the same thing again, 5-2, at Chicago Wednesday night.

It was only the second setback at home for the Hawks in 18 games this season and reduced their first place margin to four points over the Montreal Canadiens, who played a 3-3 tie with the Boston Bruins.

Goals by Vic Hadfield and Larry Cahan gave the Rangers a 2-0 jump in the first period and they took a four-goal lead in the second period on scores by Val Fonteyne and Don Marshall before Bobby Hull registered Chicago's first marker.

The Canadiens took over sole possession of second place by virtue of their deadlock with the Bruins, who have yet to beat them this season.

Boston took a 3-1 lead but a pair of third period goals by Bobby Rousseau and Fehn Ferguson produced the tie for Montreal.

Falcons Resume Action With Houston Tonight

HOUSTON, Tex. — Sporting four victories against three defeats in early season games, plus a near-miss showing in the annual Gator Bowl basetball tournament last week, the Air Force Academy's road-weary Falcons will be here tonight to do battle with the Cougars of the University of Houston.

This is the first meeting between these two independent cage teams and Coach Bob Spear's Cadets would like to get the series off to a victorious start.

Winning three of their last four contests, the Falcons have shown a flare for scoring this winter with an average of nearly 72 points per outing. Still, the precision-like Falcons will still depend on their glue-fingered defense which for several seasons has ranked among the best in the nation.

In addition, Spear will be looking for continued improvement from an encouraging crop of sophomores who have recently put new zip into the Air Force attack. Altho only one of these yearlings is expected to start tonight in this southern Texas city, the others are first-line reserves and can be counted on to enter the game early.

This season the Cougars have taken on a "killer" schedule that includes no less than five of the nation's top 10 squads. So Houston, too, will be after a win tonight to fatten the season's record. Last year they finished with a 15-11 overall record.

The Cougars will be without their top gun in 6-7 Lyle Harger, who departed thru graduation, but they will have a couple of transfers who should more than make up for his loss. Among them are 6-6 Jim Jones and 6-8 Warren Young, who came across town from South Texas Junior College. They also have 6-7 veteran DeWayne Bond to battle for Harger's vacated position on the post.

The big show tonight, as far as most fans are concerned, centers around a pair of little men, however. The AFA's 5-8 Johnny Judd is shooting for All-America recognition and currently leads the Falcons in scoring with a 16.1 average in seven games. Also in the backcourt for the Cougars, tho, is a guy that's even smaller in 5-6 Herb Johnson who last year paced the Jacksonville Baptist JC with a sensational 33.5 average.

The lone sophomore expected to start for the Air Force is 6-5 Sam Peshut, who will team with the veteran combination of Judd, Mike Pavich, Roger Head and Rich Porter. Others expected to join the battle quickly are sophomores Scott Etnyre, Ed Sullivan and Jerry Yankee.

Etnyre and Sullivan especially were impressive in the Falcons latest ventures at the Gator Bowl tourney with Etnyre leading the 78-53 win over Florida State in the tournament opener by canning 9 of 10 shots from the field and 8-for-8 at the free throw line for a season's team high of 26 points. Sullivan was helpful on the rebound boards as well as playing a fine floor game.

The Falcons came within a hair's breadth of winning the Gator tourney as they led nearly thruout the game before dropping a 74-68 decision on a flurry of late Florida U. free throws.

This will be the fourth straight game on the road for the Air Force and the Falcons will return to Colorado Springs for a single game against North Dakota next Monday afternoon and then travel for two more against Utah State and Montana State before coming home again.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police searched today for a disgruntled New York Giants fan whose needling of Chicago Bear football players sparked a New Year's Day brawl that resulted in the death of former Bear Tony Parrilli.

Parrilli, 24, who played college football for Illinois, was shot to death and Bear fullback Joe Marconi was belted over the head with a revolver in the men's room scuffle at a plush suburban bowling alley partly owned by Bear end Mike Ditka.

Capt. Herbert Mertes of the Du Page County sheriff's office said Parrilli and an unidentified man started arguing in the washroom of Ditka's bowling alley in suburban Willowbrook.

"As I understand it," Mertes said, "the man was a fan of the Giants and they were arguing about the Bears-Giants championship game."

The Bears defeated the Giants for the National Football League championship last Sunday, 14-10.

The shot that killed Parrilli was fired accidently by Willowbrook Police Chief Robert Winthers, Du Page County authorities said. They said Winthers told them he belted Marconi over the head with a revolver in an attempt to break up the brawl—and the gun discharged, striking Parrilli in the left eye, killing him instantly.

Eight stitches were required to close Marconi's wound, but he was not hospitalized.

State's attorney William J. Bauer said he planned to file no charges against Winthers, and there would be no action in the case until the grand jury convenes the week of Jan. 20.

Deputy Coroner James Clark indicated an inquest would have been held this week — but he delayed it after learning some of the Bears players who will be called to testify planned to leave Chicago Wednesday for the pro bowl game in Los Angeles Jan. 12.

Carlisle Overshadows Staubach

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

His name is Emmett Augustus Carlisle III. They call him Duke for short. But they've been calling him great since he engineered Texas' Cotton Bowl victory over Navy.

Duke Carlisle has been king in Dallas for almost 24 hours now, or since he dropped his "other quarterback" label on the 23-yard line, raced 19 yards on his first carry and continued to steer the national champion Longhorns to a 28-6 walloping of second-ranked Navy.

When he trotted off the field, in the third quarter with the game clinched, Carlisle had passed 58 and 63 yards to Phil Harris for touchdown, bolted nine yards for another and overshadowed the Middies celebrated quarterback—All - America and Heiseman Trophy winner Roger Staubach.

Asked after the game which lineman impressed him most, Staubach offered this key to the outcome of the game:

"Well, they all had me down at one time or another and I didn't notice their numbers."

"Texas did everything a national champion is supposed to do and deserves the No. 1 rating," he said.

Third-ranked Illinois, meanwhile, won the granddaddy of all the college football bowls, overcoming a 7-3 halftime deficity on short touchdown plunges by Jim Warren and Jim Grabowski for a 17-7 Rose Bowl victory in Pasadena over a crippled Washington team.

Ted Davis kicked field goals of 46, 48, 31 and 22 yards for all of Alabama's points in a 12-7 Sugar Bowl triumph over Mississippi at New Orleans and Nebraska rode Dennis Claridge's 68-yard touchdown jaunt and a pair of field goals by Dave Thiesen to a 13-7 Orange Bowl victory over Auburn at Miami.

But the day belonged to Texas from the time Carlisle completed his first pass until he sat down with a Cotton Bowl record for a total offense, gaining 213 yards passing and 54 rushing for a 267 total. Staubach also set a Cotton Bowl record with 21 completions in 31 attempts for 228 yards.

But Staubach's rushing yardage was minus 47, indicating the number of times he met Texas lineman in the Navy backfield.

Staubach scored the only Navy touchdown, a two-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Bill Siler took over for Douglas and engineered a second quarter touchdown drive, capped by Dave Kopay's seven-yard run. Illinois got three points back on Jim Plankerhorn's 32-yard field goal, then intercepted a Siler pass in the third quarter to set up the go-ahead touchdown.

George Donnelly picked off the pass and Mike Taliaferro eventually lobbed a pitch out to Warren, who dashed the final two yards. Grabowski, eating up time and yardage, rushed 11 times in the final drive before cracking over from the one. Grabowski was tapped as the game's outstanding player after gaining with 125 yards in 23 carries.

Alabama kept banging away at Mississippi, but never was able to get beyond the six-yard line. However, Davis, who hasn't run a play from scrimmage since he was injured as a high school quarterback, supplied the points. His 46-yarder and the 48-yarder that followed were the longest in major bowl history.

The Rebels, meanwhile, were unable to score until the fourth quarter when Perry Lee Dunn connected with Larry Smith on a five-yard touchdown pass. Mississippi threatened twice more—Dunn was stopped on the two in a fourth down situation and Billy Piper intercepted a pass in the waning seconds.

At the Orange Bowl, Carlidge broke through the line on the second play of the game and sprinted 68 yards for a Nebraska touchdown. Before the half ended, Thiesen had kicked 31 and 36 yard field goals for a 13-0 lead. But it was Auburn that dominated play after that.

All-America Jimmy Sidle started the Tigers moving, sweeping wide on a 13-yard dash for the first touchdown. Then he ran and passed Auburn 69 yards to the Nebraska 11, where the Cornhuskers stiffened, and knocked down Sidle's fourth down pass with 1:25 left.

Gardner's Utes Crush Cincinnati

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's about time for Utah basketball Coach Jack Gardner to start changing his tune.

The likeable coach of the Running Redskins had good reason for such preseason comments as these:

"We know we have a long way to go."

"I can't be optimistic about this year compared with many others."

"We have to be considered in the role of underdogs."

Sure. It's very understandable. He had only one regular returning from last season's team, was loaded with sophomores and appeared to be hurting for size.

So now the Utes have an 11-1 record, finished their pre-conference season with a 87-68 upset of fourth-ranked Cincinnati Wednesday night and are gunning for national recognition.

The swift, spirited Utes barged out to a 39-31 halftime lead, increased the margin to 12 points after intermission then fought off a Cincinnati rally that closed to within two points, 66-44, with less than two minutes to go.

Only a handful of games were scheduled Wednesday as the colleges took a deep breath from the rigors of the holiday tourneys before jumping into conference play.

In the only other major games Georgia edged Alabama 49-47, Louisville romped over Marquette 85-67, Rhode Island upset Memphis State 68-66 and Toledo routed Kent State 75-57.

Texas Linemen Engineer Victory Over Navy in Cotton Bowl Clash

By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer

DALLAS (UPI) — The backs made the headlines, but both coaches agreed tooay that the other team's line was the key factor in Texas quarterback Duke Carlisle's architecture of a 28-6 victory over Navy in the 28th annual Cotton Bowl.

Texas deserted its usual ball control tactics and took to the air-lanes to lay the foundtion for victory and the coach of the natin's national champion Longhorns, Darrell Royal, said the change in strategy was forced by Navy's defense which "jammed up on us."

Navy's heralded All-America Heisman Trophy winning quarterback, jolly Roger Staubach, had a fine day statistically, but his effectiveness was humiliatingly unsuccessful because of a Texas line that, in Middie Coach Wayne Hardin's words, "simply kept coming and coming."

Carlisle was the hero of the game offensively by throwing 58 and 63-yard scoring passes to fleet wingback Phil Harris and darting nine big yards for another touchdown to boost Texas into a 21-0 lead that smothered Navy's hopes before halftime.

But, the same crew of linemen which held Navy to a minus 14 yards rushing was performing an equally magnificent chore on offense by giving him ample time to throw or work his run-pass options to a new Cotton Bowl record total offense of 267 yards.

Game Statistics

	TEXAS	NAVY
First downs	18	16
Rushing yardage	168	14
Passing yardage	234	227
Passes	8-21	22-34
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	3-43	6-37
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	72	35

All-America tackle Scott Appleton, who shared "outstanding" honors with Carlisle by overwhelming vote margins, led this Longhorn line stampede. But, at best, his play was just a shade better than that of such teammates as tackle Staley Faulkner and guards George Brucks and Tommy Nobis.

Staubach, who was thrown 55 yards in losses by this raging front foursome, wound up with a deceptively impressive looking passing record of 21 hits in 31 tries for 228 yards — both Cotton Bowl records. Ed Orr caught nine of them for another bowl high.

But, his moments of satisfaction were limited to one 75-yard drive in the fourth period — after Texas had a 28-0 lead — when he passed the Middies down to the two-yard line from where he ran it over.

Texas, which Hardin and his once-skeptical players admitted had convinced them it really was the nation's No. 1 team, collected its fourth touchdown after Carlisle had gone to the sidelines with 19 minutes left in the game.

It came on a two-yard surge by fullback Harold Phillip after reserve quarterback Tommy Wade had passed the Longhorns to within that range.

Staubach probably summed up the game in 22 words:

"Texas didn't mess around. They hit hard and they kept the pressure on all the time. No. 1 they deserve to be."

CARLISLE ROLLS ON—Duke Carlisle (11), University of Texas quarterback, gets away from three Navy players: Tom Holden (67) guard; Bruce Kenton (52) center; and John Mickleson (89) to start on a nine-yard run that netted a touchdown for Texas in the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas, Wednesday. Eagles Sign Broncos' Top Choice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas tackle Scott Appleton, skillfully dodging the buck-passers, is on his way to the Hula Bowl in Honolulu, where he likely will find palm trees waving in the breeze and dollar bills waving in his face.

Appleton, an All-America was named the outstanding lineman in the Cotton Bowl after the Longhorns' 28-6 victory over Navy Wednesday, sidestepped the professional football talent scouts after the game. Asked which way he was leaning, Appleton said:

"I haven't decided a thing."

Appleton is the No. 1 catch still remaining in the checkbook war between the National and American football leagues. He is the only first round draft choice in either league not committed.

The Pittsburgh Steelers traded flanker Buddy Dial to Dallas for the NFL rights to Appleton The Houston Oilers hold the AFL rights.

Appleton became the last remaining No. 1 pick up for grabs when the NFL signed the much-pursued Nebraska linemen, All-America guard Bob Brown and tackle Lloyd Voss, after the Cornhuskers' 13-7 Orange Bowl victory over Auburn.

Brown signed with the Philadelphia Eagles and Voss with the Green Bay Packers, giving the NFL signed contracts from 12 of their 14 first-round draft picks. Brown also was the No. 1 pick of Denver in the AFL, and Voss was second round selection of the AFL's New York Jets.

The NHL has lost only one of its first-round selections to the AFL—Southern California quarterback Pete Beathard, who passed up Detroit to sign with the Kansas City Chiefs. The AFL has signed only two of its eight first - round selections—Beathard and Ohio State fullback Matt Snell, by the Jets.

In addition, Oakland's AFL entry claims it has signed No 1 pick Tony Lorick, Arizona State halfback. Baltimore in the NFL says it also has a signed contract from Lorick.

RECORD FIELD GOAL MAKES THE DIFFERENCE—Alabama's Tim Davis (40) toes a 48-yard field goal in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans to beat Mississippi, 12-7, New Year's day. Davis kicked four three pointers and this one set a record for the Sugar Bowl. Holding is Benny Nelson (28). Attempting to block are Mississippi's Fred Roberts (42) and Bo Aldridge (72). Gives Tide Upset

Alabama Kicking Star Is Story in Sugar Bowl

By CARROLL P. TROSCLAIR

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—You won't find his name listed on the first three teams. The only thing to set him off from the multitude of other subs is the notation "K.S." — kicking specialist — beside his name.

He is Tim Davis of Alabama, and you can bet that Coach Johnny Vaught and his University of Mississippi team know who Davis is today.

Davis' record shattering performance in the Sugar Bowl football game Wednesday gave Alabama a 12-7 upset over Southeastern Conference champion Mississippi. His four field goals of 48, 46, 31 and 22 yards literally shook the Southern football world.

Never before had anyone kicked four, or even three, field goals in the 30-year history of the Sugar Bowl. Never before had anyone kicked a 40-yarder, much less a 46 and a 48 yarder, in the Sugar Bowl.

The Alabama defense did not give Ole Miss a first down in the first half, and did not budge until the last quarter.

When the game was at stake on the two-yard line, the Alabama defense held solidly. Tide players recovered six fumbles and intercepted three passes against the seventh-ranked team in the nation, a team that seldom made mistakes.

Sophomore Steve Sloan was a stand-out. He replaced Joe Namath, Alabama's sensational quarterback who was dismissed from the squad early in December. Sloan went through the 1963 season wihout completing a pass. In the first quarter Wednesday he completed three and sparked the drive that set up Davis' first field goal.

Game Statistics

	ALABAMA	MISS.
First downs	14	9
Rushing yardage	165	177
Passing yardage	29	171
Passes	3-11	11-21
Passes intercepted by	3	1
Punts	5-37	4-44
Fumbles lost	3	6
Yards penalized	15	45

Johnny Vaught and Mississippi have seldom experienced such misery. The Rebels fumled an almost unbelievable 11 times, a Sugar Bowl record.

Perry Lee Dunn, the Ole Miss quarterback who was signed by the Dallas Cowboys right after the game, completed eight out of 10 passes, most of them in the desperate fourth quarter.

"We just couldn't seem to get started," he said after the game.

But Ole Miss looked like its brilliant self for several minutes. Mississippi scored on a Dunn pass to Larry Smith on the three, and Smith ran into the end zone for Ole Miss' lone touchdown. Billy Carl Irwin made the extra point.

Dunn then led another Mississippi march to the two-yardline, but Alabama held.

Invaders Continue Winning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Denver Invaders waited until the last three minutes Wednesday night and then scored two goals to win a 4-1 Western Hockey League victory over the San Francisco Seals.

The rally staged by the Invaders, who widened their already wide lead at the top of the WHL, was led by Gordon Redahl. With only 2:52 left in the game and the score tied 1-1, he took a pass from Lou Jankowski and flipped the puck into the net from 12 feet away.

U. S. Olympic Hockey Team Leaves For European Tour

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—The man who isn't there poses a problem for the U.S. Olympic hockey team.

He's goalie Jack McCartan, who sparked the U.S. to its only Olympic title four years ago with a brilliant performance.

Now McCartan is a professional and America's hopes ride with Tom Yurkevich, a 28-year-old veteran who plays with Rochester, Minn., in the United States Hockey League, and 21-year-old Pat Rupp from Detroit, who plays with the Philadelphia Ramblers of the Eastern League.

"The big question is whether our goalies can possibly be as good as McCartan was," says Coach Eddie Jeremiah of Dartmouth. "He had as fantastic a series as any goalie I've ever seen.

"And in such a short series as the Olympics the goaltending is awfully important. Having a hot goalie is like having a stopper on your pitching staff in baseball."

The Olympians concluded the American phase of their exhibition schedule Wednesday night with a 16-7-2 record by defeating the St. Nicholas Hockey Club of New York 6-3 and Princeton 6-2. Each game consisted of two 15-minute periods.

The team leaves Friday for an 11-game European tour before the Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria, from Jan. 29-Feb. 9. The Americans face Romania on Jan. 28 in a pre-Olympic qualifying round. The winner plays in the top half of the 16-team field and is eligible for the championship.

"I know we're on the spot as the defending champ," Jeremiah said. "But this team is just as strong as the 1960 team. They've shown excellent skating and excellent passing and they've played beyond our expectations. We beat the Czechoslovakian Olympic team 6-4, and the Windsor Maroons, one of Canada's top clubs, 3-2.

The Olympians got a lift with the recent addition of Bill and Roger Christian, the brothers from Warroad, Minn., who starred for the 1960 champions. The Christians were able to take time off from their construction business to join the team.

Bears, Hornets Take Lead in AHL Divisions

By United Press International

New Year's Day victories boosted the Pittsburgh Hornets and the Hershey Bears into undisputed leads in the two divisions of the American Hockey League.

Pittsburgh, the league's winningest team, was forced into an extra period to defeat the Providence Reds, 4-3, at Providence, getting the winning marker at 5:25 of the extra session when Yves Locas lit the lamp.

The victory moved the Hornets two points ahead of the Cleveland Barons, who dropped a 3-2 holiday decision to Hershey.

The two points Hershey picked up enabled the Bears to break out of a three-way tie in the Eastern Division with Providence and Baltimore. Hershey picked up two goals in the first 78 seconds of play — one by Mike Nykoluk at 1:08 and the other by Pete Conacher only 10 seconds later — and stayed in front the rest of the way.

DU Shuts Out McMasters Icers In Non-Loop Tilt

DENVER (UPI)—Denver University sophomore goalie Buddy Blom picked up his first varsity shutout Wednesday night as the Pioneers hung a 5-0 defeat on McMaster University of Hamilton. Ont., in a non-league hockey game.

Blom had a quiet night in the nets as his teammates throttled the McMaster's offensive drive. Blom was credited with only 16 saves. McMaster goaltender John Payne had 38 saves.

Huskers Give Big Eight New Negotiating Point

By FRANK EIDGE

MIAMI (UPI) — Big Eight officials have a straight flush to spread before the Orange Bowl Committee today in the high stakes negotiations for the football classic.

Nebraska, the school that "couldn't win a major bowl game," dealt the 13-7 winning cards over Auburn in the game that grossed about $192,000 per team in Wednesday's 30th annual New Year's spectacle before 72,647 sun-warmed fans.

After 10 years, the Orange Bowl moguls have been thinking seriously about ending their ties with the Big Eight to furnish the conference champion as one of the competitors. The decision whether to renew the Big Eight contract which expired Wednesday night could come in the next couple of days.

Nebraska's burly Cornhuskers stepped into the 70-degree heat as one-point underdogs to Auburn and with an 0-2 record in major bowls, including an ignominious 34-7 defeat by Duke in the 1955 Orange Bowl.

Made Record Run

But on such little things as a play designed to gain only two or three yards are victories and big stakes won. Nebraska quarterback Dennis Claridge belted a record 68 yards for a touchdown on just such a play and it threw the Auburn Tigers into fumbling ineptitude for the entire first half.

Game Statistics

	AUBURN	NEBR.
First downs	17	11
Rushing yardage	126	204
Passing yardage	137	30
Passes	14-27	4-9
Passes intercepted by	0	1
Punts	6-35	7-38
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	39	65

The play came on the second crack from scrimmage and Claridge admitted at game end, "it surprised me as much as it surprised Auburn."

Soon after, halfback Frank Selich broke loose for a 22-yard punt return that set Nebraska on the track for a 31-yard field goal by Dave Theise, who had kicked the extra point after Claridge's touchdown gallop.

A punt fumbled by halfback George Rose deep in Auburn territory set the stage for Theisen's 36-yard field goal in the second period that gave Nebraska 13-0 halftime lead.

Auburn Stormed Back

Auburn, led by lean and hungry quarterback Jimmy Sidle, found itself to make the second half a different ball game. His running and passing carried the Alabamans on a 71-yard touchdown march in the third period. Sidle swept 13 yards around his left end for the score and Woody Woodall booted the extra point.

Sidle got Auburn's Tigers going again in the final period. His passes featured a 69-yard thrust but at the Nebraska 11, the Cornhuskers rose to knock down a fourth down pass and take possession with 1:30 minutes remaining. Claridge easily managed to run up the clock for the victory that may mean more than just prestige for the Cornhuskers and the Big Eight.

Pirates Launch DPL Slate Against Regis Friday Nite

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

At the onset of the basketball season, the Pirates of St. Mary's — Denver Parochial League defending champions — didn't expect to fair too highly in the pennant chase.

But the Bucs, under the new management of Dan Wright, have developed into a top flight cage team despite losing their entire starting team to graduation last June.

Wright's charges launch their DPL campaign Friday night at the Pirate Gymnasium when they host the loop's perennial power, Regis. Tip-off time is slated for 8 p.m.

The Pirates wrote a 4-0 won-loss record in non-league play defeating the Pikes Peak League contender from Harrison twice, and downing Widefield and Pueblo County.

Rebounding and reserve strength have been the Pirates' strong points in their pre-league encounters, and the St. Mary's cagers have the potential to pose a serious threat to the pennant seekers.

Friday's outing with DPL favorite Regis should afford the Pirates their really first test of the season. In all four games the Bucs have gone unchallenged with the exception of their last tilt against Harrison when St. Mary's pulled a 38-33 squeaker over the Panthers.

Wright will count heavily on his three big men — 6-5 Ralph Layman, 6-3 Dick Pfalmer, and 6-2 Mike Conway — to lead the Pirates to victory in their DPL opener against the Raiders, Friday night.

Conway, in addition to his scoring, aids the Pirates in rebounding. But Pfalmer and Layman have proven successful under the boards to give the Bucs supremacy in that department. Conway leads the Catholic school squad in scoring with 44 points via 19 field goals and six charity tosses.

Tom McCarthy has taken over the court general's role with authority and the 5-11 guard has guided the Pirates offense and defense to a successful pre-league campaign. How the ball hawk will fair against Regis and the other DPL teams could be the key to the Bucs' success in defending their first league championship. McCarthy is second in team scoring with 37 points, and the junior guard leads in assists.

In their last outing, the Pirates managed to hurdle Harrison for the second time with Conway leading the way with 14 points. In that non-league contest, Conway was the lone Buc to score in the double figures as the Panther defense took a strong hold.

The previous meeting between the two schools found St. Mary's recording a 59-46 overwhelming victory with Pfalmer, McCarthy, and Conway spearheading the win.

Wright rated Pfalmer as the most improved cager on the Pirate squad at the beginning of the season and the senior forward has lived up to that rating. Pfalmer has pumped in 35 points to earn a third spot in the team's individual scoring race.

Grudge Mat Bout Scheduled

A grudge match that's liable to have the ring rocking before the evening's over is slated tonight as the feature of the professional wrestling card at the City Auditorium. The first of three bouts will start at 8:30 p.m.

Wild Bill Fletcher and Mercules McIntire, a couple of ruffians who couldn't care less about rules and regulations, will tangle in the feature that's billed as a no-holds-barred affair with no time limit. The first one to say "uncle" twice will come out second best in that difference of opinion that started a couple weeks ago.

The two meanies have been creating mayhem as partners on tag teams since coming to Colorado, but there have been a few bruised feelings ever since Fletcher got slightly mixed up as to who his partner was and he belted McIntire with a good right cross.

Well, McIntire took a dim view of his "partner's" help and it finally took a crew of three to seperate the two. Now they will continue where they left off only hardly as partners tonight. McIntire holds a 40-pound advantage over the 220-pound McIntire.

In the semi-final match, The Green Shadow and newcomer Pedro Gonzales will show off a few hammer locks and assorted holds in another two of three falls match with a one hour time limit. The Shadow, a masked man, comes in with an impressive local record, but he'll be hard pressed to hold off the 230-pound Gonsales from Monterrey, Mexico.

Opening the card in a one fall match will be Rocky Smith of Little Rock, Ark., and Tim Hollis from Houston in a civil war battle with the north's representative missing. Both are young stars eager to make an impression here and with each preferring to stick with the rules it should be a fine exhibition of mat tactics.

Annual Skiers Training Trust Races Slated to End Today With Giant Slalom

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI)—The annual Skiers Training Trust Races, the first major ski competition in the nation this season, will end here today with the running of the giant slalom.

Wednesday, John Clough of New London, N.H., and Karen Korfanta of Pinedale, Wyo., won the slalom events.

Clough tied for third place in the men's downhill race Tuesday and Miss Korfanta tied for fifth in the women's downhill.

Clough, a student at Middlebury College, picked up a lead of better than two seconds in the first run of the slalom, charging over the 60-gate course in 50.6 seconds. Usually with that much of a lead, a slalom racer takes it easy on the second run, but Clough spurned caution and turned in the third fastest time over the 55-gate second course for a total time of 100.6 seconds.

Myke Barr of Aspen, a Denver University student, won the second run but was far behind on the first run. Barr won the downhill Tuesday.

Rebel Ryan of Rutland, Vt., was runnerup to Clough on the first run but fell down on the second.

Bob Kiesel of Steamboat Springs, who almost beat Barr in the downhill, turned in the second best total time in the slalom, 103.9 seconds. Kiesel is a freshman at Denver U.

Miss Korfanta, a Utah University coed, won the women's slalom despite tough competition on the second run from Virginia Birimisa of Mount Shasta, Calif., and Sharon Dillingham of Aspen. Miss Korfanta's total time for the two runs was 111.2 seconds. Miss Birimisa's time was 112.6 and Miss Dillingham's 112.7.

The three days of races are the climax of a 12-day training camp designed to prepare racers for international competition.

NCAA Annual Convention

NEW YORK (AP)—The official forecast is for calm, smooth sailing, but squalls are a definite possibility for the week-long annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, governing body for most of the nation's collegiate athletics.

The convention proper doesn't open until next Monday, but various coaching groups and associations begin their meetings Friday, including the baseball and track groups.

And it's from one such group—the Football Rules Committee—that one of the major issues could develop. That involves the controversial substitution rule used this season for the first time.

The committee has circulated a questionaire concerning the rule and is expected to make the results public, possibily along with recommendations for a change.

In all 22 groups and committees have meetings scheduled either before or during the convention of the association that now counts a membership of 612 colleges and universities.

RECORD FIELD GOAL MAKES THE DIFFERENCE—Alabama's Tim Davis (40) toes a 48-yard field goal in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans to beat Mississippi, 12-7, New Year's day. Davis kicked four three pointers and this one set a record for the Sugar Bowl. Holding is Benny Nelson (28). Attempting to block are Mississippi's Fred Roberts (42) and Bo Aldridge (72). Gives Tide Upset

By CARROLL P. TROSCLAIR

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—You won't find his name listed on the first three teams. The only thing to set him off from the multitude of other subs is the notation "K.S." — kicking specialist — beside his name.

He is Tim Davis of Alabama, and you can bet that Coach Johnny Vaught and his University of Mississippi team know who Davis is today.

Davis' record shattering performance in the Sugar Bowl football game Wednesday gave Alabama a 12-7 upset over Southeastern Conference champion Mississippi. His four field goals of 48, 46, 31 and 22 yards literally shook the Southern football world.

Never before had anyone kicked four, or even three, field goals in the 30-year history of the Sugar Bowl. Never before had anyone kicked a 40-yarder, much less a 46 and a 48 yarder, in the Sugar Bowl.

Sportswriters covering the game made him an almost unanimous choice for most valable player in the game.

The Alabama defense did not give Ole Miss a first down in the first half, and did not budge until the last quarter.

When the game was at stake on the two-yard line, the Alabama defense held solidly. Tide players recovered six fumbles and intercepted three passes against the seventh-ranked team in the nation, a team that seldom made mistakes.

Sophomore Steve Sloan was a stand-out. He replaced Joe Namath, Alabama's sensational quarterback who was dismissed from the squad early in December. Sloan went through the 1963 season wihout completing a pass. In the first quarter Wednesday he completed three and sparked the drive that set up Davis' first field goal.

Johnny Vaught and Mississippi have seldom experienced such misery. The Rebels fumbled an almost unbelievable 11 times, a Sugar Bowl record.

Perry Lee Dunn, the Ole Miss quarterback who was signed by the Dallas Cowboys right after the game, completed eight out of 10 passes, most of them in the desperate fourth quarter.

"We just couldn't seem to get started," he said after the game.

But Ole Miss looked like its brilliant self for several minutes. Mississippi scored on a Dunn pass to Larry Smith on the three, and Smith ran into the end zone for Ole Miss' lone touchdown. Billy Carl Irwin made the extra point.

Dunn then led another Mississippi march to the two-yard-line, but Alabama held.

Invaders Continue Winning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Denver Invaders waited until the last three minutes Wednesday night and then scored two goals to win a 4-1 Western Hockey League victory over the San Francisco Seals.

The rally staged by the Invaders, who widened their already wide lead at the top of the WHL, was led by Gordon Redahl. With only 2:52 left in the game and the score tied 1-1, he took a pass from Lou Jankowski and flipped the puck into the net from 12 feet away.

U. S. Olympic Hockey Team Leaves For European Tour

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—The man who isn't there poses a problem for the U.S. Olympic hockey team.

He's goalie Jack McCartan, who sparked the U.S. to its only Olympic title four years ago with a brilliant performance.

Now McCartan is a professional and America's hopes ride with Tom Yurkevich, a 28-year-old veteran who plays with Rochester, Minn., in the United States Hockey League, and 21-year-old Pat Rupp from Detroit, who plays with the Philadelphia Ramblers of the Eastern League.

"The big question is whether our goalies can possibly be as good as McCartan was," says Coach Eddie Jeremiah of Dartmouth. "He had as fantastic a series as any goalie I've ever seen.

"And in such a short series as the Olympics the goaltending is awfully important. Having a hot goalie is like having a stopper on your pitching staff in baseball."

The Olympians concluded the American phase of their exhibition schedule Wednesday night with a 16-7-2 record by defeating the St. Nicholas Hockey Club of New York 6-3 and Princeton 6-2. Each game consisted of two 15-minute periods.

The team leaves Friday for an 11-game European tour before the Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria, from Jan. 29-Feb. 9. The Americans face Romania on Jan. 28 in a pre-Olympic qualifying round. The winner plays in the top half of the 16-team field and is eligible for the championship.

"I know we're on the spot as the defending champ," Jeremiah said. "But this team is just as strong as the 1960 team. They've shown excellent skating and excellent passing and they've played beyond our expectations. We beat the Czechoslovakian Olympic team 6-4, and the Windsor Maroons, one of Canada's top clubs, 3-2.

The Olympians got a lift with the recent addition of Bill and Roger Christian, the brothers from Warroad, Minn., who starred for the 1960 champions. The Christians were able to take time off from their construction business to join the team.

Bears, Hornets Take Lead in AHL Divisions

By United Press International

New Year's Day victories boosted the Pittsburgh Hornets and the Hershey Bears into undisputed leads in the two divisions of the American Hockey League.

Pittsburgh, the league's winningest team, was forced into an extra period to defeat the Providence Reds, 4-3, at Providence, getting the winning marker at 5:25 of the extra session when Yves Locas lit the lamp.

The victory moved the Hornets two points ahead of the Cleveland Barons, who dropped a 3-2 holiday decision to Hershey.

The two points Hershey picked up enabled the Bears to break out of a three-way tie in the Eastern Division with Providence and Baltimore. Hershey picked up two goals in the first 78 seconds of play — one by Mike Nykoluk at 1:08 and the other by Pete Conacher only 10 seconds later — and stayed in front the rest of the way.

DU Shuts Out McMasters Icers In Non-Loop Tilt

DENVER (UPI)—Denver University sophomore goalie Buddy Blom picked up his first varsity shutout Wednesday night as the Pioneers hung a 5-0 defeat on McMaster University of Hamilton, Ont., in a non-league hockey game.

Blom had a quiet night in the nets as his teammates throttled the McMaster's offensive drive. Blom was credited with only 16 saves. McMaster goaltender John Payne had 38 saves.

Annual Skiers Training Trust Races Slated to End Today With Giant Slalom

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI)—The annual Skiers Training Trust Races, the first major ski competition in the nation this season, will end here today with the running of the giant slalom.

Wednesday, John Clough of New London, N.H., and Karen Korfanta of Pinedale, Wyo., won the slalom events.

Clough tied for third place in the men's downhill race Tuesday and Miss Korfanta tied for fifth in the women's downhill.

Clough, a student at Middlebury College, picked up a lead of better than two seconds in the first run of the slalom, charging over the 60-gate course in 50.6 seconds. Usually with that much of a lead, a slalom racer takes it easy on the second run, but Clough spurned caution and turned in the third fastest time over the 55-gate second course for a total time of 100.6 seconds.

Myke Barr of Aspen, a Denver University student, won the second run but was far behind on the first run. Barr won the downhill Tuesday.

Rebel Ryan of Rutland, Vt., was runnerup to Clough on the first run but fell down on the second.

Bob Kiesel of Steamboat Springs, who almost beat Barr in the downhill, turned in the second best total time in the slalom, 103.9 seconds. Kiesel is a freshman at Denver U.

Miss Korfanta, a Utah University coed, won the women's slalom despite tough competition on the second run from Virginia Birimisa of Mount Shasta, Calif., and Sharon Dillingham of Aspen. Miss Korfanta's total time for the two runs was 111.2 seconds. Miss Birimisa's time was 112.6 and Miss Dillingham's 112.7.

The three days of races are the climax of a 12-day training camp designed to prepare racers for international competition.

Huskers Give Big Eight New Negotiating Point

By FRANK EIDGE

MIAMI (UPI) — Big Eight officials have a straight flush to spread before the Orange Bowl Committee today in the high stakes negotiations for the football classic.

Nebraska, the school that "couldn't win a major bowl game," dealt the 13-7 winning cards over Auburn in the game that grossed about $192,000 per team in Wednesday's 30th annual New Year's spectacle before 72,647 sun-warmed fans.

After 10 years, the Orange Bowl moguls have been thinking seriously about ending their ties with the Big Eight to furnish the conference champion as one of the competitors. The decision whether to renew the Big Eight contract which expired Wednesday night could come in the next couple of days.

Nebraska's burly Cornhuskers stepped into the 70-degree heat as one-point underdogs to Auburn and with an 0-2 record in major bowls, including an ignominious 34-7 defeat by Duke in the 1955 Orange Bowl.

Made Record Run

But on such little things as a play designed to gain only two or three yards are victories and big stakes won. Nebraska quarterback Dennis Claridge belted a record 68 yards for a touchdown on just such a play and it threw the Auburn Tigers into fumbling ineptitude for the entire first half.

The play came on the second crack from scrimmage and Claridge admitted at game end, "it surprised me as much as it surprised Auburn."

Soon after, halfback Frank Selich broke loose for a 22-yard punt return that set Nebraska on the track for a 31-yard field goal by Dave Theise, who had kicked the extra point after Claridge's touchdown gallop.

A punt fumbled by halfback George Rose deep in Auburn territory set the stage for Thiesen's 36-yard field goal in the second period that gave Nebraska 13-0 halftime lead.

Auburn Stormed Back

Auburn, led by lean and hungry quarterback Jimmy Sidle, found itself to make the second half a different ball game. His running and passing carried the Alabamans on a 71-yard touchdown march in the third period. Sidle swept 13 yards around his left end for the score and Woody Woodall booted the extra point.

Sidle got Auburn's Tigers going again in the final period. His passes featured a 69-yard thrust but at the Nebraska 11, the Cornhuskers rose to knock down a fourth down pass and take possession with 1:30 minutes remaining. Claridge easily managed to run up the clock for the victory that may mean more than just prestige for the Cornhuskers and the Big Eight.

Pirates Launch DPL Slate Against Regis Friday Nite

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

At the onset of the basketball season, the Pirates of St. Mary's — Denver Parochial League defending champions — didn't expect to fair too highly in the pennant chase.

But the Bucs, under the new management of Dan Wright, have developed into a top flight cage team despite losing their entire starting team to graduation last June.

Wright's charges launch their DPL campaign Friday night at the Pirate Gymnasium when they host the loop's perennial power, Regis. Tip-off time is slated for 8 p.m.

The Pirates wrote a 4-0 won-loss record in non-league play defeating the Pikes Peak League contender from Harrison twice, and downing Widefield and Pueblo County.

Rebounding and reserve strength have been the Pirates' strong points in their pre-league encounters, and the St. Mary's cagers have the potential to pose a serious threat to the pennant seekers.

Friday's outing with DPL favorite Regis should afford the Pirates their really first test of the season. In all four games the Bucs have gone unchallenged with the exception of their last tilt against Harrison when St. Mary's pulled a 38-33 squeaker over the Panthers.

Wright will count heavily on his three big men — 6-5 Ralph Layman, 6-3 Dick Pfalmer, and 6-2 Mike Conway — to lead the Pirates to victory in their DPL opener against the Raiders, Friday night.

Conway, in addition to his scoring, aids the Pirates in rebounding. But Pfalmer and Layman have proven successful under the boards to give the Bucs supremacy in that department. Conway leads the Catholic school squad in scoring with 44 points via 19 field goals and six charity tosses.

Tom McCarthy has taken over the court general's role with authority and the 5-11 guard has guided the Pirates offense and defense to a successful pre-league campaign. How the ball hawk will fair against Regis and the other DPL teams could be the key to the Bucs' success in defending their first league championship. McCarthy is second in team scoring with 37 points, and the junior guard leads in assists.

In their last outing, the Pirates managed to hurdle Harrison for the second time with Conway leading the way with 14 points. In that non-league contest, Conway was the lone Buc to score in the double figures as the Panther defense took a strong hold.

The previous meeting between the two schools found St. Mary's recording a 59-46 overwhelming victory with Pfalmer, McCarthy, and Conway spearheading the win.

Wright rated Pfalmer as the most improved cager on the Pirate squad at the beginning of the season and the senior forward has lived up to that rating. Pfalmer has pumped in 35 points to earn a third spot in the team's individual scoring race.

Grudge Mat Bout Scheduled

A grudge match that's liable to have the ring rocking before the evening's over is slated tonight as the feature of the professional wrestling card at the City Auditorium. The first of three bouts will start at 8:30 p.m.

Wild Bill Fletcher and Mercules McIntire, a couple of ruffians who couldn't care less about rules and regulations, will tangle in the feature that's billed as a no-holds-barred affair with no time limit. The first one to say "uncle" twice will come out second best in that difference of opinion that started a couple weeks ago.

The two meanies have been creating mayhem as partners on tag teams since coming to Colorado, but there have been a few bruised feelings ever since Fletcher got slightly mixed up as to who his partner was and he belted McIntire with a good right cross.

Well, McIntire took a dim view of his "partner's" help and it finally took a crew of three to seperate the two. Now they will continue where they left off only hardly as partners tonight. McIntire holds a 40-pound advantage over the 220-pound McIntire.

In the semi-final match, The Green Shadow and newcomer Pedro Gonzales will show off a few hammer locks and assorted holds in another two of three falls match with a one hour time limit. The Shadow, a masked man, comes in with an impressive local record, but he'll be hard pressed to hold off the 230-pound Gonsales from Monterrey, Mexico.

Opening the card in a one fall match will be Rocky Smith of Little Rock, Ark., and Tim Hollis from Houston in a civil war battle with the north's representative missing. Both are young stars eager to make an impression here and with each preferring to stick with the rules it should be a fine exhibition of mat tactics.

NCAA Annual Convention

NEW YORK (AP)—The official forecast is for calm, smooth sailing, but squalls are a definite possibility for the week-long annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, governing body for most of the nation's collegiate athletics.

The convention proper doesn't open until next Monday, but various coaching groups and associations begin their meetings Friday, including the baseball and track groups.

And it's from one such group—the Football Rules Committee—that one of the major issues could develop. That involves the controversial substutition rule used this season for the first time.

The committee has circulated a questionaire concerning the rule and is expected to make the results public, possibily along with recommendations for a change.

In all 22 groups and committees have meetings scheduled either before or during the convention of the association that now counts a membership of 612 colleges and universities.

Defendant Free on Bond In $40 Million Forgery

By PHILIP J. KEUPER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Anthony (Tino) DeAngelis stood in a small courtroom in Newark, N.J., and calmly stared straight ahead.

He had just heard a federal grand jury accuse him of moving across state lines $40 million in forged warehouse receipts for soybean oil. It was the first formal accusation in a case that has shocked and baffled the financial world on both sides of the Atlantic.

DeAngelis walked out of the courtroom, free on bail. He was still the mystery man in what many observers predict may prove to be one of the biggest financial scandals in American history—a scandal that could cost its victims $100 million.

Some of the world's biggest banks are concerned with the case. So are, among others: commodity exchanges and dealers, export firms, warehousing firms, the New York Stock Exchange, thousands of investors, corporation lawyers, the FBI, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, an angry U.S. senator, storage-tank workers, bankruptcy courts, and—indirectly—the Chicago underworld.

For Wall Street, it has been a nightmare come true Ira Haupt & Co., one of the nation's biggest brokerage firms has gone under, leaving the New York Stock Exchange to rescue the firm's 20,000 clients from loss of money or securities. The rescue operation already has cost the exchange more than $6 million.

DeAngelis worked as a butcher and meat processor after quitting high school in New York at 17. In 1949 he bought control of Adolf Gobel Inc., a hog slaughtering firm. By 1953, Gobel was bankrupt.

Two years later DeAngelis reappeared as president of another firm, Allied Crude Vegetable Oil Refining Corp. In a few years, Allied had become the biggest exporter of fats and oils in the United States. Last month, Allied, too, was bankrupt.

DeAngelis, 48, apparently had hoped to sell vegetable oils to the Soviet Union in the aftermath of the Soviet wheat deal. Buying on credit, Allied accumulated large numbers of contracts for future delivery of vegetable oils — thick liquids used in salad oil or margarine.

A shipping squabble stalled the Soviet-American wheat deal. In turn, prices of vegetable oil contracts dropped sharply on the commodities exchanges. Allied's brokers, Haupt and another New York firm, J. R. Williston & Beane, Inc., asked the company for cash to cover the drop in value of the contracts.

DeAngelis' answer, on Nov. 19, was to file for bankruptcy for Allied.

This left Haupt a creditor for at least $18 million; Williston for $610,000. On Nov. 22—to shore up investor confidence—the New York Stock Exchange said it was liquidating Haupt and would put up as much as $12 million to protect Haupt clients for loss of cash or securities left with the firm. Williston was absorbed by another brokerage firm.

Allied, before its bankruptcy, reportedly had taken delivery on huge amounts of cottonseed and soybean oil. The company had used this oil as collateral to borrow money to buy more vegetable oil.

With Allied bankrupt, its more than 50 credits moved in to have a look at the vegetable oil, supposedly stored in big tanks on the Bayonne, N.J. waterfront. They were stunned, they said, to find most of the oil missing: about a billion pounds in all, enough to fill 15,000 railroad tank cars.

A big export firm, Bunge Corp., said it had made loans of $15.3 million to Allied. For security it held warehouse receipts for 160 million pounds of soybean oil supposedly stored in four tanks. A surveyor found two of the tanks empty, a third half-full and the fourth filled with watered soybean oil.

Banks were alarmed. Some had made big loans, with food oils stored in the tanks near the Allied plant as security.

The FBI began an investigation. In Newark, a federal grand jury was impaneled. DeAngelis asked in bankruptcy court about Allied's dealings, took the Fifth Amendment 58 times on grounds that his answers might incriminate him.

In Washington, Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., called for a government investigation. DeAngelis' companies, said Williams, had once sold the government millions of pounds of salad oil—much of which, claimed the senator, was either inferior or packed in leaky containers.

In Chicago, authorities refused an operating license to a refining corporation of which DeAngelis was part owner, on grounds that one of the officers was associated with other enterprises that were infiltrated by gangsters.

There were further complications involving the 200 storage tanks near the Allied plant, the biggest such storage facility in the East. Most were operated by American Express Warehousing, Ltd., a subsidiary of American Express. Some Allied commodities were stored in these tanks. Others were stored in tanks operated by Harbor Tank Storage Co. A jumble of pipes linked most of the tanks. One Allied worker testified that it would be an easy matter to shuttle liquids from one tank to another.

American Express Warehousing later filed a petition in U.S. District Court here seeking an arrangement with its creditors under Chapter XI of the Bankruptcy Act. Howard L. Clark, American Express Co. president, said the action would not affect the parent company.

DeAngelis broke his silence at a news conference. He charged that the whole affair was the fault of the U.S. government. Agriculture Department forecasts of vegetable oil export sales had proven too high, DeAngelis said, and led Allied into trouble.

"Mr. DeAngelis' troubles," replied an Agriculture Department spokesman, "are not with the Agriculture Department but with his creditors."

Meanwhile, there was growing speculation as to whether most of the missing food oil ever existed.

Donald MacDonald, president of the New York Produce Exchange, said he didn't see how such a vast amount of commodities could disappear.

Two Allied employes testified at a court hearing that they had been logging phony measurements and padding inventory figures on oils in some tanks for the past nine months. Water, said one worker, was pumped into tanks to make them look full.

DeAngelis' indictment by the federal grand jury followed a few days later. The government said he knowingly took 18 forged warehouse receipts from Bayonne to New York during October and November. The receipts, said the government, claimed that Allied had 400 million pounds of soybean oil in storage and were used to obtain loans.

DeAngelis pleaded innocent to the 18-count indictment.

Whatever the outcome of the case, the scandal has already had these effects:

The New York Stock Exchange is considering changing its rules to protect customers of member brokerage firms that also deal in commodities.

Congress may get legislation that would give the government a bigger role in regulating commodities trading.

DeAngelis, as a vegetable oil processor, had the right to trade in cottonseed oil contracts on the New York Produce Exchange without a nickel down. The exchange already has changed this rule.

Tennessee Gets Second Chance For New Play

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway has begun the new year with a second chance for Tennessee Williams' "The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Anymore." It wasn't a very good idea.

Tallulah Bankhead stars in the production which opened Wednesday night at the Brooks Atkinson. She has scenes of fiery flamboyance, but gets caught eventually in the snares and pitfalls of the script—which Williams says she originally inspired him to write.

The play is an extensively revised version of the offering of the same title that had an abbreviated run last season. Although some critics were kindly, the public showed scant interest in the story of an aging grand dame and the mystical, semi-religious youth who comes to her villa.

The basic plot is unaltered, but the author has made drastic changes in characterization and mood and excised some of the more poetic qualities in the lad (portrayed with vehement vigor by Tab Hunter) that were a significant part of the earlier draft.

Along the Zambezi River, in Rhodesia and Nyasaland, tribeswomen knock out four front teeth, smear themselves with red clay and put sticks through their noses. These customs date from slaving days, when the least attractive women were safest.

ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERY

A Bedouin boy, in 1947, searching for a strayed goat in the desolate wilderness of Judea, idly cast a stone into a small opening among the cliffs bordering the Dead Sea. Hearing the shattering of pottery, he investigated and found several large earthen jars, in which were aged scrolls wrapped in foul-smelling linen. His discovery set off a search that yielded many priceless documents—the famed Dead Sea scrolls.

Chipita Park News

By CAROLYN McADAMS — MU 7-9065

The lounge room at Chipita Park Lodge, with its huge fireplace decorated with pine boughs, and a cheery fire gave traditional holiday atmosphere for the Open House party Sunday afternoon, Dec. 29. Sponsored by the Board of Directors of the Chipita Park Home Owners Association, the party was well attended from 2:30 till 4:30 p.m. Holiday punch, coffee, cake, snacks and dips were enjoyed. The Chipita Park Company has recently installed a new furnace in the former dining room at the Lodge, which adjoins the lounge room and summer Post Office. This will enable group meetings to be held through the winter at the Lodge building. Game Nights on Monday evening will continue all year.

Plans to charter a bus and take the members of the three Dens of Cub Scouts, Pack 33, on a trip to La Junta, Saturday, were cancelled with regret for those who planned to go, as there were not enough reservations for the bus. A ceremonial show of the Koshare Indians, put on by the Explorer Scouts Troop, was the attraction planned for the trip. It is hoped at a later date plans can be made for the outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Arsdale and family left Dec. 21 for Cleo Springs, Okla., where they attended a double wedding celebration which occurred Dec. 25, Christmas Day. Mrs. Van Arsdale's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hipsher, observed their Golden Wedding anniversary with an open reception for their many friends at the First Methodist Church on Sunday, Dec. 22, from 2 to 4 p.m. December 25 is also the 25th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Van Arsdale's brother, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hipsher of Wichita, Kan., who came to the family reunion. There were four brothers, a sister and eight grandchildren at the celebration. the Van Arsdale family returned home after Dec. 26.

On Christmas Day the family of Mr. and Mrs. Norton Rosentreter gathered in Boulder, Colo., at the new home of the Rosentreters, 1027 Dellwood Ave. Their five daughters, Beverly, her husband, Orville Anderson, of Green Mountain Falls, and their five chidren, including the infant twin sons born recently; Dorothy, her husband Tom Carter and family, of Denver; Ann and John Pinell, of Colorado Springs; Lois, Mrs. Don Clock, of Chipita Park, and Miss Katy Rosentreter, of Columbia University, where she is preparing for her Peace Corps assignment. Katy will leave the United States Dec. 31, and go to Nigeria, Africa where she will teach at a Teacher's College. The many friends of the Rosentreter family have missed them in our midst.

The annual "Kiddies" Christmas party for families of the VFW Post 4051, was held Sunday, Dec. 22, at 1 p.m. at the Club House. Gifts and goodies for all up to 10 years of age were distributed. The traditional New Years Eve dance, with two live bands, from 9 p.m. till 2 a.m. was given for members and guests, with free favors for all. A Western band played downstairs and a modern band was upstairs for everyone's dancing pleasure.

Mrs. Mary Kennedy gave a morning brunch party Saturday, Dec. 14, at her home, with Mrs. Ben Lehmberg of Colorado Springs co-hostess. Sixteen guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kennedy left Dec. 24 to spend Christmas with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Smith, of Purcell, Okla. Grandchildren Norman Jr., Julie and infant Amanda Jane, two-months-old who saw grandfather Kennedy for the first time, enjoyed a really Merry Santa Claus. Edward Kennedy a senior student at Southwestern University, Weatherford, Oklahoma joined the family reunion with his parents, and other relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy will return to their home after New Years.

Mrs. Gertrude Gill spent Christmas in Salt Lake City with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Glines, and three grandchildren. Paternal grandmother, Mrs. Robert Morgan, of San Francisco, joined the reunion at her son's house, but had to fly to Denver to make connections as her plane could not land in Salt Lake City.

Arriving for the week's holidays in the mountains, Miss Anna and Miss Edith Edwards of Kansas City, Missouri were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Schuler on Mt. Road, Friday Dec. 28. The Edwards sisters are not opening their summer home "Ridgecrest" while here, but are house guests of Mrs. Gertrude Gill.

Mrs. Ellis Evans entertained eight couples Sunday December 22 with an 11 a.m. brunch breakfast. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Lilly, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pierson, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Thomas, all of Colorado Springs, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Jewell, Estes Park; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Landis, Lake George.

Thursday, Dec. 19, Mrs. Ruth Evans invited nine guests to a neighborhood coffee at her home at 10 a.m., to meet her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill, of Lincoln, Neb., who are house guests for the holidays. Dr. Farris Evans, of Wichita, Kan., is visiting his brother the Ellis Evans' for five days.

Among the in-between holiday's festivities was the cocktail party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Wilson from 6 to 8 p.m., Dec. 28, for some 40 guests, and an open house come and go party Sunday, Dec. 29, at 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Ewart.

The sincere sympathy of the community is extended the family of Mrs. L. H. Pinkney, a summer resident, who died at her home in Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 29, after a long illness.

As your correspondent for the Ute Pass communities, Cascade, Chipita Park and Green Mountain Falls, I extend all good wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year. Thanking all of you for your support in writing these news columns. I leave with you the "Legend Of The Christmas Tree"; Joseph, Mary and the infant Child, fleeing to Egypt, and about to be overtaken by the pursuing soldiers of Herod, took refuge under a pine tree. As the soldiers approached, the tree bent its branches to conceal, and save the Holy Family. After the danger had passed, the Child blessed the tree, and ever since a pine cone if sliced lengthwise through the center, shows a tiny white impress of a child's hand.

Borgnine Says His Wedding Is All Planned

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ernest Borgnine reports that his "McHale's Navy" buddies have his wedding to Ethel Merman all planned.

Borgnine returned to the television series this week after his surprise announcement in New York that he and Miss Merman will marry in July. He reported the cast's plans for the event:

"Joe Flynn will give the bride away, Billy Sands and Fuji (Yoshio Yoda) will be bridesmaids, Gavin McLeod will be the ringbearer and Gary Vinson will stand outside the church and cry."

Ernie is naturally ebullient, and since the engagement his spirits have soared.

"She's so vivacious, so marvelous, so—well, I just get carried away when I think about her," he said.

His divorce from Mexican actress Katy Jurado isn't final until June, and there have been reports that he might seek quicker freedom.

"I don't think so," he said, "although Miss Katy Jurado has been very nice to offer to get a Mexican divorce to speed things up. Ethel and I are not in that much of a hurry.

"Both of us realize it's a wait, and we're prepared for it. She has commitments, such as a singing engagement at the Talk of the Town in London starting Feb. 18. I won't be finished with the TV series season until the end of March.

"We know we belong together and we're willing to make the best of it."

The romance was a cyclonic affair, befitting both their personalities. Ernie took another date to a Hollywood party a month ago and heard Miss Merman sing. His reaction: "Holy cow, she's fabulous!" He met her and told her so, also how much his daughter had liked her in "It's A Mad (4) World."

A few days later the hosts of the party, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shribman, asked Ernie if he would like to bring Miss Merman along on a dinner date. Would he!

They had four dates, then Ernie flew to New York the day after Christmas and popped the question at her apartment. Her reply: "I thought you'd never ask."

She is coming here this weekend, and they will make further plans. One matter seems settled: They will make their home here.

"Ethel says she wants only to be a good housewife, although she might do an occasional stint on TV or something like that," said the actor. "She won't do another Broadway show; she made up her mind about that a couple of years ago.

"I don't want her to quit the business entirely. This great talent should never be hidden. She has too much to offer the world."

He added that they have plans to honey moon in Japan, where neither has been.

Viet Nam Will Be Given New Constitution

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A 59-member assembly convened in Saigon today to frame a new constitution and establish a form of government for South Viet Nam based on democratic principles.

The assembly, called the Council of Notables, will have no legislative authority. But it is supposed to serve as an interim link between the Vietnamese people and the provisional government installed by the military leaders who overthrew President Ngo Dinh Diem two months ago.

Made up largely of leading opponents of the Diem regime, the council represents a wide range of political factions.

"I here state once more my unshakeable opposition to dictatorship of whatever kind and whatever origin," Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh told the delegates. Minh, who led the coup, is provisional chief of state.

Presiding at the opening session with Minh were Premier Nguyen Ngoc Tho and Tran Dinh Nam, chairman of the new council. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and other members of the diplomatic corps were present.

Minh rejected both communism and neutralism for South Viet Nam, saying "to tolerate neutralism is to pave the way for communism."

He called for the new constitution to provide a "clearcut separation of powers, an effective protection of individual liberties, and the promotion of a legal and constructive opposition."

But he warned: "We wish to avoid the evil current in nascent democracies, namely the confusion resulting from proliferating political parties."

Soviets and Red China Exchange Usual Greetings

By ANTHONY WHITE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and Communist China have exchanged their usual New Year's protestations of friendship—without a word about the bitter ideological dispute that strains their relationship.

Both greetings predicted the estranged allies would march together to new successes in 1964.

"The friendship between the peoples of China and the Soviet Union is everlasting and unbreakable," said the greeting from Peking. "The Chinese people will continue, as in the past, to wage a fight to defend and strengthen friendship between the Chinese and Soviet peoples."

The message was signed by Communist Chairman Mao Tzetung, Premier Chou En-lai and other leaders.

Khrushchev sent a greeting to Mao Wednesday, saying, "The Soviet people are sincerely happy at the achievements of our friend and ally the Chinese people on their path to socialism."

The greeting also pledged the Soviet Union "to strengthen friendship, unity and solidarity among all countries of socialism (communism)."

The Soviet hierarchy saw in the New Year at a big reception in the Kremlin at which Khrushchev sat next to a surprise guest, ex-Premier Nikolai Bulganin. The gathering of 2,000 persons included foreign diplomats and newsmen.

The goateed Bulganin, 68, was dismissed from party and government posts in 1958 on charges of joining a group opposing Khrushchev. He had not been seen in public for two years.

EULOGIZES KENNEDY

CARACAS (UPI) — President Romulo Betancourt eulogized the late John F. Kennedy Wednesday as "the first U.S. President who ever took a sincere interest in the problems of Latin America."

In a New Year's speech at the Venezuelan "White House," Betancourt said the memory of the assassinated U.S. Chief Executive "will live on in the hearts and minds of Venezuelans."

First state to put a symbol on its automobile license plates was California, says the American Automobile Association.

Defendant Free on Bond In $40 Million Forgery

By PHILIP J. KEUPER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Anthony (Tino) DeAngelis stood in a small courtroom in Newark, N.J., and calmly stared straight ahead.

He had just heard a federal grand jury accuse him of moving across state lines $40 million in forged warehouse receipts for soybean oil. It was the first formal accusation in a case that has shocked and baffled the financial world on both sides of the Atlantic.

DeAngelis walked out of the courtroom, free on bail. He was still the mystery man in what many observers predict may prove to be one of the biggest financial scandals in American history—a scandal that could cost its victims $100 million.

Some of the world's biggest banks are concerned with the case. So are, among others: commodity exchanges and dealers, export firms, warehousing firms, the New York Stock Exchange, thousands of investors, corporation lawyers, the FBI, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, an angry U.S. senator, storage-tank workers, bankruptcy courts, and—indirectly—the Chicago underworld.

For Wall Street, it has been a nightmare come true. Ira Haupt & Co., one of the nation's biggest brokerage firms has gone under, leaving the New York Stock Exchange to rescue the firm's 20,000 clients from loss of money or securities. The rescue operation already has cost the exchange more than $6 million.

DeAngelis worked as a butcher and meat processor after quitting high school in New York at 17. In 1949 he bought control of Adolf Gobel Inc., a hog slaughtering firm. By 1953, Gobel was bankrupt.

Two years later DeAngelis reappeared as president of another firm, Allied Crude Vegetable Oil Refining Corp. In a few years, Allied had become the biggest exporter of fats and oils in the United States. Last month, Allied, too, was bankrupt.

DeAngelis, 48, apparently had hoped to sell vegetable oils to the Soviet Union in the aftermath of the Soviet wheat deal. Buying on credit, Allied accumulated large numbers of contracts for future delivery of vegetable oils — thick liquids used in salad oil or margarine.

A shipping squabble stalled the Soviet-American wheat deal. In turn, prices of vegetable oil contracts dropped sharply on the commodities exchanges. Allied's brokers, Haupt and another New York firm, J. R. Williston & Beane, Inc., asked the company for cash to cover the drop in value of the contracts.

This left Haupt a creditor for at least $18 million; Williston for $610,000. On Nov. 22—to shore up investor confidence—the New York Stock Exchange said it was liquidating Haupt and would put up as much as $12 million to protect Haupt clients for loss of cash or securities left with the firm. Williston was absorbed by another brokerage firm.

Allied, before its bankruptcy, reportedly had taken delivery on huge amounts of cottonseed and soybean oil. The company had used this oil as collateral to borrow money to buy more vegetable oil.

With Allied bankrupt, its more than 50 credits moved in to have a look at the vegetable oil, supposedly stored in big tanks on the Bayonne, N.J. waterfront. They were stunned, they said, to find most of the oil missing: about a billion pounds in all, enough to fill 15,000 railroad tank cars.

A big export firm, Bunge Corp., said it had made loans of $15.3 million to Allied. For security it held warehouse receipts for 160 million pounds of soybean oil supposedly stored in four tanks. A surveyor found two of the tanks empty, a third half-full and the fourth filled with watered soybean oil.

Banks were alarmed. Some had made big loans, with food oils stored in the tanks near the Allied plant as security.

The FBI began an investigation. In Newark, a federal grand jury was impaneled. DeAngelis asked in bankruptcy court about Allied's dealings, took the Fifth Amendment 58 times on grounds that his answers might incriminate him.

In Washington, Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., called for a government investigation. DeAngelis' companies, said Williams, had once sold the government millions of pounds of salad oil—much of which, claimed the senator, was either inferior or packed in leaky containers.

In Chicago, authorities refused an operating license to a refining corporation of which DeAngelis was part owner, on grounds that one of the officers was associated with other enterprises that were infiltrated by gangsters.

There were further complications involving the 200 storage tanks near the Allied plant, the biggest such storage facility in the East. Most were operated by American Express Warehousing, Ltd., a subsidiary of American Express. Some Allied commodities were stored in these tanks. Others were stored in tanks operated by Harbor Tank Storage Co. A jumble of pipes linked most of the tanks. One Allied worker testified that it would be an easy matter to shuttle liquids from one tank to another.

American Express Warehousing later filed a petition in U.S. District Court here seeking an arrangement with its creditors under Chapter XI of the Bankruptcy Act. Howard L. Clark, American Express Co. president, said the action would not affect the parent company.

DeAngelis broke his silence at a news conference. He charged that the whole affair was the fault of the U.S. government. Agriculture Department forecasts of vegetable oil export sales had proven too high, DeAngelis said, and led Allied into trouble.

"Mr. DeAngelis' troubles," replied an Agriculture Department spokesman, "are not with the Agriculture Department but with his creditors."

Meanwhile, there was growing speculation as to whether most of the missing food oil ever existed.

Two Allied employes testified at a court hearing that they had been logging phony measurements and padding inventory figures on oils in some tanks for the past nine months. Water, said one worker, was pumped into tanks to make them look full.

DeAngelis' indictment by the federal grand jury followed a few days later. The government said he knowingly took 18 forged warehouse receipts from Bayonne to New York during October and November. The receipts, said the government, claimed that Allied had 400 million pounds of soybean oil in storage and were used to obtain loans.

Whatever the outcome of the case, the scandal has already had these effects:

The New York Stock Exchange is considering changing its rules to protect customers of member brokerage firms that also deal in commodities.

Congress may get legislation that would give the government a bigger role in regulating commodities trading.

DeAngelis, as a vegetable oil processor, had the right to trade in cottonseed oil contracts on the New York Produce Exchange without a nickel down. The exchange already has changed this rule.

Tennessee Gets Second Chance For New Play

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway has begun the new year with a second chance for Tennessee Williams' "The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Anymore." It wasn't a very good idea.

Tallulah Bankhead stars in the production which opened Wednesday night at the Brooks Atkinson. She has scenes of fiery flamboyance, but gets caught eventually in the snares and pitfalls of the script—which Williams says she originally inspired him to write.

The play is an extensively revised version of the offering of the same title that had an abbreviated run last season. Although some critics were kindly, the public showed scant interest in the story of an aging grand dame and the mystical, semireligious youth who comes to her villa.

The basic plot is unaltered, but the author has made drastic changes in characterization and mood and excised some of the more poetic qualities in the lad (portrayed with vehement vigor by Tab Hunter) that were a significant part of the earlier draft.

ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERY

A Bedouin boy, in 1947, searching for a strayed goat in the desolate wilderness of Judea, idly cast a stone into a small opening among the cliffs bordering the Dead Sea. Hearing the shattering of pottery, he investigated and found several large earthen jars, in which were aged scrolls wrapped in foul-smelling linen. His discovery set off a search that yielded many priceless documents—the famed Dead Sea scrolls.

Chipita Park News

By CAROLYN McADAMS — MU 7-9065

The lounge room at Chipita Park Lodge, with its huge fireplace decorated with pine boughs, and a cheery fire gave traditional holiday atmosphere for the Open House party Sunday afternoon, Dec. 29. Sponsored by the Board of Directors of the Chipita Park Home Owners Association, the party was well attended from 2:30 till 4:30 p.m. Holiday punch, coffee, cake, snacks and dips were enjoyed. The Chipita Park Company has recently installed a new furnace in the former dining room at the Lodge, which adjoins the lounge room and summer Post Office. This will enable group meetings to be held through the winter at the Lodge building. Game Nights on Monday evening will continue all year.

Plans to charter a bus and take the members of the three Dens of Cub Scouts, Pack 33, on a trip to La Junta, Saturday, were cancelled with regret for those who planned to go, as there were not enough reservations for the bus. A ceremonial show of the Koshare Indians, put on by the Explorer Scouts Troop, was the attraction planned for the trip. It is hoped at a later date plans can be made for the outing.

Viet Nam Will Be Given New Constitution

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A 59-member assembly convened in Saigon today to frame a new constitution and establish a form of government for South Viet Nam based on democratic principles.

The assembly, called the Council of Notables, will have no legislative authority. But it is supposed to serve as an interim link between the Vietnamese people and the provisional government installed by the military leaders who overthrew President Ngo Dinh Diem two months ago.

Made up largely of leading opponents of the Diem regime, the council represents a wide range of political factions.

"I here state once more my unshakeable opposition to dictatorship of whatever kind and whatever origin," Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh told the delegates. Minh, who led the coup, is provisional chief of state.

Presiding at the opening session with Minh were Premier Nguyen Ngoc Tho and Tran Dinh Nam, chairman of the new council. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and other members of the diplomatic corps were present.

Minh rejected both communism and neutralism for South Viet Nam, saying "to tolerate neutralism is to pave the way for communism."

He called for the new constitution to provide a "clearcut separation of powers, an effective protection of individual liberties, and the promotion of a legal and constructive opposition."

But he warned: "We wish to avoid the evil current in nascent democracies, namely the confusion resulting from proliferating political parties."

Soviets and Red China Exchange Usual Greetings

By ANTHONY WHITE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and Communist China have exchanged their usual New Year's protestations of friendship—without a word about the bitter ideological dispute that strains their relationship.

Both greetings predicted the estranged allies would march together to new successes in 1964.

"The friendship between the peoples of China and the Soviet Union is everlasting and unbreakable," said the greeting from Peking. "The Chinese people will continue, as in the past, to wage a fight to defend and strengthen friendship between the Chinese and Soviet peoples."

The message was signed by Communist Chairman Mao Tze-tung, Premier Chou En-lai and other leaders.

Khrushchev sent a greeting to Mao Wednesday, saying, "The Soviet people are sincerely happy at the achievements of our friend and ally the Chinese people on their path to socialism."

The greeting also pledged the Soviet Union "to strengthen friendship, unity and solidarity among all countries of socialism (communism)."

The Soviet hierarchy saw in the New Year at a big reception in the Kremlin at which Khrushchev sat next to a surprise guest, ex-Premier Nikolai Bulganin. The gathering of 2,000 persons included foreign diplomats and newsmen.

The goateed Bulganin, 68, was dismissed from party and government posts in 1958 on charges of joining a group opposing Khrushchev. He had not been seen in public for two years.

EULOGIZES KENNEDY

CARACAS (UPI) — President Romulo Betancourt eulogized the late John F. Kennedy Wednesday as "the first U.S. President who ever took a sincere interest in the problems of Latin America."

In a New Year's speech at the Venezuelan "White House," Betancourt said the memory of the assassinated U.S. Chief Executive "will live on in the hearts and minds of Venezuelans."

First state to put a symbol on its automobile license plates was California, says the American Automobile Association.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

FREE SCHOOLING: A commission of leading educators has recommended that two years of college should be available free of cost to all high school graduates.

"Unless opportunity for education beyond the high school can be made available to all then the American promise of individual dignity and freedom can be extended to all," the Educational Policies Commission said in a statement Wednesday.

It emphasized that the two years should be directed primarily at intellectual growth, not vocational or technological training.

The commission is sponsored by the National Education Association and the American Association of School Administrators, and has a membership of 20 leading educators.

REFUGEES RESCUED: The Coast Guard reports it rescued almost 1,000 Cuban refugees in 1963.

The Coast Guard, also assigned the task of preventing hit-and-run raids on Cuba by exiles, said most of the refugees it picked up were on small islands along the route from Cuba, but that some were plucked from small boats.

Adm. E. J. Roland, Coast Guard commandant, said in his yearend report Wednesday that in addition to the refugee rescues, the service answered 37,330 calls for assistance and saved 1,900 persons in 1963.

These problems, Freeman sais, affect 15 million persons in the nation's rural areas.

The secretary said in a New Year's statement that he is particularly concerned with the prospects of a drop in farm income this year and hoped Congress would enact legislation to bolster the market, price and income for producers of wheat, cotton and dairy products.

"The American farmer is deserving of a better shake in the economy — especially in view of his unparalleled success in providing for the needs of his fellow Americans as well as for millions of other people around the world," said Freeman.

FOREIGN AID: Foreign aid officials believe they still have enough money for an economic aid program nearly the size of last year's despite Congress $1.5 billion slash in new funds.

The funds available for overseas arms aid are down sharply from 1963. And the over-all money total for the current 12 months is $1.2 billion less than officials wanted.

But what will ease the strain is the large carryover from money voted in past years.

Officials of the Agency for International Development reported Wednesday that $669,876,000 is available from previously voted funds that were never committed or that have been recovered from unfulfilled projects.

Deaths

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—William Stern, 77, of Fargo, N.D., a director of Northwest Airlines and widely known in political and veterans affairs, died Wednesday after a long illness.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Aurora Walker, 58, a pioneer of Mexico's movie industry and a veteran of the legitimate stage, radio and television, died Wednesday, apparently of a heart attack.

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—J. K. Walsh, 76, editor of the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Gazette from 1912 to 1959, died Wednesday. He was a past president of the Michigan Associated Press Editorial Association and a member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the National Press Club. He was born in Melbourne, Australia, and came to the United States in 1905.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Arthur Sintos Otis, 77, editor of the World Book Co. for 25 years and author of several books, died Tuesday.

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Rabbi Louis D. Gross, 79, for 20 years editor of one of the largest English-language Jewish newspapers in New York, died Tuesday of a heart ailment. A Reform rabbi for 55 years, Gross was editor and publisher of the Jewish Examiner until he retired five years ago. He was born in Chicago.

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Almon Edward Roth, 77, who was credited with helping to establish collective bargaining on San Francisco's once strife-torn waterfront, died Wednesday.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

FREE SCHOOLING: A commission of leading educators has recommended that two years of college should be available free of cost to all high school graduates.

"Unless opportunity for education beyond the high school can be made available to all then the American promise of individual dignity and freedom can be extended to all," the Educational Policies Commission said in a statement Wednesday.

It emphasized that the two years should be directed primarily at intellectual growth, not vocational or technological training.

The commission is sponsored by the National Education Association and the American Association of School Administrators, and has a membership of 20 leading educators.

REFUGEES RESCUED: The Coast Guard reports it rescued almost 1,000 Cuban refugees in 1963.

The Coast Guard, also assigned the task of preventing hit-and-run raids on Cuba by exiles, said most of the refugees it picked up were on small islands along the route from Cuba, but that some were plucked from small boats.

Adm. E. J. Roland, Coast Guard commandant, said in his yearend report Wednesday that in addition to the refugee rescues, the service answered 37,330 calls for assistance and saved 1,900 persons in 1963.

These problems, Freeman sais, affect 15 million persons in the nation's rural areas.

The secretary said in a New Year's statement that he is particularly concerned with the prospects of a drop in farm income this year and hoped Congress would enact legislation to bolster the market, price and income for producers of wheat, cotton and dairy products.

"The American farmer is deserving of a better shake in the economy — especially in view of his unparalleled success in providing for the needs of his fellow Americans as well as for millions of other people around the world," said Freeman.

FOREIGN AID: Foreign aid officials believe they still have enough money for an economic aid program nearly the size of last year's despite Congress $1.5 billion slash in new funds.

The funds available for overseas arms aid are down sharply from 1963. And the over-all money total for the current 12 months is $1.2 billion less than officials wanted.

But what will ease the strain is the large carryover from money voted in past years.

Officials of the Agency for International Development reported Wednesday that $669,876,000 is available from previously voted funds that were never committed or that have been recovered from unfulfilled projects.

Deaths

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)—William Stern, 77, of Fargo, N.D., a director of Northwest Airlines and widely known in political and veterans affairs, died Wednesday after a long illness.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Aurora Walker, 58, a pioneer of Mexico's movie industry and a veteran of the legitimate stage, radio and television, died Wednesday, apparently of a heart attack.

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—J. K. Walsh, 76, editor of the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Gazette from 1912 to 1959, died Wednesday. He was a past president of the Michigan Associated Press Editorial Association and a member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the National Press Club. He was born in Melbourne, Australia, and came to the United States in 1905.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Arthur Sintos Otis, 77, editor of the World Book Co. for 25 years and author of several books, died Tuesday.

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Rabbi Louis D. Gross, 79, for 20 years editor of one of the largest English-language Jewish newspapers in New York, died Tuesday of a heart ailment. A Reform rabbi for 55 years, Gross was editor and publisher of the Jewish Examiner until he retired five years ago. He was born in Chicago.

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Almon Edward Roth, 77, who was credited with helping to establish collective bargaining on San Francisco's once strife-torn waterfront, died Wednesday.

SORDID SIRENS LEADING THIS YEAR'S OSCAR RACE

HOLYWOOD — Blame it on a conspiracy against women or on a rip in Hollywood's moral fiber, but the only parts being written for women these days don't exactly make heroines of our leading ladies. In by-gone days, when movies were more sweetness than blight, good girls won most of the Oscars. Heroines like Mrs. Miniver, Kitty Foyle, Bernadette, the farmer's daughter, and the heiress always copped the honors.

Claudette Colbert was pretty daring in "It Happened One Night" — she shared a room with Clark Gable, but there was a blanket - partition between them. Bette Davis sneaked in a couple times to pick off the prize for "Dangerous" and "Jezebel," but those girls look like Little Eva compared with today's sordid sirens.

Ever since Judy Holliday lived in a sinful state with Paul Douglas in "Born Yesterday," our heroines have been sliding downhill to fame. Bad girls finish first. In the running for this year's prize are Shirley MacLaine, Joanne Woodward, Janis Paige, Romy Schneider, and Elke Sommer — all playing prostitutes. Natalie Wood and Leslie Caron play girls who have children out of wedlock, and will doubtless be nominated for Oscars. Then there's Melinda Mercouri, a madam and a black marketeer to boot in "The Victors"

Oh, for a writer who can give us a heroine who is virtuous and victorious!

Richard Harris due to play a Confederate officer in Columbia's big Civil War story, "Major Dundee," which will be shot in Mexico. His picture, "Sporting Life," is being issued here so academy voters can see it. When Harris finished "Dundee," he'll take on the role of Heathcliffe in Martin Poll's remake of "Wuthering Heights." I don't know why they remake that one. Merle Oberon and Laurence Olivier were perfection. In fact, the picture's running now and cleaning up.

Gale Storm has recuperated from her first two TV series and is ready to take on a third. She and Jack Chertok are working up a new one for Desilu. Her 20-year-old son, Philip Bonnell, attends the University of Southern California, and wants to act. He got himself an agent and landed a job on Mr. Novak. He and Gale did summer stock together the last two seasons.

Cary Grant was all set for the picture David Miller will direct, but didn't have the girl. When they both saw Leslie Caron in "L-Shaped Room," they said, "She's it." Leslie is living proof of what love can do for a girl. When she first arrived here, she wasn't very pretty. After an unhappy marriage, she went to England, fell in love with Director Peter Hall, was married and had two children, and has developed into a superb actress and a beautiful woman.

Ted May Use JFK's Boston Apartment

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY

BOSTON (AP)— The building is nine stories high, and it overlooks the parking lot at the Massachusetts statehouse.

A third floor apartment, No. 36, is one of 52 in the building. It has a living room, two small bedrooms, a bath and a tiny kitchen and dinette.

The name on the lease is John F. Kennedy.

This was the legal home of the late President, a registered voter at that address, 122 Bowdoin St.

Kennedy visited the apartment only once after he was elected president. That was in January of 1960, a week before the inauguration. He stayed in it overnight while in Boston to attend a meeting of the Harvard Board of Overseers and speak to the Massachusetts Legislature.

But it was in this 15 by 22 foot living room that Kennedy made strategy for his campaigns, first for the U.S. House, twice for the U.S. Senate and for nomination and election to the presidency.

Right after World War II, when Kennedy first ran for political office, he had a room at the old Hotel Bellevue on the next corner, close to the apartment of his grandfather, the late John F. Fitzgerald. He rented the apartment in 1947. It was a shabby place in those days, furnished with odds and ends, the stuffing showing in a couple of armchairs.

The apartment got a face lifting when the late President's mother, Rose Kennedy, dropped in for a visit in the early 1950s.

After one look, she called in the building superintendent, the late Joseph Murphy, and had him clear away all the old furniture.

She refurnished it with a desk, a divan and a couple of armchairs, floor and table lamps, and even a few pictures—of ships and seascapes.

Kennedy never carried a key to the apartment. When he'd appear for a stay, Joe Murphy would let him in, and provide breakfast. It usually was the same, two soft-boiled eggs, toast with jam and coffee.

The apartment had another face lifting in 1960 when the President's youngest brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy began his successful campaign for the Senate seat the President had held.

Much of the President's furniture was moved to his Cape Cod home at Hyannis Port.

The two bedrooms became offices, and two of three desks were set up in the living room. Telephones were installed in all the rooms.

The apartment now has been restored somewhat to living quarters. One bedroom is used for storage. The other has a couple of cots in it.

Although the lease still is under the name of John F. Kennedy, Sen. Kennedy said he intends to use it.

As the former legal home of a President, perhaps it should become some sort of a national shrine, but it would be impossible for tourists in any numbers to invade a private apartment house.

There has been one other suggestion—the building should be marked with a plaque, and made an additional point on Boston's Freedom Trail. Tourists follow the trail to see such sights as Faneuil Hall, the "Cradle of Liberty"; the Paul Revere House, Old North Church, and the site of the colonial "Tea Party."

He Would Like More Police Protection

NEW YORK (AP)— On Dec. 23 burglars smashed the cellar door to Herbert Rein's drugstore. He fixed it. They broke in again. He reinforced it.

They chopped a hole in a cinder-block wall. He rebuilt it. They chopped another hole next to the first one. He fixed it.

They chopped a third hole Wednesday.

Rein, asked to list what was taken, said he'd never been able to finish the inventory of losses, mostly drugs, watches and cosmetics.

"I'm not giving up," he said, "but I'd like to get more police protection."

Strict Security Maintained at Game in Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson's daughters, almost unnoticed in the crowd of 75,500 football fans, saw Texas defeat Navy 28 to 6 in the Cotton Bowl Wednesday.

Lynda Bird, 19, a sophomore at the university sat on the Navy side of the field near the 50-yard line. She and her escort, an unidentified midshipman, remained in their seats at halftime and munched hot dogs. Despite her Navy escort, she stood for Texas during the game.

Lucy Baines, 16, had a seat near midfield on the Texas side, but police said she and her party, which they identified only as Secret Service agents, were moved to a section on the same side of the stadium between the 10-yard line and the north goal. However, newsmen were not able to find her.

Photographers were discouraged from taking pictures of the girls. When cameramen edged near or turned long-range cameras on Lynda Bird Johnson, Secret Service agents scowled, and shook their heads, asking the photographers to move on. One Associated Press photographer succeeded in getting a close-up picture, however, of Miss Johnson and her escort.

Security measures for the visit of the Johnson girls were the strictest since the bowl was built 28 years ago.

A Dallas policeman, who asked not to be identified, said the big stadium had been guarded closely all week on the possibility that President Johnson might attend the game. He said three officers remained in the stadium all week and three police cars patrolled the area.

At least 35 detectives spent New Year's Eve in the Cotton Bowl and "many, many more were stationed throughout the stands during the game," he said.

He said the Police Department received word a bomb would be planted in the stadium and "it took 14 hours to determine there wasn't a bomb."

During the first half police asked all persons leaving the gates of the stadium on the side where Lynda Bird sat to sign their names in a register. This was not done on the side where police said Lucy Baines sat.

WROTE ANTHEM

Francis Scott Key, a lawyer, happened to write the U.S. national anthem because he was visiting the British fleet in the Chesapeake trying to arrange for the release of a friend, thus coming to witness the shelling of Fort McHenry, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Strict Security Maintained at Game in Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson's daughters almost unnoticed in the crowd of 75,500 football fans, saw Texas defeat Navy 28 to 6 in the Cotton Bowl Wednesday.

Lynda Bird, 19, a sophomore at the university sat on the Navy side of the field near the 50-yard line. She and her escort, an unidentified midshipman, remained in their seats at halftime and munched hot dogs. Despite her Navy escort, she stood for Texas during the game.

Lucy Baines, 16 had a seat near midfield on the Texas side, but police said she and her party, which they identified only as Secret Service agents, were moved to a section on the same side of the stadium between the 10-yard line and the north goal. However, newsmen were not able to find her.

Photographers were discouraged from taking pictures of the girls. When cameramen edged near or turned long-range cameras on Lynda Bird Johnson, Secret Service agents scowled, and shook their heads, asking the photographers to move on. One Associated Press photographer succeeded in getting a close-up picture, however, of Miss Johnson and her escort.

Security measures for the visit of the Johnson girls were the strictest since the bowl was built 28 years ago.

A Dallas policeman, who asked not to be identified, said the big stadium had been guarded closely all week on the possibility that President Johnson might attend the game. He said three officers remained in the stadium all week and three police cars patrolled the area.

At least 35 detectives spent New Year's Eve in the Cotton Bowl and "many, many more were stationed throughout the stands during the game," he said.

He said the Police Department received word a bomb would be planted in the stadium and "it took 14 hours to determine there wasn't a bomb."

During the first half police asked all persons leaving the gates of the stadium on the side where Lynda Bird sat to sign their names in a register. This was not done on the side where police said Lucy Baines sat.

WROTE ANTHEM

Francis Scott Key, a lawyer, happened to write the U.S. national anthem because he was visiting the British fleet in the Chesapeake trying to arrange for the release of a friend, thus coming to witness the shelling of Fort McHenry, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Irwin Claims He Had No Part In Kidnaping

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John Irwin, one of three men accused of kidnaping Frank Sinatra Jr., says he "went along to make sure no one got hurt."

Irwin, 42, talked with newsmen briefly Monday after a federal judge reduced his bail from $50,000 to $30,000.

He said he was innocent of any part in the kidnaping of young Sinatra at Lake Tahoe.

The young singer was kidnaped from a Stateline, Calif., motel Dec. 8. Three days later he was returned to his parents in Los Angeles for a $240,000 ransom.

Irwin said he spent only about $31 of the $48,000 in ransom money he received.

"I bought some toys for my kids and something for my wife," he said, "but I had a check in my pocket and I honestly intended to cash it and make up the difference."

Bail reduction followed a plea by Irwin's attorney, Gladys Towles Root.

"It was Mr. Irwin who first called the editor of a newspaper to turn himself in. By that action the FBI was informed. They came to where he said he would be and by his action they apprehended other persons — probably not all persons but other persons," said Mrs. Root.

Barry Keenan and Joseph Clyde Amsler, both 23, are also accused in the kidnaping. A federal grand jury will resume study of the case Thursday.

Nevada Plans Year-Long 100th Birthday Event

By BILL STALL

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — This sprightly little lady of a state is 100 years old in 1964 and she's making no bones about it. She's been primping for two years now to provide a big birthday party for Nevada residents and to entice as many non-Nevadans as possible to join in the fun.

And if the out-of-state folk decide to stay for a few days, drop a few coins in the slot machines and spend some money for souvenirs, so much the better.

The spree starts Jan. 1 and runs all year but has a focal point in Admission Day activities in Carson City, the capital, Oct. 31.

Gov. Grant Sawyer calls it "an opportunity for us to let the nation and the world know that Nevada is dedicating itself to a new century of progress with the same enthusiasm and fervor exhibited by our forefathers one hundred years ago."

But a 75-page centennial commission planning booklet also makes clear the centennial is a good time to do some horn-blowing: "The publicity value to be gained by the state during the centennial year cannot be estimated in dollars and cents."

The man chosen to see the state takes advantage of every practical promotion opportunity is Clyde Anderson, whose showman's background runs from the circus to theater and television production.

"We're a glorified tourist bureau in a way," Anderson says from behind a desk cluttered with papers and a variety of gadgets bearing the centennial seal.

The commission has a budget of $250,000 and figures to augment that with another $80,000, having sold rights to the seal for commercial uses. The commission couldn't hope to sponsor the programs it wants, even with $2 million, Anderson says.

Anderson and the commission encourage communities with established events such as fairs and rodeos to package them in a centennial theme. Counties and towns are urged to launch new celebrations that will carry on after the centennial party is over.

The Washoe County committee decided to revive the national air races, discontinued after the 1952 edition in Cleveland, partly because of safety reasons.

Several counties plan to kick off local celebrations with costume balls. Visitors will be able to watch the camel races in Virginia City and burro races in Nye County—both with centennial twists. They'll pan for gold from a sluice box in the streets of Winnemucca, and watch men racing with bags of wheat over their shoulders from Wabuska to Pizen Switch, now called Yerington. Wells residents are thinking of sprucing up their buildings with false fronts.

Nevada Plans Year-Long 100th Birthday Event

By BILL STALL

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — This sprightly little lady of a state is 100 years old in 1964 and she's making no bones about it.

She's been primping for two years now to provide a big birthday party for Nevada residents and to entice as many non-Nevadans as possible to join in the fun.

And if the out-of-state folk decide to stay for a few days, drop a few coins in the slot machines and spend some money for souvenirs, so much the better.

The spree starts Jan. 1 and runs all year but has a focal point in Admission Day activities in Carson City, the capital, Oct. 31.

Why spend more than $300,000, as Nevada plans, for a birthday party?

Gov. Grant Sawyer calls it "an opportunity for us to let the nation and the world know that Nevada is dedicating itself to a new century of progress with the same enthusiasm and fervor exhibited by our forefathers one hundred years ago."

But a 75-page centennial commission planning booklet also makes clear the centennial is a good time to do some horn-blowing: "The publicity value to be gained by the state during the centennial year cannot be estimated in dollars and cents."

The man chosen to see the state takes advantage of every practical promotion opportunity is Clyde Anderson, whose showman's background runs from the circus to theater and television production.

"We're a glorified tourist bureau in a way," Anderson says from behind a desk cluttered with papers and a variety of gadgets bearing the centennial seal.

The commission has a budget of $250,000 and figures to augment that with another $80,000, having sold rights to the seal for commercial uses. The commission couldn't hope to sponsor the programs it wants, even with $2 million, Anderson says.

Anderson and the commission encourage communities with established events such as fairs and rodeos to package them in a centennial theme. Counties and towns are urged to launch new celebrations that will carry on after the centennial party is over.

The Washoe County committee decided to revive the national air races, discontinued after the 1952 edition in Cleveland, partly because of safety reasons.

"This thing could be the greatest," Anderson says of the races, scheduled in the Reno area in September. "There's plenty of space out here."

Several counties plan to kick off local celebrations with costume balls. Visitors will be able to watch the camel races in Virginia City and burro races in Nye County—both with centennial twists. They'll pan for gold from a sluice box in the streets of Winnemucca, and watch men racing with bags of wheat over their shoulders from Wabuska to Pizen Switch, now called Yerington. Wells residents are thinking of sprucing up their buildings with false fronts.

The U.S. Mint, headed by Nevada's Eva Adams, has been authorized by Congress to strike 20,000 centennial medallions that will sell at Nevada banks for $5 each. They'll be made from Nevada silver providing enough can be obtained. The fabulous Comstock mines have long since been boarded up.

Legend is Nevada was wanted in the Union during the final throes of the Civil War because its silver was needed to help finance the fighting and Lincoln felt Nevada's free state votes would ensure enactment of the abolition amendment.

Nevada calls itself the "Battle Born State" and the legend, "All for our Country," is the motto.

The novelty products company which bought rights to the seal plans to use it on 100 items including key rings, T-shirts, place mats, date books, water glasses and ashtrays. It can also be found on the telephone book, cowboy boots, a whiskey decanter, Colt .45 revolver, blue jeans, miners' shirts (bright red), jackets and the side of a trans-continental bus.

There's a commercial angle behind much of the centennial planning, Anderson admits. But he says no one has complained yet.

Traffic Threatens Many An Old English Town

By NEA

Next to his wife, it is his most treasured possession. In fact, many Englishmen lavish more care on their Humbers and Hillmans than they do on their wives.

Overnight the snazzy sports car which the Englishman has been nurturing all these years has changed from a lovable, almost cuddly object to a snarling monster with bared fangs.

Moreover, the monster has gone on the rampage and is threatening the Englishman's way of life.

This, at least, is the conclusion of an exhaustive report on "Traffic in Towns," which has just been made public here by Ernest Marples, the British minister of transport.

The report was prepared by Professor Colin Buchanan, an architect, civil engineer and town planner, who with a six-man team, has been studying the clogged arteries of British traffic for the past three years.

Among other changes, the Buchanan report recommends that the auto be restricted, or in some cases, banned from congested city areas. It also envisages that British cities may have to be redeveloped on a three-tier basis in order to separate cars from people.

The Buchanan report starts out with gloomy forebodings. Fifty years from now there will be 41 million vehicles on British roads as compared to the present 10½ million.

Nearly half of this increase will come in the next 10 years (18 million cars by 1970), and the number of vehicles will treble within the next 20 years.

The monster "if given its head, will wreck our towns within a decade," the report warns.

Again: "Unless steps are taken, the motor vehicle will defeat its own utility and bring about a disastrous degradation of the surroundings for living."

All of this may sound familar to Americans living in urban areas, but it has the ring of novelty here. No one has ever told the British motorist before that he is harboring a Frankenstein's monster in his garage.

Among the recommendations which the Buchanan report makes are:

Redevelopment of large cities on two or three different levels, with primary roads built underground, secondary roads and parking facilities at ground level, traffic-free shops and living space located on a tier above the present ground level.

Creation of "environmental areas" where through traffic would be banned. These areas might be residential, commercial or industrial, or mixed; but each would become a terminus for traffic, which would not be allowed to enter unless it had business there. The areas would be connected by a network of "distributor" roads.

Development of efficient public transport systems to encourage workers to leave their cars at home.

Outright restriction of cars in some city areas either by limiting the parking space, or by taxing those motorists who insist upon driving their cars where they will cause congestion.

Spending on urban roads is to be stepped up here from the present $150 million a year to $420 million a year by 1970. Even so, the cost of putting the Buchanan recommendations into effect would be astronomical, the experts agree.

The British government, which has accepted the Buchanan report in principle, seems prepared, however, to take drastic steps to save the cities from strangulation.

In making his study, Prof. Buchanan was unable to draw much comfort from methods used in the United States to deal with traffic. Merely to build American-style freeways is not enough, the professor found.

British cities are packed with history as well as with buildings, and to drive motorways through them on the American scale would destroy much of the British heritage.

Sugar Cane Has High Priority in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana Radio indicates the forthcoming sugar cane harvest has a higher priority on the Cuban army's time than today's Havana observance of Fidel Castro's fifth anniversary in power.

A broadcast Wednesday, monitored in Miami, said "We thought of saluting this anniversary with a military parade, but decided that to frighten the reactionaries wandering around, it would be best to hold a rally of workers and peasants."

Green Mountain Falls News

By CAROLYN McADAMS — MU 7-9065

Among the comings, goings and doings of neighbors, relatives and friends during the Christmas week holidays were many dinner parties, buffets and open house gatherings.

The family reunion at the home of pioneer residents Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Gayler on Christmas day included their three sons and a daughter with their families. They have visited their parents for the holiday for over 31 consecutive years. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Les Gayler and children, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gayler, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bear and son, Kevin; Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Gayler and daughter Jody Gayler; Mr. Jack Gayler; Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Tanberg and three children. Eighteen in all.

Twenty-five members of the Houchin and White families assembled Christmas Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene White. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent McMorrow and daughter of Salida, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Houchin and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Houchin and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald White and their three children, Mr. and Mrs. Donald White and family. Mrs. Zella Houchin, paternal grandmother and great grandmother, is spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Edith Etherton, in Buffalo, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bucher, Paint Pony Country Club, entertained dinner guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Whittaker and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Lamb.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elwell for a Sunday supper were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. McAdams and Mr. and Mrs. Farley Reasonover.

Stan Bush, of Littleton, Colo., arrived December 21 to spend the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Sallie Bush.

Dinner guests Monday, December 23, at Trail's End, residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bucher were Mr. and Mrs. L. H. McAdams, Mr. and Mrs. George Roth and Mr. and Mrs. Farley Reasonover.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones; Mrs. C. H. Hall, with Sgt. Major Joseph Locker, enjoyed Christmas dinner at the Fort Carson Officers Dining Hall, and visited the Seven Falls in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis Jr. and family visited maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Conn in Green Mountain Falls and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis Sr., in Colorado Springs for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gugliotta left Dec. 23 to spend Christmas with his brother, Don Gugliotta, in North Hollywood, Calif. They will be away about two weeks, for a vacation from business.

All of the boys at the Brockhurst Boys Ranch were able to go home for Christmas, except one who spent the day with Richard Rossi in Chipita Park. Bob Neal wishes to thank the patron for financing the round trip bus ticket to visit his parents in Portland, Ore., for a week.

Twenty teen-age folks in the area attended the "Record Hop" dance and party Monday evening, Dec. 23, held at the Hitchin Post Club House. After placing decorations on the tree and exchanging gifts a snack lunch was enjoyed. A physical education teacher and his wife from the Air Academy chaperoned the party. The first membership meeting in 1964 will be held at the Hitchin Post Monday, Jan. 6. All members and prospective members of the Ute Pass Junior Saddle Club are cordially invited.

Mrs. June Pickett and Mrs. Phyllis Giles entertained 15 boys and girls, age up to ten years, with a "Tree Decorating" Christmas party, from 1 to 3 p.m., Dec. 23, at the Hitchin Post. Exchanging small gifts and playing games of thought and wit were enjoyed.

The annual community skating party at the Lake in Green Mountain Falls, sponsored by Boy Scout Troop 26, will be scheduled early in January, after all members are back from Christmas vacations.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Smischny, Lucky Four Ranch, Peacock Mountain, returned home December 26 from a 32 days vacation by motor. They spent six days in WashingtonD.C., where they lunched with Representative J. Edgar Chenoweth, also visited the Senate and House of Representatives while they were in session. Among the many places visited were the Capitol Building, the White House, the FBI Building, Mt. Vernon and George Washington's tomb. Then on to New York, followed by a trip down to St. Petersburg, Fla., where they they visited Mrs. Smischny's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hads, who joined them in Holly, Colo. at the home of Mrs. Clarice D'Arcy and children, sister of Mrs. Smischny for Christmas day. Of all the states, cities and miles traveled none can compare with their home in Colorado, where Pikes Peak is covered with snow, flooded with sunshine and the temperature is a balmy 50 degrees.

The community is saddened by the death of Mrs. G.G. Gayler, Dec. 30, at 1 a.m. One of the oldest residents in Green Mountain Falls, a family reunion of eighteen children and grandchildren assembled at the G.G. Gayler home for the 31st consecutive year to enjoy Christmas Day dinner. The sincere sympathy of everyone is extended to the family. Services for Mrs. Gayler will be at the Blunt Mortuary, Thursday, Jan. 2, at 1 p.m., with burial at Fairview Cemetery of South 26th St.

Sunday morning at the regular worship service, Church in the Wildwood, the installation of new officers and board members was observed. The election of new church officers was held December 1, at the annual membership meeting.

Nobody Injured in Emergency Landing

BOSTON (AP) — A Convair 880 jet, carrying 71 persons and crippled by a collapsed landing gear, skidded on a sanded runway, spun around and came to rest on a wingtip Wednesday night.

None of the 63 pasengers and eight crewmen was injured. A Trans World Airlines spokesman said damage to the plane was minor.

Snow and sleet had fallen intermittently during the day and visibility was poor as pilot Burgess Murdock of Chicago prepared to land at Logan International Airport on the last leg of a flight from Denver.

TWA said the ship's right landing gear collapsed when the plane touched down. The plane tilted over on its right wing, causing a wing tank to rupture and spew 3,000 gallons of fuel over the runway. There was no fire.

FRAT FORT HOLDS OUT

GAINESVILE, Fla. (AP) — Phi Kappa Tau fraternity has had trouble demolishing a fort. More than 2,000 man - hours went into the construction which took first place in the homecoming decorations contest. Fraternity members voted to try to sell the fort instead of junking it.

Defense Secrets Opened To 'Trustworthy Scholars'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has issued a new standard rule under which classified defense information may be opened to "trustworthy" scholars and others engaged in historical research, it was learned today.

The rule, in effect, requires such private citizens to pass the same kind of a security check as is given to civilian workers for the Defense Department.

This means a search of their background for any possible criminal or subversive record or connection.

"It treats these researchers from the security standpoint as though they were employes of the department," one official explained.

Until recetnly, each of the armed services and defense agencies imposed its own standards on outside researchers seeking access to classified material.

Some standards were stiff; some lenient. Some caused needless embarrassment, officials said.

The new rule applies throughout the Defense Department and is aimed at laying down uniform clearance requirements for researchers.

It was inserted about two weeks ago into a 1957 directive on "safe-guarding official information in the interests of the defense of the United States."

The amendment says:

"Persons outside the executive branch performing functions in connection with historical research projects may be permitted to have access to classified defense information, provided:

"1. It is determined that such access is clearly consistent with the interests of national defense, and

"2. The person to be granted access has been determined to be trustworthy" in accordance with certain criteria.

Officials said the clearance requirements will be minimum.

The new regulation calls for steps "to assure that classified defense information is not published or otherwise compromised."

It requires that any historical notes and manuscripts based on research in classified records by persons outside the government shall be submitted for a security censorship review.

ENGINEERING WONDERS

Seven wonders of American engineering are said to be the Panama Canal, Empire State Building, Hoover Dam, San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, Colorado River Aqueduct, Chicago's Sewage-Disposal System and Grand Coulee Dam.

Final Details Worked Out for Pope's Journey

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican and the Italian government worked today on final details for Pope Paul VI's flight to the Holy Land Saturday.

The Italian government plans a big send-off for the Roman Catholic pontiff as the head of the tiny Vatican State.

A squadron of Italian air force F-84 jet fighters was assigned to escort the Pope's special Alitalia Airlines jetliner to international waters. The military planes also will greet the Pope's return flight from Jordan and Israel Monday.

Romans who attended New Year's Day masses at churches along the papal route to the airport were told the time to gather to cheer the pontiff on his way.

Pope Paul was in the midst of a 3-day period of intensified prayer to prepare for his historic trip.

An afternoon spiritual retreat, or period of withdrawal from normal routine to pray and meditate, was scheduled in a Vatican chapel for the three cardinals and 30 other Vatican aides who will accompany the pontiff.

The cardinals are Eugene Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals; Amleto Cicognani, Vatican secretary of state; and Gustavo Testa, secretary of the Vatican Congregation for the Oriental (Eastern) Church.

The Pope in an appearance before a New Year's Day crowd of 30,000 in St. Peter's Square said his trip "may have an impact for many years to come."

"We will remember you and will pray for God to give you grace," he said.

He added that a second great event of 1964 would be resumption of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, "which must be conducted to a good end." This was taken as an indication that the Pope hopes the council, which began in 1962, will wind up its work at its third session beginning in September.

In Jordan, where the Pope will arrive in the Holy Land, King Hussein in a radio address called on his people to give the Roman Catholic leader "a clear picture of your unity and of the heavenly ties between Christianity and Islam."

Referring to the Arab-Israeli war of 1948, Hussein said:

"Although His Holiness will see the catastrophe that has befallen the Arabs of Palestine and feel the great damage caused by it to the Holy Land, we believe His Holiness will also see the determination of the Jordanian people and the Arab world to preserve the holy places, protect them and facilitate and secure pilgrimage for all the people of the world."

Baby Not Hurt in Ambulance Crash

OSLO, Norway (AP)—A baby born New Year's Day in Oslo developed breathing trouble and an ambulance was called to take it to the city hospital incubator.

On its way to the hospital, the ambulance skidded on the ice and smashed into a wall. The baby's nurse and the ambulance driver suffered cuts.

A passing motorist drove the nurse, baby and driver to the city hospital. Officials said the baby was not hurt and its condition today was good.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — This is no day for deep thinkers, or analysts in depth or opinionated papas and mamas. It is however a day for childish games of nonsense, like an educated guessing contest about what lies ahead politically.

In this blythe spirit, six members of this Washington bureau offer their 1964 predictions (prizes if any to be distributed a year from now): —

Ted Lewis:—

1. President Johnson's popularity ratings will level off to 55 per cent by June. He will win in November but it will be as close an election as that of 1960.

2. Johnson's Democratic running mate will be Sargent Shriver.

3. The Republican ticket will be Gov. Scranton for president, Barry Goldwater for Vice president.

4. Johnson will win by carrying all of the south (except Mississippi which will pick independent electors), all the border states except Oklahoma. Plus Illinois, California, a 50-50 share of the farm and mountain states, but in the east only New York and Massachusetts. (The pattern will be similar to that which gave Harry Truman victory in 1948 over Gov. Dewey.)

Jerry Greene:—

1. Johnson's popularity will increase and he will win the November election comfortably.

2. Goldwater will be the Republican presidential nominee and will pick Scranton as his running mate.

3. Gov. Pat Brown will emerge as a potent force in the national scene, but Sen. Hubert Humphrey will be the Democratic Vice-Presidential nominee.

4. Henry Cabot Lodge will be saddled with much responsibility for the mess in South Viet-Nam, getting the administration somewhat off the hook, and removing him from any serious presidential consideration.

Frank Holeman:—

1. Six months from now President Johnson's popularity will be much lower than it is today because of civil rights and unemployment troubles coming up.

3. The G.O.P. ticket will be Goldwater and Scranton. Goldwater will rebound from his present low on a wave of civil rights disturbances next spring.

4. Johnson will win the election because there are more Democrats than Republicans in the country and Goldwater won't get many democratic votes outside the south.

Jack Metcalfe:—

1. William Scranton will be nominated as the Republican presidential candidate after deadlocked convention ballots at least 10 times.

2. Johnson administration will make concerted effort to improve relations with Russia, including summit meeting with Khrushchev and greatly stepped up east-west trade, in attempt to widen Moscow-Peking split. This will lead to "soft on commies" charges.

3. Nevertheless, Johnson will be elected by the widest margin since Eisenhower beat Stevenson in 1956 (electoral count then 457-73, popular vote 35,585,316 - 26,031,322).

4. Sargent Shriver will be Johnson's running mate. The GOP Vice Presidential candidate will be Gov. Mark Hatfield.

Michael J. O'Neill:—

1. LBJ may be more popular in 6 months. His southern conservative image, which has been a liability, should dissolve in his performance in office and should give him a national standing which he has always lacked.

2. Senator Humphrey or Sargent Shriver of the Peace Corps are the kind of men who might win the second spot. Johnson probably will want a useful liberal to carry on the Kennedy image.

3. Scranton looks like a front-runner now, but Nixon will get the nod in any kind of deadlock.

4. Unless he stumbles badly, Johnson should win in November. He has some political assets, where Kennedy was weak, and has made fewer enemies among civil rights opponents and business leaders.

Paul Healy:—

1. Johnson will prove to be the most astute politician in White House since FDR. Will need a liberal northern intellectual Catholic to counter - balance his image. No one else quite fills this bill like Sen. Eugene McCarthy. (Who has the virtue of having spoken up publicly for LBJ just before the '60 convention while also having made a nominating speech for Adlai Stevenson that was considered best speech at Los Angeles. LBJ will need the dyed - in - liberal - wool Stevensonians.)

2. Once Scranton put his foot in the presidential door the other day he was a goner, since, presumably, he can carry Pennsylvania, can get backing of the Eisenhower Republicans, and show signs of being the best campaigner - with - sex - appeal vs. Johnson.

3. Goldwater will hold out to the bitter end to keep from becoming V.P. nominee but will yield to the pleas of his considerable faction, by then, thoroughly frustrated, at the San Francisco convention.

4. The November winner — Johnson in a big way.

New Year Celebrated Thruout World

NEW YORK (AP) — Revelry, prayer and hopeful messages of peace marked the start of the new year around the world.

Times Square had its biggest crowd in years for the countdown to 1964 — an estimated 300,000. A few blocks away, 3,000 persons dined and danced in Grand Central Terminal in one of the largest New Year's Eve parties. It was a benefit ball for the National Association for Mental Health.

Fireworks illuminated the skies over the Berlin Wall. Parisians leaned on automobile horns on the Champs Elysees. Spaniards ate 12 grapes at midnight. Italians threw crockery from windows. And residents of Buenos Aires tossed tons of ticker tape and old calendars from windows.

In his note to Johnson he expressed hope for progress in bettering relations between the United States and the Soviet Union "for a more lasting world peace."

Johnson answered, in part: "The American people and their government have set the strengthening of peace as their highest purpose in the year."

Pope Paul VI began the new year with a mass in his private chapel. At noon he told a throng of 30,000 in St. Peter's Square the new year "seems to inspire serene wishes of peace and well-being for all."

Americans consumed 16.06 pounds of coffee per person in 1961, according to a Census Bureau summary.

Final Details Worked Out for Pope's Journey

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican and the Italian government worked today on final details for Pope Paul VI's flight to the Holy Land Saturday.

The Italian government plans a big send-off for the Roman Catholic pontiff as the head of the tiny Vatican State.

A squadron of Italian air force F-84 jet fighters was assigned to escort the Pope's special Alitalia Airlines jetliner to international waters. The military planes also will greet the Pope's return flight from Jordan and Israel Monday.

Romans who attended New Year's Day masses at churches along the papal route to the airport were told the time to gather to cheer the pontiff on his way.

Pope Paul was in the midst of a 3-day period of intensified prayer to prepare for his historic trip.

An afternoon spiritual retreat, or period of withdrawal from normal routine to pray and meditate, was scheduled in a Vatican chapel for the three cardinals and 30 other Vatican aides who will accompany the pontiff.

The cardinals are Eugene Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals; Amleto Cicognani, Vatican secretary of state; and Gustavo Testa, secretary of the Vatican Congregation for the Oriental (Eastern) Church.

The Pope in an appearance before a New Year's Day crowd of 30,000 in St. Peter's Square said his trip "may have an impact for many years to come."

"We will remember you and will pray for God to give you grace," he said.

He added that a second great event of 1964 would be resumption of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, "which must be conducted to a good end." This was taken as an indication that the Pope hopes the council, which began in 1962, will wind up its work at its third session beginning in September.

In Jordan, where the Pope will arrive in the Holy Land, King Hussein in a radio address called on his people to give the Roman Catholic leader "a clear picture of your unity and of the heavenly ties between Christianity and Islam."

Referring to the Arab-Israeli war of 1948, Hussein said:

"Although His Holiness will see the catastrophe that has befallen the Arabs of Palestine and feel the great damage caused by it to the Holy Land, we believe His Holiness will also see the determination of the Jordanian people and the Arab world to preserve the holy places, protect them and facilitate and secure pilgrimage for all the people of the world."

Baby Not Hurt in Ambulance Crash

OSLO, Norway (AP)—A baby born New Year's Day in Oslo developed breathing trouble and an ambulance was called to take it to the city hospital incubator.

On its way to the hospital, the ambulance skidded on the ice and smashed into a wall. The baby's nurse and the ambulance driver suffered cuts.

A passing motorist drove the nurse, baby and driver to the city hospital. Officials said the baby was not hurt and its condition today was good.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — This is no day for deep thinkers, or analysts in depth or opinionated papas and mamas. It is however a day for childish games of nonsense, like an educated guessing contest about what lies ahead politically.

In this blythe spirit, six members of this Washington bureau offer their 1964 predictions (prizes if any to be distributed a year from now): —

Ted Lewis:—

1. President Johnson's popularity ratings will level off to 55 per cent by June. He will win in November but it will be as close an election as that of 1960.

2. Johnson's Democratic running mate will be Sargent Shriver.

3. The Republican ticket will be Gov. Scranton for president, Barry Goldwater for Vice president.

4. Johnson will win by carrying all of the south (except Mississippi which will pick independent electors), all the border states except Oklahoma. Plus Illinois, California, a 50-50 share of the farm and mountain states, but in the east only New York and Massachusetts. (The pattern will be similar to that which gave Harry Truman victory in 1948 over Gov. Dewey.)

Jerry Greene:—

1. Johnson's popularity will increase and he will win the November election comfortably.

2. Goldwater will be the Republican presidential nominee and will pick Scranton as his running mate.

3. Gov. Pat Brown will emerge as a potent force in the national scene, but Sen. Hubert Humphrey will be the Democratic Vice-Presidential nominee.

4. Henry Cabot Lodge will be saddled with much responsibility for the mess in South Viet-Nam, getting the administration somewhat off the hook, and removing him from any serious presidential consideration.
